The Sydney Morning Herald.

No. 23,963. Registered at the General Post Office, Sydney, for transmission by post as a Newspaper. SYDNEY, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1914. 18 PAGES. PRICE, 1d.

SUMMARY.

A Paris communique states that the Allies maintained their front from Nieuport to Dixmude on Sunday.

The Germans who crossed the Yser did not progress further. They have sustained considerable losses during the last few days.

The Germans are reported to have re-occupied Roulers, but the Allies have gained ground near Nieuport.

Ghent and Roulers are full of German wounded.

The citizens of Roulers were again marched in front of the German troops when the latter advanced to battle.

About 1000 of the inhabitants of Roulers were murdered. The Church of Notre Dame was plundered and destroyed.

A vessel conveying Belgian refugees struck a mine off Boulogne.

A panic ensued, and 30 were drowned. The rest were landed at Folkestone.

A message from German sources states that the French are strengthening the forts in the vicinity of Belfort and Mulhausen.

The correspondent of the "Messagero" at Petrograd states that the Austrian right has been completely turned.

The Germans in Poland continue in retreat towards Kalisz, WSW of Warsaw.

The Russian cavalry gives the Germans no rest, and the latter are demoralised.

The Germans are evacuating Lodz, 75 miles west-south-west of Warsaw.

Vienna newspapers state that a new Austrian aerial dreadnought, which cost £5400 collapsed on its first trial.

The British and Russian Ambassadors have informed the Porte that they do not recognise the sale of the Goeben and Breslau.

The Allied fleet, they state, will attack the cruisers the next time they come out.

It is reported that the Japanese artillery has sunk an Austrian cruiser in Kiao-chao Bay.

Count von Bernstorff claims Germany's right to land troops in Canada if possible.

As Canada had sent troops against Germany such a step, he declares, would not be an infringement of the Monroe doctrine.

Japan has protested to the United States against the German gunboat Geier remaining any longer at Honolulu.

The Germans in the Straits Settlements adjacent to British territories have been interned.

Colonel Maritz has been completely defeated in the neighbourhood of Kakamas, a township on the Orange river.

In the fight, Colonel Maritz was wounded, and fled into German territory.

In the libel action, Watt v the Melbourne "Age," the jury returned a verdict for plaintiff with £1000 damages.

Arrangements were made by cable yesterday for paying to Belgium the grant of £100,000 by the Federal Parliament.

The results of the annual examination for evening continuation school certificates are published.

Nearly 300 candidates sat for the examination, and 182, equal to 62.5 per cent., were successful.

Reference was made at the meeting of the works committee of the City Council to preference to British-made articles.

The opinion was expressed that all public bodies should, when engaging workers, give preference to British subjects.

Victorian millers have asked the Price of Goods Board to make stocks of wheat, said to be held up, available.

The chairman of the board expressed his belief in the existence of a corner in wheat.

The position of the men on strike on the Maitland coalfield was discussed by the Labour Federation yesterday.

It was stated that the men were solid in their determination not to work the afternoon shift.

In the Industrial Court, a charge of instigating a strike of professional musicians, was preferred against the union secretary.

The charge was based on an allegation that strike pay had been paid to the members of the orchestra out of work.

The case was not concluded when the Court adjourned till Thursday morning.

Mr. Justice Heydon delivered his reserved judgment in the appeal by the Typographical Association against the rates.

His Honor dismissed the application for an increase, holding that the rates awarded were fair.

The secretary of the Railway Workers' Society referred yesterday to Mr. Justice Heydon's decision in regard to union levies.

Steps would immediately be taken, he said, towards securing an amendment of the Trades Union Act.

The evidence on both sides in the theatrical action—Anderson v Allan, for alleged breach of agreement—was closed yesterday.

Counsel completed their addresses, but his Honor has not yet finished his summing up to the jury.

The demarcation conference on the recent trouble at Cockatoo Dock has arrived at a decision in each of the 742 claims heard.

The findings of the conference are to be brought before the demarcation board, with a view to having them made law.

The Consul for Chili at Newcastle states that there is a danger of the Newcastle coal trade with Chili being lost.

Another section of the duplication of the South Coast railway has been commenced between Scarborough and Coledale.

Two watchmen, while travelling on a trolley at Milton viaduct cutting (Vic.), were run down by a train and killed.

The military funeral of Private Walker, the victim of the machine-gun accident, took place at Goulburn, and was impressive.

Eight-Hour Day at Orange passed off successfully. The procession was the best ever organised in the town.

At the dinner in the evening stress was laid upon the necessity for harmony and unity at this period.

There is an epidemic of diphtheria at Bathurst, and two deaths have occurred in the hospital.

An old German, who lived as a hermit, has died at Auckland, leaving cash and property valued at £20,000.

A deaf and dumb woman was killed on the railway line at Charters Towers yesterday.

There has been an encouraging response to the call for troops for the Second Expeditionary Force in Queensland.

Appreciation was expressed in the Council at the patriotic action of Dr. Beeston and Dr. Nash in joining the Expeditionary Force.

Splendid rains have fallen over a large area in the southern portions of Western Australia.

In the eastern agricultural districts, where rain is badly needed, the falls were very small.

A young man named Kenneth Hayes was killed as the result of a motor car accident in the main street of Collie.

In the gallops at Flemington yesterday morning Sir Alwynton shaped well, and Woorak did attractive work.

At Caulfield, Alcconner, St. Carwyne, and Gladwyn went well.

The final acceptances for the Melbourne Cup total 33, or 13 in excess of those of last year.

The heat was very severe at Broken Hill yesterday, 99deg. in the shade being registered.

There was again no wheat to be had yesterday at the proclaimed price of 4s 6d a bushel. Flour was available at £9 17s 6d.

A strong demand for bran and pollard was reported from Western Australia and South Australia.

A moderate volume of business was transacted on 'Change yesterday. Prices were practically unaltered.

Business in the Mining market was at a standstill. Quotations, however, were steady.

The hot weather brought an improved demand for new-laid eggs, and prices advanced to 1½d.

Forecast:—Fine generally, except for some showers and thunder in the south-east; still hot and sultry in the north.

FARMER'S, SYDNEY. THE HOUSE OF DISTINCTION.

AUSTRALIAN FURS AS XMAS GIFTS FOR FRIENDS AT HOME.

Owing to deferred Sydney sales, there will be a scarcity of Australian Furs in England. The wave of patriotism has brought Australia well under English notice, and, for Empire reasons, a gift of Furs of Australian origin and Australian make, will be appreciated by friends at Home, especially at Christmas time, when winter reigns. Again, such a gift will be all the more valued because furs such as Coney and Squirrel, which come from European countries, will be scarce and expensive in England.

Our skins are all SPECIALLY SELECTED, "average" and "good" not being up to the standard we demand for our creations.

NATURAL AUSTRALIAN FOX NECKLETS, lined Silk; finished Head and Brush. PRICE, 25/.

SHOULDER SHAPE, MADE FROM 2 SKINS, deep cape at back, finished 2 brushes in front, and lined Silk. PRICE, 50/.

THROWOVER SHAPE, 2 skins lined silk, finished brushes. PRICE, 30/.

POUCH MUFF, Head in front, Brush at back, beautifully lined silk. PRICE, 27/6.

Same shapes dyed Black. PRICE, 5/6 skin extra.

ELEGANT FUR COAT, made from the Natural New Zealand Rabbit, lined Mole or Buttercup. 44 inches long. PRICE, 12 gns.

SHORT CUT-AWAY COAT, in shape greatly favoured at Home, lined Mole Brocaded Silk. PRICE, 10 gns.

NEW ZEALAND RABBIT is much sought after as a serviceable coat.

NEW ZEALAND RABBIT SETS.

HANDSOME STOLE, 10 inches x 2¼ yds. long, with large Pillow Muff to match, lined Mole Cashmere-de-Soie. Price, 6½ guineas each.

All the above furs are made in our own workrooms under closest supervision.

PATRONS' FURS MAY BE STORED AT FARMER'S FOR A VERY TRIFLING COST.

Our system of storing Furs during the summer months enables Patrons to keep their Furs absolutely free from moth, and ensures their return in perfect condition. The charge is but small.

ODRALINE, AN EFFECTIVE MOTH PREVENTIVE.

Farmer's "Odraline" keeps moths away from furs, woollens, etc. It is obtainable in tins. Prices, 6d and 1/ each.

FIRST FLOOR, PITT-STREET.

TOBRALCO, THE IDEAL WASHING FABRIC.

Constant washing only improves the appearance of Tobralco, and brings out the silky self-colour design. This splendid material retains its freshness and daintiness until the end. The White Tobralco washes as snowy white as the finest linen, whilst the coloured varieties are made with absolutely indelible dyes. The assortment of designs in Tobralco is most comprehensive; for ladies' and children's dresses it is quite the most useful, and at the same time, attractive material obtainable. In all White, scores of neat effects, 28 inches wide. Price, per yard, 10½d; Price, per dozen yards, 10/3. We have also an enormous range of PLAIN COLOURS, in small spot, striped, or haircord effects; also in White Grounds, with pretty floral effects, in small designs, or haircord checks, 28 inches wide. Price, per yard, 11½d; Price, per dozen yards, 11/2.

FIRST FLOOR, PITT-STREET.

SMART SUMMER WASHING FROCKS MADE TO ORDER AT FARMER'S.

Specially moderate charges prevail during this week in our Dressmaking-to-Order Department, and they apply particularly to the smart Washing Frocks which we are featuring. The Wash Fabrics which we offer our clients for selection are charming to the last degree, and withal exclusive. Frocks made up in these dainty materials in Farmer's inimitable manner will be greatly admired wherever worn.

Our Costumiers will be pleased to suggest special styles or make up any design FOR GARDEN PARTY or RACE WEAR. WASHING FROCKS MADE-TO-ORDER, FROM 3 GUINEAS. SMART SUMMER COATS and SKIRTS FROM 4½ GUINEAS.

FERTILISERS FOR THE GARDEN.

The PRINCIPLE OBJECT in view when applying any Fertiliser is, of course, TO OBTAIN GOOD VIGOROUS GROWTH and productiveness from the various plants that are to occupy the ground. As a rule, a liberal supply of stable manure is a good thing, but, in addition to this, something that is of a lasting character is advisable.

WE SELL FERTILISERS, and for general purposes Anderson's "Excellenta" is recommended, because it not only gives quick results, but is also on a lasting nature.

EXCELLENTA. Cwts., 13/; 56lb, 7/6; 28lb, 4/6; 14lb, 2/6. Also in tins, 1/. Can also be supplied by the ton.

ANDERSON'S SPECIAL BONE DUST. Cwt., 8/; 56lb, 4/6, 28lb, 2/6; 14lb, 1/6.

ANDERSON'S SPECIAL BLOOD AND BONE. Cwt., 8/6; 56lb, 4/9; 28lb, 2/9; 14lb, 1/9. Special quotes for ton lots.

FOR THE NEW DRESSES.

To borrow a phrase from "THE GONDOLIERS," the presentation of which at HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE is DELIGHTING Sydney LOVERS of COMIC OPERA, ANTHONY HORDERNS', like the DUKE of PLAZA TORO, SET THE FASHION.

IN OTHER WORDS, YEAR in and YEAR out WE take the LEAD by GIVING MORE for FIFTEEN shillings expended at the NEW PALACE EMPORIUM than can be OBTAINED ELSEWHERE for a SOVEREIGN.

LADIES who have BROUGHT SHOPPING to a FINE ART are our MOST CONSISTENT PATRONS; they have LONG SINCE RECOGNISED that TOP QUALITY at BOTTOM PRICE is the PRINCIPLE that governs ALL our BUSINESS operations. On THIS point, in the LANGUAGE of the GILBERTIAN GRAND INQUISITOR, there is NO POSSIBLE DOUBT WHATEVER. As an EXAMPLE we enumerate the NEW DRESS MATERIALS, and QUOTE them at ANTHONY HORDERNS' FAMOUS LOW PRICES.

AN OIL PAINTING.
BY THE NEW PROCESS.
A CHARMING LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT.
FREE, FREE, FREE,
AS AN ADVERTISEMENT.
READ, MARK, LEARN, AND GET A PRIZE.

In introducing the new and wonderful life-like Oil Colour Portraits to Sydney, we are, for the purpose of a speedy advertisement, offering a beautiful Oil Painting Portrait, size 20 x 16 inches, artistically and massively framed, together with Six Cabinet Portraits, for Twenty-five Shillings, either taken from life or copied from a good photo. The Cabinets and frame are 25/, the Oil Colour Portrait with this offer is given free without any charge whatever, and it is of wonderful value. No man in Sydney twelve months ago could have produced it for Fifty Guineas, but we are now giving it for nothing, just as an introduction, after which the price will be £2/2/ and no less (20 x 16 for head and shoulder is full three-quarter life size).

A column, a page, or a whole paper of talk, could not convey the charm, the true life-like effect, the masterly blending of tones, and the wonderful colour scheme of these speaking and ever-valued art treasures; each one must become a precious family heirloom, to be handed down from generation to generation, and the frame is worthy of the picture.

Twenty-five Shillings, fancy! Twenty-five Shillings and twelve months ago £25 would not have bought it. So get it while you may.

PHILIPS' METAL FILAMENT LAMPS
SOLVE FACTORY-LIGHTING PROBLEMS.

The factory manager, seeking effective working light for his various floors, doesn't want candle-power.
What he needs is perfectly diffused light—light that is directed where it is most useful.
The PHILIPS' LAMPS give just such light, and so not use more current than the ordinary lamps. Let us send you a diagram explaining the difference in diffusion between the PHILLIPS and other lamps. It's IMPORTANT—something you should know.

THE TURF.

The first batch (six) of Bronzino's yearlings are very promising. They will be raced by their owners, Messrs. S. and A. Hordern. It is not Mr. Sam Hordern's intention to sell any Bronzino yearlings until after the first lot are tried. James Sisly will take charge of the Bronzinos about May next. Mr. Sam Hordern has leased one of his English fillies by Comus from Santa Kilda, and intends doing likewise with San Leandro. The Bronzino foalings to date at Mr. Sam Hordern's stud farm near Wingen number seven fillies and four colts. A filly out of Bonnie Lily, a beautiful Martagon mare, died. Amphobine (by Amphion from a Bend Or mare), Surricka (by Velocity from Calista, by Marcion), Tarillian (by Ladas from Cyme, by St. Simon), three of Mr. Hordern's importations, have produced fillies, as have Pola (Maltster—Istria), My Delight (Haut Brion-Round Dance), and Nymphia (Haut Brion-Jersey Lily), and Outwardbound (Maltster-Good-bye), by Autonomy. The mothers of the colts are Poseidon's sister, Irish Corner (Positano-Jacinth), Istria (Haut Brion-Trieste), Styria (Haut Brion-Trieste), and Collet, a half-sister to Collarit, by Gossoon.

Rosebery will this afternoon be the rendezvous of followers of pony and galloway racing, and the bill of fare set down for discussion is a very attractive one that should bring about interesting sport. The track is first-class going, and due preparation has been made for the requirements of a large gathering. Special trams will land visitors at the racecourse gates, and the ordinary service to Botany will also be available. The first race is timed to start at 2 p.m., and the results may be anticipated as under:—Fourteen-one Handicap: Morpeth, Miss Carbean, Lord Deemster. Flying Handicap (first division): Crimson and Black or Banderoll; second division, Blue Aster or Martin B. Maiden Handicap (first division): Larras or Mervena; second division, Crabby or Midnight. Fourteen Hands Handicap: St. Leon, Red Gipsy, Lady Beauchamp. Rosebery Handicap (first division): Gunreach or Scarlette Trent; second division, Yucca or Fireglow. Fourteen-two Handicap: Brown Eyes, Marie Clare, Cygnific.

The middle grass track at Randwick was open yesterday morning, and Maltezar ran six furlongs in 1m 26s. On the tan Idyla beat Hallmark at the close of a mile, run in 1m 0s.

The Charities Day race meeting of the Newcastle Jockey Club, held on Saturday last, resulted in a net profit of £500, as against £300 last year. The amount is to be distributed between the funds of the Newcastle Hospital, Benevolent Society, and Deaf and Dumb Institution.

There will be a meeting at Wyong Park to-morrow, and as seventy-four nominations have been received, interesting sport should be witnessed. Special trains will leave the Central Railway station at 6.40, 9.15, 9.55, 7.40, and 11.25 a.m.

The Rosehill Racing Club has issued the programme for its meeting on Saturday, November 14, when £700 prize-money will be distributed over six events, as follows:—Hurdle Race, 100 sovs; Dundas Handicap, 125 sovs; Granville Stakes, 100 sovs; Nursery Handicap, 100 sovs; Rosehill Handicap, 150 sovs; and Club Handicap, 100 sovs. Entries should be made with the secretary, Mr. G. W. S. Rowe, before 4 p.m. on Monday, November 2.

An interesting souvenir of the spring meeting at Randwick has been issued by the Australian Jockey Club, in the shape of a handsome album enclosing a dozen photographic views of the racecourse and its equipment.

The November reunion of the Moorefield Racing Club has been fixed for the 7th prox., and the programme framed for the occasion carries in the aggregate 625 sovs, of which 125 sovs endows the November Handicap, and 100 sovs each of the other events. Entries must be lodged with the secretary, Mr. J. Lamrock, before 4 p.m. on Monday next.

The meeting of the Acacia Jockey Club on December 26 has been sanctioned by the A.J.C.

Final acceptances for the Melbourne Cup fell due yesterday, and when the scratching pen had done its work 33 held their ground. If all go to the post the field will be 13 in excess of the number that competed for the prize last year, which was won by Posinatus.

VICTORIAN TRAINING NOTES.

FLEMINGTON.

SIR ALWYNTON SHAPES WELL.

WOORAK GALLOPS ATTRACTIVELY.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

It was fine, cool, and pleasant this morning, when all the tracks were in excellent order, though the big sand, which had been copiously watered overnight, may have been a trifle on the slow side. Bon Ton (J. Kilborn) and Wise King ran a mile in 1m 49s. Rosanna and Ove ran five furlongs in 1m 7s, a performance equalled by Three, who was in front of Uist and Lesbos. Fidello (E. J. Dwyer) galloped a mile and a half on the tan, having the assistance of Silver Claim (E. Turner) for the last seven furlongs, and he ran the first half mile in 55s, mile 1m 49¼s, mile and a quarter 2m 17½s, and the full distance 2m 44½s, and came home strong and looking well after his racing. Toleration and Bilberry had no difficulty in spurting half a mile in 55½s. Air Malt and Shandon Bell were going easily for a furlong further in 1m 12s. Hopeast and a companion ran the last five of eight furlongs in 1m 7½s. Sir Alwynton (A. Wood), on the outside, Ulva's Isle (J. Killorn), in the middle, and Kingsburgh (C. Cooper), on the outside, ran two furlongs in 27s, six in 1m 22s, mile in 1m 49s, mile and a quarter in 2m 16½s (Kingsburgh being cast off at this state), the once round (eleven furlongs) 2m 31½s, and completed mile and a half 2m 4s, Sir Alwynton finishing the stronger over the last couple of furlongs, and being in the lead. Unless Ulva's Isle is a bad worker, it was a disappointing performance on his part. Uncle Sam (K. Ettershank) was being kept well in hand while going a mile and a quarter in 2m 24s, though he improved the pace over the last half mile, which was done in 53s, and he looked in great heart. Sir Solo moved freely. Newberry (E. Rose), with Savannah to assist for the first six furlongs and Milia Chip for the rest of the way, galloped a mile and a quarter in 1m 17s—a very fair performance. Bunum and Tholomi went six furlongs in 1m 12s. Aristaeus got over a mile on the tan in 1m 48s. Posinatus, who has thickened and improved considerably since last year, was down for some useful pace work. Giru went a mile and a quarter on the tan, and did the last seven furlongs in 1m 37½s.

The outside of the course proper was again patronised by the majority of the Sydney horses, and Carlita led off with 11 furlongs in 2m 23s, the last mile and a quarter taking 2m 11s, and she had the company of Chiffonette for the last five furlongs, and went nicely throughout. Allingamite was just in front of Indiscretion over the same distance, running 2m 26s, the last mile and a quarter occupying 2m 10½s. Moonbria was a neck in front of St. Spasa, who looked to be running on at the conclusion of a mile and a quarter, run in 2m 21½s. Naxbery (W. P. Burn) and Calamus were well matched for a mile and a half, run in 2m 45s, and Giru made the good time of 1m 59½s for nine furlongs. After starting away steadily Mountain Knight (W. H. McLachlan) concluded a mile and a quarter in 2m 17s, and did the last nine furlongs in 2m 12s, and was again reaching out well. Cagou also went in his best style while running a mile and a quarter in 2m 13½s, and he did the last nine furlongs in 1m 59s. Woorak (C. Cooper) was also seen to considerable advantage, for, going like a bit of machinery, he completed the mile and a quarter in 2m 13½s. Three Star beat Arndilly and Gal over five furlongs in 1m 6½s, and Gunous and Avesta did a furlong less in 55s.

CAULFIELD.

ALECONNER PLEASES WATCHERS.

ST. CARWYNE GOES WELL.

It was crisp and fine this morning, and there was a lot of interesting work done, and, as the tracks were in good order and the grass a little hard, some fast times were put up. On the grass Jehad gave Button a six lengths' beating over five furlongs in 1m 4½s. Baverstock was lengths in front of Auceps at the conclusion of a mile and a quarter run in 2m 13s, Baverstock going better than usual. Eltham (Lewis) was all out at the end of a mile and a half run in 2m 44s, Ready Reckoner joining in the last nine furlongs, and the concluding six was done in 1m 28s. Waltz and Lochano were two lengths in front of Wassail at the end of a mile and a quarter run in 2m 14½s. Aleconner (Fisher) and Defence (Young) were together at the end of a well-run mile and a half in 2m 39s, and it was a splendid performance on the part of Aleconner, as he was carrying a substantial weight. Owen Roe (E. Cain) was five lengths in front of Aurifer (Williams) when a mile and a quarter had been run in the smart time of 2m 9¾s, while Aurifer was 4½s longer. There is no doubt about Owen Roe being a great track horse. William of Orange (light-weight), Wallachia (Fisher), and Delcasse (Bracken) finished in that order over a mile in 1m 45½s, all the merit of the gallop being with Wallachia, who had the worst of the weights. Rouen, Cetigne, and Cundaline finished in that order at the conclusion of five furlongs in 58s. First Principle (Barnett) was going easily alongside Golden Wire (Fisher), who was well in front of Cavity (Larkins) at the end of a mile run in 1m 48s. St. Carwyne (W. Barnett) went very well for a mile and a half in 2m 40½s, the last mile occupying 1m 48½s. St. Carwyne went very well, as he was carrying a good weight.

On the sand Sir Solo was not extended for nine furlongs, run in 2m 3½s. Nicanor and Red Signal were not out to make time for five furlongs, run in 1m 6½s. Rathlea, who was a little lame at the start, and Eubulus were together at the conclusion of a mile and a quarter, run in 2m 19½s. Tadanga went off very fast, and tired at the end of a mile, run in 1m 49½s. Boongarry assisted Lucky Escape the last five furlongs of a mile, which took 1m 7½s, the whole journey taking 1m 47½s. Lilyveil had Miss Martin and Silver Lad for equal portions of a mile and a half, run in 2m 44s; and Lilyveil did not appear to be extended at any part of the gallop. Leucops slipped over six furlongs in 1m 24s. Gladwyn, who keeps her condition well, made light of nine furlongs in 2m 5s. The Mogul never once got his head for five furlongs, run in 1m 10s. Sylvanmore moved freely for nine furlongs in 2m 5¾s, done without any effort.

Time, 1m 16s.

CONDOBOLIN JOCKEY CLUB.

CONDOBOLIN, Tuesday.

The Condobolin Jockey Club held a race meeting in aid of the Patriotic Fund. The weather was hot, and this militated against the attendance. The fields were fair, and the racing good. Results:—

Allies' Handicap, of 10 sovs, second horse 1 sov from prize, 7f.—Russell Dean's Splinterwood, 8st 10lb (Field), 1; C. Doyle's Woonbin, 8st 5lb (Doyle), 2; J. Beach's Ambertine, 7st (Pina), 3. Four started. Time, 1m 32s. S.W.R. came second, but was disqualified, and the trainer and jockey were suspended for 12 months.

Union Jack Handicap of 7 sovs, for all horses that have never won an advertised prize exceeding £10, 6f.—H. Vogle's Torrianhil, 8st (McDonald), 1; B. Gateley's Bayera, 9st (Field), 2; M. Dwyer's Eulawarra, 8st 2lb (Williams), 3. Five starters. Time, 1m 19 4-5s.

Kitchener Cup (handicap), of 15 sovs, second horse 2 sovs from prize, 7f.—C. Doyle's Woonbin, 8st 5lb (Field), 1; J. Crook's Salverterie, 7st 10lb (Williams), 2; Russell Dean's Splinterwood, 8st 10lb (Clancy), 3. Six starters. Time, 1m 32 4-5s.

Expeditionary Forces' Handicap, of 10 sovs, second horse 1 sov from prize, 6f.—H. Nagle's Tomanbil, 8st (Nagle), 1; B. Gateley's Galerius, 8st 2lb (Field), 2; N. Dwyer's Eulawarra, 8st 2lb (Williams), 3. Four starters. Time, 1m 20s.

Red Cross Handicap, of 8 sovs, 1m.—F. Newnharris' Cerulity, 7st (King), 1; J. Crook's Salverterie, 7st 2lb (Williams), 2; Russell Dean's Splinterwood, 8st 4lb (Clancy), 3. Four starters. Time, 1m 49s.

CRICKET.

BRIGHTENING THE GAME

Wicket and weather conditions on Saturday were entirely favourable to batsmen, and, on the whole, knights of the willow made fairly good use of the opportunity. Two individual centuries were recorded, two scores of over 90, and seven others exceeding the half-century. These successes notwithstanding, the majority of the aggregates for the day in the first grade were disappointing. Three of them, it is true, exceeded 300—at Manly Oval 351, at Sydney Cricket Ground 338, and at North Sydney Oval 328, but in the remaining matches the aggregates were 256 at Parramatta, 241 at Rushcutter Bay, and 226 at Australian Rules Ground. On the whole, these aggregates suggest that the cricket must have been of an unusually "Scotch" nature; the last-mentioned three have the appearance of mediocrity, suggestive of a lack of that enterprise so essential to the maintainence of the popularity of grade cricket. From this point of view, perhaps, the matter warrants special consideration. On inquiry, the "slow" cricket is found not to be due altogether to a slow rate of scoring; in point of fact, the rate of scoring exceeded 4 runs per over in every match except one.

A DRAB DISPLAY.

In the Redfern-Paddington engagement the former batted all the afternoon (3½ hours) for a paltry 226 runs, and that after the bowling had been mastered by the first wicket partners to the extent of 98 runs. Making every allowance for the outcricket of Paddington, it is clear that Redfern showed a lamentable lack of enterprise. That, in many teams, seems to be a growing tendency. What can be the reason? Is it dominated by competition requirements? It was a noticeable fact, however, that last season the general rate of scoring in first grade matches dropped considerably below that of previous seasons, and the number of drawn matches for the season increased from 16 to 40. These things coincide with the introduction of a new method of reckoning points, but how far the latter is responsible it is early yet to say. It is significant, however, that these results were foreshadowed in this column when the question of the change from the old system to the new was under discussion.

WHERE TIME IS WASTED.

There is another factor, however, which tends to keep down afternoon aggregates in our grade cricket, and it is always present, viz., the altogether disproportionate amount of time during which play is not actually in progress during an afternoon. This amounts probably to about one-third, if not a little more, of the time available for play. There is first of all the leisurely, and all too frequently, the late start of the game; secondly, the time occupied in changing over between overs, which by some teams is a lethargic proceeding; and, thirdly, though in a minor degree, the unnecessary amount of time that is allowed to elapse between the dismissal of one batsman and the arrival of his successor at the creases. Much of this may be written down as waste time. Regarding the first of these, the question of the time for starting play has repeatedly been before the association. Formerly matches were to start not later than 2.30 p.m. Last season, however, time for commencement was 2 p.m., with 20 minutes' grace, and it is the same this season.

BEFORE PLAY BEGINS.

In the majority of matches the greater part, if not all of the period of grace, is exhausted before a commencement is made. To our view there are very strong objections to the present method. As every cricketer knows, a few minutes very often makes all the difference towards the finish of a match, and it is not comforting to the side requiring those few minutes for a win to reflect upon the loss of that time before the commencement of the game, either through the late arrival of themselves or their opponents. It is, therefore, not fair, this period of grace, as far as the individual teams are concerned, and it is not fair in a relative sense, from the point of view of equality of competition, for some teams to have the advantage of half an hour or 40 minutes' extra play in their match as compared with other matches in which one or other side causes the wastage of the period of grace. It is not quite fair to umpires to expect them to be punctual, and yet the players invariably are not so. Moreover, no matter how players are urged to be punctual, if optional times are given them to be ready, they are almost certain to chooose the later time unless some very special reason determines otherwise.

A SUGGESTED REMEDY.

There are objections to the fixing of a definite time for the commencement of all matches, though such an arrangement, if it could be carried out, would be suitable to umpires and fair to all teams in the competition, since the time of actual play would be the same for all. Without inquiring into these objections, or dilating any further upon the subject, we would suggest that 2.15 p.m. be the time for starting in all matches, provided that in case of any delay the side responsible for that delay should be compelled to make good the time lost to the other side if so desired by them. Thus, supposing team A bats all the first day, and team B turns up seven minutes late on the second, A could then demand seven minutes' extra play at the close if so desired. It might be the means of finishing the match and giving A a thoroughly-deserved victory. If B were in such a position as to require these extra seven minutes for a win, it could not have them, and would be deservedly penalised for being late. Supposing, again, that 10 minutes are lost through B on the first day, A could then have the right to demand 10 minutes' extra play either on the first or even on the second day (if nothing on the second day nullified the privilege). Illustrative examples, of course, will occur in plenty. We offer the suggestion as worthy of consideration and trial by the authorities as a means of lessening the time unnecessarily wasted before games begin.

A TIMELY REFLECTION.

As regards the time spent in changing over between overs, to some extent that is a matter for captains to supervise, although, no doubt, it would be greatly minimised by an increase in the number of balls in the over. It is worth thinking seriously about in these times, when so much discussion encircles the subject of brightening the game. A quarter, if not a third of the whole afternoon is spent in "changing over."

FURTHER SUGGESTIONS.

The other matter is one that calls for easy rectification. The laws of the game allow two minutes for the incoming batsman to take his place at the wickets after the dismissal of his predecessor, but that does not mean that the maximum should be taken every time. As a matter of fact, those two minutes are more often exceeded than not. There seems no reason why this should be so, and certainly none why the incoming and outgoing batsmen should not cross in the field of play, or, at all events, at the gate of entrance to the field of play. The various points may represent trifles in themselves in the matter of time saved, but in the aggregate may amount to quite a lot in an afternoon's cricket. Some teams are notoriously slacker than others in these respects. To some extent the amount of play in the afternoon may be better judged by the number of overs bowled than by the number of runs made. In the Redfern-Paddington match above referred to, seeing that the former batted right up to the close of play, and there were only five dismissals in the afternoon, it would be reasonable to expect more overs to have been bowled in this than in any other first grade match on Saturday, but that was not so. Only 67 overs were sent down in the whole afternoon, 10 fewer than in the North Sydney-Balmain match (10 overs represents about half an hour's play), and nine fewer than in the Gordon-University match, in which there was a 10 minutes' interval between innings.

CONSERVATISM CARRIED TOO FAR.

And by the way, in our grade matches, as the roller is hardly ever put over the pitch between innings, there seems no reason why the 10 minutes' interval (which often runs into 12 and 15 between the fall of the last wicket of one innings and first ball of next) should not be reduced. The main object of the 10 minutes' part of the interval is to enable the pitch to be cared for; but in our grade matches, when the pitch needs no special attention, and gets none, there seems no reason to extend the interval to the maximum every time. Several minutes could be saved here. There is no particular reason why the umpires should leave the field at all at the close of the innings. It would certainly be a step towards "keeping the ball rolling," and maintaining popular interest, if the umpires remained in the field at the close of an innings, to be joined by the new fielding side immediately the others have left the field. At the present time the call for brightening the game and maintaining popular interest in it is a loud and incessant one, and we venture to think that both from their point of view and that of the game itself the breaking through of long-established custom in the way that we suggest would be a decided influence for good.

A WORTHY BATTING SUCCESS.

The highest innings played in the first-grade on Saturday was that of Rupert Minnett (121) for North Sydney against Balmain. It was a performance of peculiar interest. Going in first, the Shoreman batted for three hours and 20 minutes—almost throughout the innings—and, although as a display one or two mistakes might be urged against it, these were very slight blemishes in a really first-class innings. His first scoring stroke was almost a "chance" to extra cover, but it rattled against the pickets with plenty of vim, and this was typical of his whole innings. He played with confidence and skill throughout, making many delightfully crisp on-side strokes and off-drives, and a number of very fine late cuts. "R.V." is a very attractive batsman to watch, and his batting gave great pleasure to the spectators on Saturday. The success to himself must have been specially gratifying. It is not the first century by many that he has made for the club—indeed, he has been one of the best rungetters the club has had—but, notwithstanding his exceptionally good record, he was asked by the club's selectors to stand down from the first eleven and play with the second in the first two rounds. With admirable spirit, that cannot be too highly commended, R. V. took his place with the second eleven, and very soon showed the injustice of his being there—an injustice to himself, to his club, and to their opponents—by scoring a century. Reinstated on Saturday, he vindicated himself and gave evidence of the continued possession of that high degree of batting skill which has won for him such a long succession of successes in the North Sydney Eleven.

N.S.W. TEAM FOR QUEENSLAND.

The team to represent New South Wales against Queensland at Brisbane was selected on Monday evening. Since then W. Bardsley (captain) and Roy B. Minnett have dropped out. A. J. Hopkins will take Bardsley's place as captain.

GOLF.

CHAMPION OF CHAMPIONS.

J. H. BROWN'S SUCCESS.

The champion of champions competition was played on Saturday on the Manly links, the conditions being 36 holes of stroke play. Some years ago Mr. James Kidd, a former president of the Suburban and Country Golf Association, presented a shield for annual competition among the champions of the suburban clubs, and the winner is designated champion of champions. Last year, with the consent of the donor, conditions were extended to include also the champions of the two metropolitan clubs, and on Saturday every club except Drummoyne was represented, the players being:—N. F. Christoe (Australian and Hunter's Hill), E. T. Shores (Royal Sydney), J. H. Brown (Bonnie Doon), R. B. Gollolt (Concord), W. C. Sturrock (Dobroyde), E. J. Springthorpe (Killara), J. B. Ferrier (Manly), L. E. Carter (Parramatta), and W. F. Pope (Cammeray).

The day was almost unseasonably hot, but though it had been under water less than a week before, the Manly course was in very fair condition, the greens especially being excellent. The fairways were naturally a little heavy, but that was to be expected.

J. H. Brown, who a few days ago won the championship of the Bonnie Doon Club, was the hero of the day, playing better and more consistent golf than any of the others. In the morning he had a very good round of 77, having each hole in bogey figures until the seventh, which cost him 4 as against an orthodox 3. The ninth also required 5 as against 4. He was out in 40. The first four holes coming home were scored in bogey figures; for the long fourteenth, however, he required 7, but made amends by beating bogey at the fifteenth and sixteenth, each of which he secured in excellent threes. He followed this up by another 3 at the peninsula hole, and finished with a 5, his round of 77 being as follows:—

Out: .... 4 5 3 5 6 4 4 4 5=40
In: .... 3 5 5 3 7 3 3 3 5=37

J. B. Ferrier was out in 39 with a 6 at the second and a 7 at the fifth, but had 40 coming home, a 7 at the last hole being expensive. N. F. Christoe also had a 79, these being the only players to break 80. W. C. Sturrock, with 41 out and 40 home, had 81, but did not play up to his reputation.

In the afternoon Christoe was in trouble at the second hole, where a good second shot was half-buried in soft ground, from where a niblick shot found the ditch. He twice attempted to play out without success, and finally lifted, the hole costing 8, and spoiling his chances. Brown continued to play well in the afternoon, though a 6 at the first hole was a bad beginning. He also dropped a stroke at the third, which cost 4; but otherwise had every hole in bogey, and was out in 41. Coming home, the tenth in 4 was not very good, but he had the eleventh (385yds) in 3—a very useful recovery. The following hole, however, required 6, and the fourteenth 7. He picked up a stroke by means of a good 4 at the eighteenth, and was home in 38, equal to bogey, his figures for the round being:—

Out: 6, 5, 4, 5, 6, 4, 3, 4, 4=41
In: 4, 3, 6, 3, 7, 4, 4, 3, 4=38

79

This gave him an aggregate of 156, a score which was not beaten, though W. C. Sturrock made a great effort to recover ground lost in the morning. He was out in 39, with a 7 at the second, and home in similar figures, his card reading:—

Out: 5, 7, 3, 3, 6, 4, 3, 4, 4=39

Ferrier, with two forty-ones, was three strokes behind his morning round, and had to be content with third place. Other players were not prominent. The success of Brown was well justified, as he played the best and most consistent game of the day. He is only a young player, and should be destined for greater things in the golfing world. He has, as stated, just won the Bonnie Doon championship, defeating such sterling players as T. E. Howard and P. S. Jones. He is just now showing better form than ever before, but there is no reason to believe that he is at the zenith of his powers as a golfer.

N. F. Christoe, in defeating C. L. Mackenzie for the championship of the Hunter's Hill Club, established what looks rather like a record, for Mackenzie has for many years been invincible on his own course, and the championship has, in the past, apparently been his special prerogative. Christoe, however, was 1 up on him at the end of nine holes, and though Mackenzie had the second nine in 35, he maintained his advantage, winning at the 27th hole by 2 up. Christoe accordingly has won two championships this season, as he recently won the championship of the Australian Club.

In the final round of the "C" grade competition Cammeray, playing at home, established a lead on Manly by five matches to four. This is not the first occasion on which Manly has been beaten away from home, but there is no reason to believe that, as in the past, the seasiders cannot reverse the lead when the second half of the match comes to be played at Manly. Dobroyde, at home, scored seven matches to two against Drummoyne, and should retain at least some portion of their lead next Saturday.

The Suburban and Country Association is to be congratulated on its success in persuading its hon. secretary, Mr. H. A. Clarke, who recently tendered his resignation, to retain office until the next annual meeting in February next. The season is practically over, the most important work to be done being the preparation of the annual report, for which Mr. Clarke is eminently fitted, while a new hon. secretary would find it a matter of some difficulty by reason of his lack of knowledge. It is understood, however, that a successor will be found for Mr. Clarke not later than the annual meeting.

LAWN TENNIS.

MARSH'S WIN.

No victory in a championship has given more general pleasure than that achieved by M. H. Marsh in the metropolitan singles championship at Strathfield last Saturday, for his sterling qualities in sport and out of it are universally appreciated, while he is one of the very best workers in the interests of the game that the New South Wales Lawn Tennis Association has ever possessed. It was, moreover, felt that his merits as a player for many years merited the distinction of appearing on the roll as a winner of an important open singles championship, an honour that has frequently appeared imminent but had not been attained until last Saturday. Having now broken the ice, further successes of a similar nature may be looked for.

With the exception of A. B. Jones, none of the four competitors in the final of the metropolitan doubles championship maintained for any length of time a degree of skill commensurate with their ability, while Wright, towards the end of the first set and in the early part of the second, and Clark, in the third, encountered periods when they could do nothing correctly. Wright, usually so reliable, developed a strange tendency to retreat and take the ball off the ground when he might easily have stepped forward and volleyed, while he was quite unable to handle the services which E. L. Jones invariably fired at his backhand.

It was well for the ultimate success of the pair that A. B. Jones should give of his best at this time, enabling Wright to get going again. The display of Jones was not so attractive to the eye of ordinary observers as many to which they have been accustomed, but the situation was different. It was imperative that he should give away as few points as possible on errors; therefore more than ordinary restraint was necessary. Consequently, though fewer clean passes than usual were made by him, he contrived to force his opponents to make mistakes, while he missed hardly anything. His certainty of return was well shown in the second game of the second set, when E. L. Jones, in seven consecutive attempts, could not win a point from him.

Some idea of how consistently strong Wright has been in doubles is shown by his record in the metropolitan championships alone, added to which are many triumphs in the New South Wales State and minor championships, and one of Queensland. He first scored at Strathfield in the metropolitan with D. S. Edwards, in 1900, and has now won the event eleven times in all. His partners have been A. B. Jones (six times), G. G. Sharp (three times), D. S. Edwards (once), and J. O. Anderson (once). Only four times out of 15 has Wright not been in the winning pair, and on three of those occasions Rice earned the title, once with Irving, once with Campbell, and once with E. L. Jones. There have been 23 competitions for this event, but as showing how it has been monopolised by a comparatively few players, only 17 have earned the right to be styled metropolitan singles champion out of a possible 46.

The Americans had just settled down to regard McLoughlin as indisputably the greatest singles player in the world when they received a shock by his defeat in straight sets by R. N. Williams in the final round of the United States National Lawn Tennis Championship. Williams thus turned the tables after four defeats by McLoughlin (exclusive of that at Wimbledon, which was not taken seriously), and made true his chaffing assertion after last year's United States championship final: "I'll get you yet, Mac."

Williams had no sooner beaten McLoughlin than there was much controversy as to who would gain the coveted first place in the ranking list of the year, a position upon which all American players rightly set much store. It appears that the invariable custom has been to allot the position to the winner of the singles championship, but that custom began before the era of Davis Cup contests. The matches in the challenge tie this year were of at least as high value for ranking purposes as the national championship, and, if the results in them are taken into account, McLoughlin must take precedence of Williams.

SAILING.

PRESS'S DOUBLE WIN.

INTERSTATE RACING.

The fresh north-easter on Saturday—the first this season—had sufficient weight in it to bring the majority of the 18-footers out under their second suits of sails. It was a spanking breeze, and a welcome change from the succession of south-easters, and made the Sydney Flying Squadron's racing as spirited as it was well contested. The capsizing of Flanche and Quibree, the filling up of Sunny South, and the mishaps which befel others were merely incidents in a race which was full of interest.

Although the breeze gave a solid work over the first side of the triangle, the handicap boats had the best of matters on the day, although in the second heat Mavis, from the 3m mark, went very close to winning, being beaten by Scot by two seconds only. Mavis, by the way, seems to have developed the habit of just being beaten, as she suffered defeat by 4s in the Sydney Club's race a week before.

It is singular that both H. C. Press, winner of the first heat and the final, and Scot, winner of the second heat, were on the 2¼m mark. Press was fancied because she had been sailing a good boat; and, although Scot's success was not altogether a surprise, Acme appeared to have an excellent chance of winning, with "Paddy" Lloyd at the tiller, and a start of 2m thrown in. It was Lloyd's first appearance this season, but he had no chance of succeeding with the worn-out sails which Acme carried. To win these races nowadays the boats have not only to be well handled, but well rigged, and it pays in the long run to do it. Acme was the last in the second heat to qualify for the final, but in this she missed her start and dropped out.

H. C. Press's double win was largely due to the work or the for'ard department, which has been taken in hand by W. Webb, who up till recently set the extras for his brother Chris, in Australian. As the leading boats Mona, Press, and Scot rounded Shark Island in the final, the result looked very doubtful, but, despite the fact that Mona smartly broke out her big spinnaker for the run to the finish, Press was quicker, and, racing to the front, sailed home a comfortable winner from the consistent Mona.

As a rule the steamers following the 18-footers' races are well placed by those in charge, but the complaints on the umpire's boat at being left near the Taylor Bay mark while the first heat boats raced to Shark Island and home were well founded. The idea is to give the spectators a view of both heats, but this object even would have been better achieved by keeping closer to the first heaters, and would at the same time have given those aboard an opportunity of witnessing what was really the best part of the heat.

Writing to Mr. W. M. Ford, junr., Mr. George Greenhalgh, skipper of the Western Australia 18-footer Eileen, says:—"The war has knocked the end out of our scheme for raising money to send Eileen to Queensland in January next, and the Perth Flying Squadron is inclined to go back on its word to help a boat away, so I think I will take one of the 'fourteens' over to Sydney instead. Do you think it would be advisable to bring Eileen over, too? I do not see much hope of getting further than Sydney now. We consider it would cost about £40 more to get to Brisbane, and I do not think it can be done. We have about £60 in hand now, and the crew have made up their minds to have a trip, so if you think it would be advisable to bring Eileen over also, let me know what racing could be provided for us, as it is my desire to race one of my own boats on Sydney Harbour. Please let me know full particulars."

Since this letter was written, Queensland, Western Australia, and New South Wales have agreed to the interstate carnival being postponed from January to next season, and to its then being held at Brisbane. There is no reason, however, why Eileen, if her owners and crew are prepared to finance the trip, should not pay this State a visit. The interstate committee would doubtless be glad to offer substantial prizes for a race or races in which Eileen would compete, and they will in all probability consider the matter at an early date.

BOWLING.

THE COMING SEASON.

Pennant players are looking forward to a season that will enhance the standard of play under a system that will give a greater number of pennant engagements than during 1913. The association has surrendered to those enterprising members who declare "the pennant's the thing." Opinion has always been divided as to whether the pennant is "the thing," and whether it would not contribute to the happiness of the majority of bowlers if the policy were to limit the classic matches to as few as possible. The president, Mr. John Spence, is always thinking of the unlucky bowlers who are away from the board when the pennant feast is spread. He would like to see them all participating in the excitement and exhilaration of pennant play, but when a club has, say, 60 members, and the pennant team consists of only 16 players, what is to be done? The B and C grades absorb a certain number, but it is sadly true that the opening of the season, which means so much satisfaction to the front-rank and second-rank players, means loneliness, heart burning, and consequent loss of interest in the sport to club members, whose subscriptions are looked for as though they were enjoying their chosen game to the full. Much depends upon club secretaries, but there will always be such problems while bowlers are without official headquarters in the city where secretaries and prominent players could daily get into touch. The time will surely come when there will be such a club—in the meantime players will pay the penalty of lack of enterprise. The engagements—pennant and otherwise—of all clubs would be conspicuously displayed at such a headquarters, while the social benefits are so obvious that they need not be the subject of an elaborately expressed forecast.

The prospects of an Association team visiting Melbourne next month are not bright. The honorary secretary of the association has done all in his power to get four rinks together, but, so far, has not got two. Many bowlers are business men, and the war has had a somewhat unsettling effect.

Should the Easter carnival be held? The question is often asked, and there is no reply but a shrug. Opinions differ, but in the meantime the carnival and literary committees are doing the preliminary work. Should the war end before Easter the carnival will be a glorious success—not only a bowling competition, but a celebration.

The pennant committee is fixing the programme for the season, and the question has arisen, "What is to be done with Woonona?" This South Coast club wants to be admitted to the pennant competition. Under the new system Woonona would, for the purposes of the committee, be on the same footing as any metropolitan club. Kuring-gai might be drawn in the same section as Woonona, or it might be the fate of Mosman or Manly. It must be granted that if Woonona—which cannot be regarded as other than a country club—is admitted a great many players will be out of agreement with the pennant committee. It is a matter of divided opinion, some players holding that metropolitan bowlers should make a sacrifice in the interests of Woonona's ambitions. As bowlers generally decide such problems from the heart rather than the head, Woonona may shortly (for bowling purposes) rank as a suburb of Sydney.

The president visited Mudgee on Saturday last with Messrs. Whitehouse, Coates, W. M. Alderson, Clark, J. Wall, J. Leitch, H. Thorpe, T. W. Shadforth, J. C. Waine, P. M'Clure, and E. Phippard. President Dr. Lester, Secretary Gibson, and other members of the local club showered hospitality on the visitors. Mr. George Raffan, patron of the club, was unable to be present owing to indisposition, and two trophies which he had provided were, on his behalf, presented to the club by President Spence. At dinner speeches were made, and enthusiasm prevailed. It was merely incidental that the visitors won the afternoon game easily—much more important was the "flow of soul" and the cementing of friendships.

The City Club rink captains for the pennant will be Messrs. H. Thorpe, H. Harris, T. Anderson, and M. Moran.

The Bowlers' Patriotic Fund amounts to £1128 2s 1d.

ATHLETICS.

SOUTH SYDNEY CARNIVAL.

On Saturday last the South Sydney Club commenced its eleventh annual carnival at the Sports Ground. The Patriotic function at the Agricultural Ground was responsible for the small attendance. In addition to the club championships, five open events for members of the New South Wales Amateur Athletic Association were included, none of which were well supported. Members of the Mozart Juvenile Harriers were provided with a 220 yards handicap, whilst an 880 yards relay race for school boys was included. This race was only supported by three teams, and was easily won by Petersham. F. C. H. Madeley was successful in both the 100 yards and 440 yards club championships, winning the former by inches only in 10 2-5s; however, only two finished in the quarter-mile, the time being 53 3-5s. Unfortunately, a great deal of interest was lost in these races on account of the absence of J. F. Bradley, who was the previous holder of both titles, also F. E. Beaver, both of whom are suffering from strained legs. The one-mile championship was easily retained by the holder, A. F. Thorpe, in the slow time of 4m 55 4-5s. J. W. Fraser was not extended in the 120 yards hurdles, which he won from T. R. Cole, in 17s. The most successful competitor during the afternoon was C. E. Griffith, of the promoting club, who won the 16lb shot championship and handicap, and throwing the discus championship and handicap. He was also placed second to J. H. McKinnon in the running broad jump handicap, a position he filled to H. L. Thomson, in the pole vault club championship, and he dead-heated for third place in the open event with the same competitor. J. H. Wicks, who had previously ran a close second in the 100 yards event, won the broad jump championship. The 100 yards open handicap, which was run in six heats, was well contested, and the final proved exciting, G. H. Hansel (3½yds) winning by a foot from R. Cripps (5½yds), and C. R. Harwood (2yds), in the fast time of 9 4-5s. At the recent Eight-hour Day sports Hansel won the 120 yards open handicap from the 6yds mark, that being his first run in open competition.

The carnival will conclude next Saturday at the same ground, when members of the New South Wales A.A.A. will be provided with five open events. A race which creates a great deal of interest is the mile relay championship of the State, and will be included in Saturday's programme. The title is held by the South Sydney Harriers. The 220 yards championship should be won by F. C. Madeley, who is the present holder. A. F. Thorpe should experience little difficulty in retaining his title as 880 yards champion, and the same may be said of J. W. Fraser in the 440 yards hurdles. Only three competitors will start in the three miles walk, which, like the one mile on Saturday last, should be annexed by S. Sheaves. E. J. Manson should easily win the three miles running championship. Members of the Sydney Amateur Walkers and Field Games Club will contest a one mile walk. A 100 yards cadets' scratch race and 220 yards club novice and 440 yards Mozart Juvenile Harriers' handicap will make up a splendid afternoon's programme.

FIXTURES.

To-night: Western Suburbs' Club events at Pratten Park, Ashfield; 440 yards handicap, for members of the New South Wales Athletic League, at the Sydney Sports Ground. Saturday: Concluding day of the South Sydney A.A.C., eleventh annual carnival.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

ENGLISH LEAGUE.

The English Football League continues to carry out its programme of matches. Up to and inclusive of Saturday last, the leading teams in division 1 are:—Manchester City and Sheffield 14 points each, Oldham Athletic 13, Everton 12, Blackburn Rovers, Burnley, Middlesbrough, Newcastle United, and West Bromwich Albions 11 points each. Manchester City is the only club that has not been defeated, having won 5 and drawn 4 games.

MOTORING.

TAX BY WEIGHT.

A TAIL-LIGHT WARNING.

Beyond briefly intimating that the Victorian legislation will be followed, the State Premier (Mr. Holman) has given no indication as to how he proposes to levy the new motor tax. The justice of the measure at such a time of national crisis, of course, is indisputable, but motorists will agree that the Victorian and English systems of computing the tax on the basis of the horse-power of the engines is by no means equitable, and before the measure becomes law the Government would do well to consider some alternative schemes. The proposal which immediately springs to mind is that the tax should be based on the cost of the car, either at the factory or saleroom, but even if these prices were fixed for a season, which in the majority of cases they are not, the matter would prove so complex for the authorities that the revenue would be chiefly consumed in the assessment. This, of course, is not meant to imply that a dealer's word as to what he pays the factory for his goods, loth as he may be to give it, is not to be taken, but refers particularly to the difficulty of rounding up the thousands of cars in the back country, whose ages vary from 5 to anything up to 15 years—cars, it may be said, which have lost their individuality to the extent of being without name-plates, or the original radiators, or parts by which they might be recognised.

A more reasonable suggestion emanating from official circles is that the cars should be taxed by weight, and not by horse-power. (This, of course, has no reference to commercial vehicles.) The owner of the small, inexpensive runabout with the big engine and owners of American cars would certainly have no cause for complaint; while the high-powered limousine or touring car would head the list in both cases. The assessment of the tax, too, would be greatly facilitated, and the services of the technical inspector in the country, which would be very necessary in the case of the horse-power tax, could be dispensed with. The Premier has a very good case, no doubt, in saying that what is good enough for England and Victoria ought to meet with satisfaction in New South Wales, but the motorists of this State have always enjoyed legislative freedom, and before shouldering the burden of a new tax they want to be assured that the regulation and its administration will be in keeping with those already in force.

NUMBER-BOARD LIGHTING.

Recently the action of a motorist who switched out his tail light to avoid arrest, resulted in the entire motoring community suffering to the extent that they were denied the pleasure and convenience of controlling the lighting system of their cars from the dashboard. Now there has appeared another offender in the person of the motorist (his name is legion according to the police) who has the number-plate insufficiently illuminated, and in consequence of disregarded warnings it is in the official mind to frame a regulation compelling all motorists to fit either electric or acetylene lamps to their tail boards. Those with kerosene lamps should, therefore, take warning and see that the lenses are kept clean, and that the beams are at all times directed on the number. The plate should be clearly visible at a distance of 40 yards.

CYCLING.

INDIVIDUAL CHAMPIONSHIP.

Without in any way detracting from the merit of T. Tracey's win in the individual 40 miles championship of the New South Wales Cyclists' Union at Homebush on Saturday afternoon, it must be said that the race was to a great extent spoiled by the prevalence of punctures due to the hopeless condition of the main Parramatta-road, between the "Horse and Jockey" and Auburn. Eight of the 15 riders selected had succumbed to tyre troubles at the end of the first 16 miles, E. W. Pederson, the holder of the title, was hors de combat as a result of striking a rut; while W. Wylie was struggling along on a strange machine a hundred yards behind the leading bunch. At 24 miles there were only three riders left in the race, and an early retirement of R. J. Porter left T. Tracey and E. T. Byron with the race in their hands. The need for a more suitable course was never more apparent.

The actual distance was 41¼ miles, so that Tracey's 1h 54m 15s cannot be regarded as slow. Byron, who put up a most creditable performance, considering that he was the fifteenth man selected, was 8s slower than Tracey; but this gap may be attributed to lack of generalship rather than lack of ability. Tracey, who is credited with winning races in the professional ranks five years ago, as was only to be expected, was more than a match for the youthful Byron in this department. Tracey, it will be remembered, was a member of the Enfield-Burwood team, which won the interclub premiership competition.

KELTENBACH'S APPEAL.

Exactly what occurred at the last meeting of the Cyclists' Union executive, of course, is not public property, but it is quite apparent from the result that the need of a closer inspection in regard to the matters surrounding Keltenbach's and similar appeals, as urged in the "Herald," was made clear. The executive will accordingly go into the matter very thoroughly, and not confine its report to the council to the one point as to the legality or otherwise of the second general meeting of the Marrickville Club. A precedent, therefore, will be established, which the union will be morally bound to follow in the event of similar appeals in the future, and the result cannot be otherwise than beneficial to the sport.

MOTOR CYCLING.

THE SOCIABLE MACHINE.

PILLION SEAT AND SIDE CAR.

Some few months ago the practice of turning the motor cycle into a "sociable" machine by the strapping of a cushion on the back carrier, and placing a lady in an unbecoming and withal unsafe position on the top of it, was most roundly condemned; a protest, indeed, which received the whole-hearted support of all clubmen who wish to see the sport kept in the high rank of public esteem. It is pleasing now to note that this method of carrying a passenger has almost if not entirely given way to the pillion seat attachment, an American innovation, which, owing to the early exploits of the venturesome and thoughtless few referred to, was likely to be for ever tabooed in this country.

The pillion seat, which, by way of explanation, is really a second saddle mounted over the back wheel, and enables the passenger to ride tandem fashion with remarkable comfort, has much to recommend it, and as far as the male section of the community is concerned, bids fair to become a strong rival of the side-car. For certain classes of work the side-car machine, which originated and is immensely popular in England, has, of course, indisputable claims. It is the only method by which a motor cyclist may enjoy the company of a lady; it has all the advantages of a light car, without the disadvantages of high original cost and expensive upkeep. The side-car machine, moreover, is recognised to be faster and easier to control. But the pillion seat attachment, costing only a few shillings, as against the pounds of the side-car, has many adherents, particularly in districts where the roads are not what they might be. Over these tracks his passenger on the pillion seat adds to the comfort of the rider, as the machine is found to hold the road better with the extra weight, while the expense through wear and tear is hardly any greater than if the rider were mounted "solo" fashion. The road question, of course, has largely influenced the development of the sociable motor cycle in America and England, and under equitable conditions the side car machine in America would no doubt have reached the high stage of perfection that it has in England.

In the circumstances, therefore, it will not be surprising to find a big increase in the popularity of the pillion seat, to the detriment of the side car in Sydney, although, as in England, the side car has a very firm hold.

A PILLION TOUR.

Mr. A. Mann, a Sydney motor cyclist, and a friend have returned, after a six weeks' tour on an 8 h.p. chain-driven machine, fitted with a pillion seat, and although some fearful roads were encountered the trip was thoroughly enjoyed, no trouble at all being experienced with the equipment. In all 2798 miles, according to the speedometer, were covered with the passenger on the pillion seat, and Mr. Mann states that it is very questionable whether it would have been possible, owing to the state of the roads, to have accomplished the journey with a side car. The tourists visited Wollongong, Goulburn (via Bulli Pass), the Federal Capital site, Cooma, Mount Kosciusko, Tumut, Gundagai, and Wagga. The Murrumbidgee Irrigation Farms at Yanco, and the facilities offered by the Government to settlers, so impressed the tourists that there is a possibility of them returning and taking up grants. The journey was completed via Hay, Euston, Mildura, and Junee.

SWIMMING.

CLUB INNOVATIONS.

There was ample evidence of activity in connection with the various clubs on Saturday last. No fewer than eight clubs were busy, and as several, including Bondi, Manly, Mosman, Drummoyne, Eastern Suburbs, South Sydney, and Y.M.C.A. have announced handicaps for this week, the season may be regarded as in full swing, although these contests are only a means to prepare the competitors for the sterner inter-club and championship races. The formation of two new clubs at Sans Souci and Woolwich, together with the appointment of a committee by the New South Wales Swimming Council to report on the formation of new clubs in the centres at present unprovided for, augurs well for the success of the coming season. The statement of the association president that the membership of the governing body had not increased seems to have had its effect on some of the delegates, who are doing their best to remove the cause of complaint. That there is ample scope for this will be admitted, and by recruiting from the schools, retaining the members after they have retired from actual competition, and taking in fresh districts, where the sport has previously gone on without administrative control, the sport will deservedly grow.

One of the most pleasing features of Saturday's racing was the appearance of all the champions and promising men of last year. In the male section, Longworth, Barry, Healy, Boardman, Page, and Jones were prominent, while the list of ladies competing comprised many well-known names. The Misses Fevyer and Winn particularly, seem to be in a position to easily reproduce last season's form. The East Sydney club, which was only reformed last season, is to be complimented on the fact that five heats were necessary to carry out its fixture, while the Sydney Ladies' Club held no fewer than seven events.

The Melbourne club has accepted the invitation of the Sydney club to visit Sydney on December 19, for the regular contests between the two clubs. Melbourne are the present holders of the shield. The events to be decided comprise 500 yards teams' race, water polo match, 440 yards race, 100 yards breaststroke, and diving.

During the lunch hour to-day the Sydney club will hold the first of its series of handicaps, the start being made at 1.20 p.m. punctually. The innovation is expected to become permanent, as a large number of the club's members make this time their regular bathing hour. The distance to-day is 110 yards, and entries will be received at the post.

Manly Club has adopted a new idea in what is termed the "club ladder." By its means it is expected that more enthusiasm will be generated throughout the club. Each member will be placed in his position on the ladder by a committee appointed for the purpose, the positions being based on the swimming capabilities of each. Each member has the right to challenge the one occupying the position above him, and if he wins, will supersede him. Thus the members will go up or down the ladder according to their prowess, and the committee feel that it will make members ambitious to do their best at all times.

The association's patriotic handicap, which was to have been held next Saturday, has been postponed until November 28, when it is hoped the clubs will be in a better position to support the race.

LEAGUE NOTES.

The League ranks are likely to be strengthened by the formation of a new club in the Redfern district.

The Sydney Club, in appointing Mr. E. Marshall as instructor to a life-saving class, has taken a step which should be followed by every affiliated club. No swimmer's education is complete until he is master of the art of life-saving and the work of resuscitation. To have every member a possessor of a certificate of proficiency should be a prouder boast than to hold the teams' championship. The club will commence racing on Wednesday evening, November 4, at the Domain Baths.

Waverley Club will hold its annual meeting on Thursday, October 29, at Hellings' Hotel, Waverley.

The interstate carnival will most likely take place in December. The exact date will depend upon Mr. Ball's visit to Melbourne next week. In addition to securing the presence of Beaurepaire and leading representatives of male clubs, Mr. Ball intends making an effort to induce some ladies to make the trip to Sydney to pit their speed against the Misses Hooper and Tate.

ROWING.

PROFESSIONAL NOTES.

Last Saturday's heavy boat championship race provided two styles of propelling the 16ft skiffs. Thoroughgood adopted a long and powerful stroke, whilst the other four contestants relied upon faster and shorter paddling. The winner, Arthur Pearce, rowed a stroke slower than S. Pearce, Pickering, or Ripley, and nearer to Thoroughgood's style. It was the general opinion that had longer boats been used, the Stockton veteran must have won, or that, had the course been the full two miles in length, the result may have been altered. From the display given by the different scullers in the race, however, it was apparent that A. Pearce's youth was the factor instrumental in his defeat of the 46-year-old Thoroughgood, who for years has been the recognised heavy boat champion of Australia. If the five men who contested the title of champion of New South Wales last Saturday are really the cream of our heavy boat rowers, then A. Pearce may not expect a challenge from anyone for some time, excepting it be from Thoroughgood, in the larger 18ft boats, which the conditions pertaining to the title express shall be used in any future events.

J. Paddon is emphatic in his statement that he pushed Barry right to the finish in their recent race for the world's championship on the Thames. His idea is confirmed by a very capable Australian critic, who saw the race, and who, whilst stating that Paddon was not sculling as well as when he defeated Arnst, says that Barry yet fails to impress him as the finished and invincible oarsman the English critics believe him to be. Referring to the Australian, he says that it was plain that his rigging had been altered in England. Consequently, Paddon could not get his weight properly on to any part of his stroke, and could not get up on to his work again quick enough after each stroke. He allowed his slide to go away too soon at the catch, which was weak, and he swung too far back, consequently sagging his boat. He also dragged his sculls out of the water badly. "In fact," adds the critic, "he could hardly be recognised as the same Paddon who defeated Arnst. He had reverted to an old fault, inasmuch as he never caught the water cleanly with his right scull, as the wrist bent badly." The critic further expresses the opinion that Arnst, in thorough condition, would account for Paddon. He adds that the rules are interpreted differently in England from what they are here. There a man has to keep to his half of the river, notwithstanding that the rules say a sculler's proper course is the nearest way to the finish provided he allows his opponent ample room to avoid obstacles.

BEACHES AND BATHERS.

Sydney is herself again when surfing begins. The season into which we, one and all, literally plunged with dramatic suddenness after the cold, wet week, opened, when bathers took their first headers on Saturday. Only at week-ends can we feel that the joys of surfing have again come round. The children, poor dears, have still a few school weeks ahead of them, and business men and business women must attack the daily grind, only too thankful most of them that in these subversive times the daily grind is still waiting to be attacked; but after hours on Saturday and all Sunday they are free to listen to the roar of the surf as it booms its welcome in their ears. Then the majority of our population run into the sea as inevitably as if they were rivers. But early morning dips have a charm for an increasing number of suburban men and women. The towel brigade occupy the early trams in great force, wherever the said tram is running on a surf beach route. That is one of the characteristics of our city that mark it out as like no other city in the world.

The charm of being able to lead a kind of picnic existence and yet continue to be a city dweller is felt when the tramcar fills up with all ranks and grades of men and boys; the "boss" and the messenger, the office boy and the manager, all sitting more or less concealed behind the morning paper and a selection of towels, and in a frankly "negligee" style of dress, ready to drop off the tram at the point nearest the beach and dash into the surf as if it "to their souls had brought a something they through life had sought," so to speak. They wash away the war and all worries of this work-a-day world, and everything else beginning with "w" (as Alice's dormouse would say), and emerge with some of the strength of old ocean invigorating their limbs and heartening up their minds and spirits. "I like the sodawater in mine," said an enthusiast when discussing with another the rival merits of surf versus harbour bathing; "there's no fizz in the harbour water." And like sodawater it is, when the churning frothing breaker engulfs the bather and "sizzles" as it draws back again over the rushing sand. Later, the beach-lovers all board the tram again bound for the city and the day's work. But who would recognise in these tweed-clad, prim, and proper gentlemen, with gleaming collars and immaculate boots, the happy-looking nondescripts of the early morning hours? Beneath their business exterior, however, their hearts are in the right place. They are only waiting until the hour comes when they can repeat the dose of ocean water, which does them all so much good when applied externally.

There is a youth—to take one of a multitude—who used to sleep on his verandah, and on waking every morning, rain or fine, summer or winter, he would clutch his towel and make off down the hill to the beach, a few hundred yards' journey. Thus he lived the outdoor life as much as he could. A touch of the pathetic attaches to this particular instance, because this sleeper's stretcher stands folded on the verandah now. "He's sleeping out and far to-night," as the colour-sergeant said. He was one of the first to volunteer to go to the front. And it may well be that some of that pluck and enthusiasm which enabled him to give force to his patriotism was engendered by his daily plunge into the surf. Perhaps, who knows? Some day in the trenches the roar of the guns may remind him of the breakers at Manly.

On Sunday there was almost perceptibly a thrill of feeling among the bathers on some of our beaches. It all seemed a wonderful proof that Britannia was doing "business as usual" and ruling the waves as is her wont. After three months of war there were the crowds of picnickers, the troops of happy children, and the knot of bathers all disporting themselves in the sunshine, quite carefree and happy. There was the great blue ocean beyond, empty except for a few white-winged boats and yachts. In perfect safety the sea-traffic goes on, and the happy life on the beaches, without which Sydney would not be Sydney at all, in full play and freedom. Something of the power and might of old ocean himself has passed into the British navy surely. Such majesty, such calmness dwelt on the "mighty being" on Sunday, that it typified right well the attitude of our great invincible warships and the men who command and navigate them.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN IN INDIA.

At the annual meeting of the Missionary Society for University Women held on Friday evening at the University, Mrs. Cocks, M.A., presided.

Miss Elsie Campbell, in her annual report, gave a most interesting account of the year's progress, while Miss Ruby Wheaton presented the year's balance-sheet.

After the election of officers Dr. Ettie Lyons spoke on the mainsprings, aims, and ideals of settlement work, with special reference to the work of the Bombay settlement founded in 1895. The speaker found in this a magnificent opportunity for the development of a sense of responsibility and sympathy. Work among the educated women of India should, for the educated women of Australia, hold a marvellous fascination, for both could find a community of aim and interest.

Miss Nina Brentnall, B.A., whose furlough closes in the near future, dealt with the student movement of India as a second line of interest. As student secretary of the Y.W.C.A. in Calcutta, Miss Brentnall is in touch with 100 women students (out of 10,000 men students), and her district stretches from Calcutta to Rangoon. These 100 women students in arts, medical, and teaching colleges represent a proportion in whose hands will lie much of the responsibility for the progress of the women of Bengal. Reverence for education and the mystic letters of a degree in Bengal is supreme, and Indian girl graduates easily command responsible positions as doctors, inspectresses, teachers, etc. Yet their whole life and the life of centuries before has prepared them for seclusion. Unlike the Parsi, the Bengali women is "purdah," and the new educational movement carries them into an unknown and almost terrifying world. The lines of cleavage are so startling. An Indian woman may never have been out of purdah, have never seen the street, have dwelt within the precincts of a courtyard only accessible after a passage through several rooms, yet her daughter attends school or college, and every day comes in touch with a very modern world. For India is sharing to the full in the general educational advance, and the educated Indian from Oxford or Cambridge can no longer easily contemplate the ignorance of his womenfolk. In herself, the Indian girl is timid, shy, and backward. Self-control is absent, initiative or self-reliance lacking, a consciousness of leadership almost impossible. And yet with this in Bengal goes a wonderful mental brilliancy, an absorbing thirst for knowledge, a marvellous ability to pass examinations.

At Calcutta, though about 6000 matriculate yearly (men and women), yet university life as we know it is not led in Calcutta. The militant suffragist exists in India, and, as likely as not, may be the daughter of a purdah mother. Their life is full of strange and almost impossible blendings. Their homes may reveal some of the best in art, literature, and music, as the best has touched them, yet with it a clinging to old Hindu customs, the red mark on the forehead, the worship of the ancient gods, and the fear of their anger. Here lie immense possibilities for the women of the West, perhaps most for the educated women of America and Australia, who at this most interesting period of transition may wonderfully place their impress on history. JEAN.

HOME AFFAIRS.

DRESS IN WARM WEATHER.

FASHIONS AND WAR.

Fashion comes in at times for some very harsh terms and abuse is freely showered on the fickle dame, but some times she justifies her existence most nobly, and rises to the occasion in a way that mere hygiene—her supposedly bitter enemy—can never hope to do. For hygiene in her stern way rather resembles the wind in the old fable which, blow as it might, could never make the traveller discard his cloak of ugly colour and clumsy cut, while fashion, like the sun, has but to smile warmly, and lo, the hideous garment is thrown off and beauty is revealed. Despite pessimists and kill-joys, the modes this summer prove a boon and a blessing to those who would be cool, and are in no sense indecorous, provided always the wearer has no hidden motive of trying to attract attention by showing-off her many (supposed) charms of feature and form. The summer girl is literally revelling in the cool unrestraints of white Raglan blouses, turn-down collars, the absence of choking throat-constrictors called "supports," the free play of muscles formerly held in a tight corset as in a vyce, and generally enjoying a most salutary holiday from clothes-tyranny.

It is so easy to be hygienically—and yet, fashionably—clad to-day that much of the discomfort of the coming summer is discounted. Anything that is stiff or uncomfortable is voted dowdy and "out-of-it;" therefore, why not take advantage of the opportunity, and rejoice that beauty and hygiene may go hand-in-hand under the full approval of fashion? One glance at the fashion journals coming to us now, and dated since August, will prove that the war has had already a most sobering and sense-inculcating effect on our modes of dress. The high and mighty authorities like the "Queen" and the others, have, in my humble opinion, improved out of all question since the trouble fell upon the world. Just before the event, extravagance and folly appeared to have reached its height. Rampantly absurd, hideously grotesque, were the fashions depicted and the figures wearing the same. Madame la Mode was riding for a fall, and the fall came. Since then, outside the patterns for pyjamas, shirts, woollen caps, and so forth, the fashion plates for the first time look like pictures of human beings and not of natural freaks.

"FAIRY FEET."

Shoes are about the only remnant of the old days of torture. Nobody could honestly say our shoes to-day are sensible. We totter along on high heels that not only look dangerous, but are dangerous. These ridiculous little pillars under our heels catch in tramway lines, trip us up on ferry gang planks, precipitate us into railway carriages as if we were shot out of a gun, wear down on one side until we limp and hobble lamely, and suffer in a way that makes us sympathise with Achilles; and, in short, these implements of torture to everything except one thing they should do, help us to walk well. Why do we have to wear high heels? The answer is, because women insist on eating their cake and having it. "Fairy feet" were the poetic fiction of the early Victorian novelist, whose heroines were always thus pedally fashioned. Fairy feet, indeed. Was there ever anything more absurd? Or, "little mice?" Are feet a scrap like mice? Well, in days when women did little else but exist, more or less beautifully, it was not so hard for our sex to possess undeveloped feet something like the "golden lilies" of the Chinese. But when the "hygienic" movement started, when physical culture was a phrase to conjure with, and when in consequence women grew taller, feet grew, too, and the "fairy" quality could no longer even in compliment be ascribed to them.

Bicycling, golfing, and tennis have brought down the number 7 shoe out of the "outsize" class, and placed that size in "stock," which is continually asked for. It is not often that a shoemaker has to fit a woman with a number 10 shoe, but it is a not unknown demand. When tight, short, skirts came in, these huge feet looked very prominent and ugly, even if well shaped; hence, the high heel was revived, which enables a woman to have a neat-looking foot, and yet take a large-size shoe. High heels, it must be confessed, make a shoe look pretty, if it is considered from any other point of view except as a walking medium. But only by that tilting up at the heel can the large foot of the well-developed athletic girl of this generation obtain a dainty appearance. Small and exquisitely shaped feet there are, fortunately, still in plenty, however. The present shoe display ordained by fashion makes that fact quite apparent. MARTHA.

A LETTER FROM LONDON.

Extracts from a letter written by a Sydney woman in London dated September 15.—"We had the 'Te Deum' at our chapel on Sunday—for two Sundays it had been left out. It was so fine. I was wondering how many times the old chapel had heard the 'Te Deum' for English victories—ever since the wars of the Roses, probably before. The English character has not changed a bit. The soldiers still adore their officers, and no wonder; they are real comrades to their men. 'No side,' that's their motto. Dennis (a young Australian who has enlisted in London), who was here yesterday, was telling how he was called out by his captain for not having shaved. He said, 'Sorry, old chap; but you must be smarter; no slacking. I'll pass it this time, but, etc., etc. Den. said to me, 'You'd do anything for a chap like that, wouldn't you?' The improvement in D. since his enrolment passes belief. He looks inches taller, and so smart and trim in his uniform. The drill is tremendous; also two hours' physical culture, and a two-miles' run every day.

"The searchlight from Charing Cross tower flashes into our bedroom window. It is uncanny to think it is scanning the Thames for Zeppelins. Two airships sail about London all night, their lights like big stars. People are used to them now. One does nothing but read papers all day. The 'Times' headline to-day is, 'Very Fair—So Far.' No gush in that. All so moderate. M. and I were looking at the war map in Phillips' in the Strand (you know, the Atlas Phillips of our schooldays). An elderly woman was craning to see over our shoulders. The tears were running down her cheeks; but she smiled and said to me, 'Doesn't it (the map) look lovely to-day? Isn't it fine? Don't it make you smile? My boy's out there.' It is fine to see the German flags pushed back.

"We are all very proud of Australia, and are looking forward to seeing the troops arrive shortly. There was a group of Gurkha officers at the Alhambra the night we were there. Everyone was looking at them; they were surrounded by a wondering throng on going out. They are very dark; almost black, with such queer round heads. I'm glad they are not angry with me. I don't fancy them as enemies at all. Of course, these men were intensely civilised; evening dress and all the rest of it. I have been meeting such interesting people lately, amongst others Captain Carew, of the 2nd Grenadier Guards. He is off to-day. The Prince of Wales is a sub. in his regiment, but he is not allowed to go to the front. Captain Carew says he (the Prince) is wild about it; he is mad keen to go. It's so strange now: women, instead of gossiping about clothes, servants, etc., talk of Russia's intentions as regards service, how Germany tried to buy out Russia, and so forth. I do not believe that women will ever be small-minded again. We see flocks of Belgian refugees every day. All over the place are notices in French and in Flemish, advising them as to lodgings and banking business.

"Paris has been as wonderful as London in her calmness. How dare those German fiends alter the whole characteristic of a race like that? As Poincare said, 'Calmness is not in our temperament. It is the fruit of experience.' Wasn't it wonderful the way they waited for the investiture—which never came. God grant it never may. This letter is incoherent, but I feel like that. Besides, am writing against time. I only heard an hour ago we could post to-day."

A TRIP ON THE KOMET.

The report of the capture of the German Government despatch boat, Komet, recalls a trip to New Guinea and back which I made on her last year. She is a beautiful little yacht of 900 odd tons, and most comfortable to travel in, though rather small for really bad weather. The captain's suite is on the bridge deck, and on the main deck are the Governor's apartments, most luxuriously fitted up with very comfortable armchairs and lounges, upholstered in green leather, the curtains and other hangings of a paler green poplin. The first and second officers' cabins are on this deck, also two cabins for passengers, and there is accommodation on the lower deck for the rest of the crew and several passengers.

We went right outside the Barrier Reef, and our first call after we left Sydney was at Faisi, in the English Solomons. We ran in there one night to catch a mail to Sydney, and were away again early the next morning, after sending our letters on shore.

The next few days were delightful, going through the Solomons, and never out of sight of land—sometimes on both sides of us. I was kept busy running from side to side to catch glimpses of fascinating little white beaches, sometimes with clusters of native huts, and sometimes the tropical vegetation growing down to the water's edge. With the brilliancy of the green, the whiteness of the sand, and the blueness of the sea and sky, it was just like fairyland. We made one other stop at Kieta, where we were immediately surrounded by small craft of every description filled with gesticulating natives, some with their faces streaked with paint and their mop of hair flower-decked. Many of them were selling fruit, and others coming to visit their friends among the native crew. We were a strange mixture on board. The captain and officers were German, then we had Chinese, Malays, Cingalese, and Melanesians (the natives), and the captain's wife and myself were the only Britons. We stayed there for a night and part of the next day, and there I first began to feel the tropical heat. It was not noticeable when in motion, but when we were at anchor the sun beat down on us mercilessly during the middle of the day, but fortunately at night it was cooler. The "boys" used to amuse themselves shooting fish. They would stand for hours with their rifles poised, and directly a poor, unwary fish appeared they would shoot, and they very seldom missed their mark. Then another boy would dive into the water, and you could see him going straight down, down, till he caught the fish, when he would climb up with the water running off his black, shining body and scarlet lava lava, and run up to the top deck to show his trophy to the captain, who would probably reward him with a stick of tobacco.

But everything comes to an end, and on the tenth day after leaving Sydney we steamed into the beautiful harbour of Rabaul, with the "mother and two daughters" (volcanic mountains) standing sentinel at the entrance, and a strong smell of sulphur in the air. A. M.

MELBOURNE NOTES.

Lady Helen Munro Ferguson presided at the patriotic display given by members of the Girls' Guild Union at the Town Hall, of which the proceeds will be devoted to the Red Cross fund. Lady Helen, in response to a vote of thanks, moved by Mr. Alfred Deakin, said what was being done by the Australian branch of the Red Cross Society was greatly appreciated in Great Britain, especially by the president of the society, Queen Alexandra.

The State Governor, Sir Arthur Stanley, the Lord Mayor, Lady Mayoress, and the Belgian Consul attended a series of well-portrayed pictures which were recently given at the Masonic Hall. Madame Melba appeared on the stage, between two Jack Tars, bearing the Belgian flag and the Union Jack, which were sold for £30 and £60 each. In reply to cheers for her assistance, she said that she loved Belgium, as her career was begun in Brussels.

Dr. Edith Barrett, at the last meeting of the National Council of Women, announced that at the annual conference in November it had been decided to have night sittings, which will be an innovation and a convenience. The germ-carrying house-fly was the subject of an interesting paper read by Mrs. Thomas Baker. She pointed out the work done in the direction of dealing with this pest in America by women's leagues, and hoped the National Council would take active measures dealing with its extermination.

The lady champion vocalist of the Ballarat Eisteddfod this year is Miss Mollie Macoboy, of Glenferrie (Melb.). She won seven first prizes, including two duets with her sister, Miss Wynne Macoboy, who was contralto champion two years ago. The prize money amounted to £22.

Mrs. George Swinburne was elected president of the Presbyterian Ladies' Collegians' Association at the annual meeting. This association has become an active factor, and in Mrs. Swinburne the movement has a powerful ally. For more than 20 years she has been associated with the Parents' National Educational Union. She is also president of the Neglected Children's Home. Members of the Collegians' Association are starting a big movement to help the Red Cross fund.

The Australian Health Society, with the consent and co-operation of the Minister for Public Instruction, recently held the 20th annual examination of State school pupils (13 years of age and upwards) on the subjects of health and temperance. The report of the examiners, Inspectors Hand and Cross, show that 138 candidates competed, 60 of whom secured the Health Society's certificate—26 "with distinction." The text book used is Brodribb and Springthorpe's "Manual of Health and Temperance." VERONICA.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES.

The news that the War Office has ordered a million and a half more shirts from Canadian factories will serve as a fillip to our local Red Cross workers, for the immense order shows that the authorities cannot have too many garments for the troops. There has been some demur of late, even in England itself, about setting women to work with paper patterns and needles and thread when factories can turn out soldiers' garments by wholesale. At first sight, there appeared to be something in this objection to any and every woman setting to work, since professional activity must always be of more value than amateur, but a little thought will convince any of us that the times are so exceptional and the demand so huge, that there is ample room and verge enough for the expression of wholesale and retail manufacture, too. This is the animating principle of our Red Cross committee, and repeated visits to the George-street headquarters lead to the repetition of the same story:—Bales of goods have been sent and bales more must be sent.

"I never tell inquirers just how many pyjama suits we have had packed up," said one of the headquarters' committee women yesterday, "because if people knew how many had been made they might be so much impressed with the number that they would stop working. But that would never do. For all we have sent, much remains to be done. We are still working hard. We are now urging helpers to be active with warm clothes. Sheepskin waistcoats, blanket coats, cotton wool chest protectors, felt mittens are pouring in, and still we ask for more. The wadding protectors are made just like big bibs fastening at the back of the neck. If any women are rather tired of pyjamas and shirts, please tell them to 'get busy' with chest protectors. A change of occupation very often is as good as a complete rest."

NEAR AND FAR.

The meeting of ladies called by Colonel Wallack at Victoria Barracks last Friday suffered in a certain degree from conflicting ideas. It was rather interesting to find how very much the patriotic sentiment was at the heart of all speakers, so much so that the main object of the meeting was in one or two instances overlooked. The plan to raise money enough to place the veterans now quartered at Bare Island Fort in more comfortable quarters, which is to be helped by a concert in November, is one not at all involving a large sum of money, and arrangements were then and there set on foot which will, in all likelihood, achieve the end in view. Colonel Wallack spoke of a much larger scheme, involving much more working up. The Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson have written according their full support for the proposed concert in the Town Hall, which has nothing whatever to do with any of the various war funds. The veterans are men who have done well by their country in the past, and their deeds have placed some on the Imperial pension list.

Speaking about English reservists' wives, at Colonel Wallack's meeting Mrs. Macarthur Onslow made a welcome announcement that a committee of women is making these wives its special care, and is visiting them and cheering them up in any way that suggests itself to the visitors, very much in the same way that the naval officers' wives are interesting themselves in the wives of the men of various ratings now on active service, of which league Lady Patey and Miss Henderson are the moving spirits.

The committee of the Sydney Women's Band Fund met at the Town Hall on Friday morning to receive the money raised by a concert promoted by Randwick ladies. The representatives of the Randwick committee were received by the executive of the women's band committee; the Lady Mayoress was unfortunately unable to be present, and Mr. Layton received the cheque on her behalf. Mrs. Reddall was president of the concert committee which raised the sum of £110. Lady Edeline Strickland, though unable to be present, accorded her patronage.

Queen Mary has given her approval to Mr. Herbert Samuel's central committee on women's unemployment. This body consists of 13 ladies, all well known as representative of the best informed opinion of women in industry. The prominent place given to women on public committees dealing with problems arising through the war is a striking feature, both in England and France.

Queensland is well represented by nurses who have been chosen for duty with the Expeditionary Force. On a troopship four compose the staff, the head of which is Miss Williams, of the A.N.S., superintendent, and her helpers are Miss Paten, Miss Keep, and Miss Hart. Miss Lilian Paten, a sister, has been in Sydney for a few days on her way to Melbourne, where she will visit another sister who is studying law. Miss Lilian Paten has just had published a novel on Australian life, "Frances of the Farm."

The eleventh annual competitions of working girls' clubs and mothers' clubs, organised by the Sydney University Women's Settlement, will be held in the great hall of the University on Saturday next. Sixteen clubs have entered in the various sections of physical culture, singing, needlework, folk-dancing, and window-gardening. The prizes will be presented by Lady Fairfax.

PENELOPE'S WEEKLY NOTES.

Of a sheep one is offered, of course, a smaller variety of cuts than of an ox. Still, the number of them is sufficiently large to allow plenty of change in the weekly menu. All of the joints may be roasted, though some are far more suitable for that purpose than others. The leg, though not one of the tenderest of mutton joints, is certainly one of those most frequently served, and it may be either roasted, boiled, or cured, and smoked like ham. Many people who do not care for it roasted plainly, quite relish it if it is boned and stuffed either with the stuffing used for roast fowl or with that used for ducks and geese. If it is treated as fowl, it should be accompanied by bread sauce; if as duck, by apple. It may also be treated like hare, and sent to table with red currant jelly. Boiled, this joint is not so nutritious as roasted, but carefully cooked and served with either nutmeg, onion, or caper sauce it makes a pleasing change here and there in the dinner menu. The saddle, accounted the best joint of a sheep, is simply the two loins undivided. It is generally roasted and served with red currant jelly. The haunch consists of the leg and loin together, and is too large a joint for the requirements of a small family. Cutlets are taken either from the thick end of the loin, the middle of the leg, or the best end of the neck. Those taken from the loin are tenderest and best liked. The breast of mutton is excellent if cut into small pieces, dredged with flour, and lightly fried; then gently stewed with herbs and an onion, or onion and a little tomato till quite tender, and served with a good gravy into which has been stirred a quart of well-cooked green peas. The gravy should be poured over the meat. A shoulder is a good joint if carefully cooked. It is best roasted and served with onion sauce. Neck of mutton may be roasted, and served with red currant jelly, boiled and served with white sauce, or stewed. It may also be disjointed and sent to table as a haricot, a curry, a hash, or an Irish stew. The scrag end is very good stewed and served with young carrots and rice; or rice and tomatoes.

* * * * *

One may have loin, chump, or neck chops. The loin are tenderest, the chops from the two latter portions being chiefly serviceable for curries and stews. A "chine" is the two sides of the neck undivided. The neck is very useful for broth making. It should not—for that purpose—ever be quite covered with water, and the cooking process should be slow, and not too long. If cooked too long the broth is often bitter and unpalatable.

* * * * *

Fruit is not particularly plentiful just at present. Some excellent American apples are being shown by the fruiterers, but the best of them are rather beyond the average purse, seeing it is now war-time with us, and that there are so many "funds" on foot for swallowing our spare pence. Good apples may still be bought for from 6d a dozen. Fiji bananas are with us at 9d and 1s a dozen, and excellent paw-paws at 6d and 9d each. Some early cherries have "arrived," and are for sale for only 9d a lb. Strawberries are still cheap, and good at last week's prices. Baskets of small red guavas are 6d each, and loquats at 3d a pint are sufficiently plentiful. American grape fruit may be specially recommended for this hot, thirsty weather. It is usually eaten like the orange. Pineapples are rather dearer, though fairly large ones may be bought for 9d each. Mulberries at 6d and 9d a basket may be recommended for puddings and pies; and passionfruit at 6d a dozen for fruit salads.

* * * * *

In the vegetable world we find cabbages and cauliflowers dearer and scarcer, and French beans still rather beyond the housekeeper of only moderate means. Cauliflowers are 8d, 9d, and 1s each—the lower-priced ones being scarcely worth buying. Cabbages run from 6d upwards, and French beans from 1s 6d a peck. Broad beans are still plentiful and good—1s a peck. Cheap peas are now scarcely anywhere to be bought, their price this week being 2s and 2s 3d a peck. There is a fair quantity of asparagus on the market at 9d and 1s a bunch. Tomatoes, rather improved in quality since last week, run from 6d a dozen upwards, and vegetable marrows are growing cheaper and more plentiful, quite large ones being available at 5d each.

SILK CULTURE.

The Silk Culture Society of New South Wales has been working very hard of late to bring before the members, and the general public, the importance of planting the White Mulberry or Morus Alba everywhere, as it is the only suitable food for the silkworm. This war reminds us of the advisability of beginning the manufacture in this country. Silk, as we all know, is a very profitable business, but like everything else it must have a beginning, and this is just the time to try to capture some of this trade. The committee therefore urges the members to re-double their efforts, and would impress upon the public the advisability of supporting this good work; they will gladly furnish further particulars. For this purpose a member of the committee is in attendance every Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 4.30 at the Girls' Realm Guild, 76 Pitt-street. E.A.

ON THE BELGIAN COAST.

The pier at Seebrugge, from which, as we read in the cables the Germans shelled a Belgian lightship, is a most imposing structure, and not at all the usual kind of pier erected at a watering place. It is a huge mole, not far from Heyst, and looking towards Blankenberghe, extending in a semi-circular shape into the North Sea, and forming the port. As to dimensions, these are officially given as follows:—2500 metres in length, encircling a roadstead of 138 hectares. It protects a wall of 1721 metres in length, with a platform of 74 metres broad, bearing the harbour plant, sheds, extending over 9500 square metres, railway lines, electric cranes, etc. Seebrugge is connected with Brussels by the railway; all the trunk lines are State-owned in Belgium, but a light line has been established along the coast, between the principal watering places.

Of late watering places or "plages" have sprung up like mushrooms on this coast. A visit to Belgium is seldom considered complete without a trip to one or more of them. Heystsurmer ranks next after Ostend and Blankenberghe. From the beach the big liners going in and out of the Scheldt were plainly seen, making Heyst a lively spot, for it owns a fishing fleet of its own, which all adds, or added, as it must now be put, to the animation of the scene. These boats are old-world, as quaint and old-world as the dress of the fisher folk, who have not changed for centuries. But at last the change has come. It is only to be expected, but not the less sad on that account that old manners and ideas have been blown to atoms by the guns of the Germans all along the Belgian coast.

Between Ostend and Dunkirk lie Nieuport, Westende, and Oost-Duinkirke, and these are all connected by a light line of railway. Middlekerke is one of these watering places, which is almost in France, and has exactly the characteristics of all the North Sea resorts. They are very gay in the season and intensely dreary out of it. To Australians accustomed to white beaches, huge cliffs, and dashing breakers, these tame, flat coasts, with grass-grown dunes, dull-coloured sands, and the grey North Sea, with its "cruel, crawling foam," look inexpressibly sad; and the sadness is intensified by a visit to any of the little chapels, "Notre dame des dunes," or what not, in which fisherfolk have worshipped for centuries. Some of these tiny places are crumbling to decay; some are well cared for, but all are old. Pathetic beyond description are the memorial tablets on the walls to dead and gone fishermen and sailors. The toll of the sea has been taken from each and every village. "Disparu en mer," "mort en mer," "decede en mer"—so the inscriptions run. The people are the children of the sea. They live beside it, and get their living out of it, and it their last resting place. But now even their ever-treacherous neighbour, the sea, is proving less cruel than their worse than treacherous human neighbours. THE TRAVELLER.

AN IRISH AUSTRALIAN.

A friend of the late Mr. Zachary Collis Barry writes:—The many friends of the late Collis Barry mourn him, who once a friend was always a friend. Change of circumstance made no difference to him, for his was a rare soul, in that money and position were baubles in the matter of friendship. He had theories of life, and of the value of life, and his scorn was roused by the absence of chivalry, the rough and tumble of life, "to get on" being the aim of most men.

Women's cause, women's work, women's brains were subjects in which he never lost interest. Originally destined for the bar, he received a fine training from the late Professor Stephens, whose school he attended, and from his father, the late Rev. Zachary Barry, M.A., LL.D., who was a scholar and a fighter. On history, art, poetry, and literature he was an authority; and he often deplored the fact that he had not been able to follow the bent of his inclinations, which were those of a scholar. Like his father, honour and integrity were (he thought) the aims of a man's life. The deference with which he treated woman was born of that innate love of justice, and of the laws of God, which ought to teach a man that woman is man's helpmate in every walk of life. The fact that woman was weaker physically than man was the reason he held that she should exact man's chivalry, and man's tenderness of conscience. He had by his counsel over and over again strengthened many a helpless widow, and many a weary worker. Nor did he forget the aged. It is men of that type that we Australian women love to honour and to remember.

STARVING STOCK.

With regard to the Association for the Relief Travelling Stock, public opinion was voiced at the first public meeting held by the A.R.T.S., and led to some betterment of conditions for travelling stock. There was less overloading and quicker transit. Upon the Railway Commissioners should be now urged the absolute necessity of quicker and better transit of starving stock to pasturage, which in many instances is being paid for by the unfortunate stockowner, while his stock are dying because the department cannot provide him with trucks to move them. The largely increased expenditure on this branch of the service should find the department prepared to cope with drought conditions, which have been indicated for some considerable time past. A purely feminine movement such as the A.R.T.S. may not do much to better the condition, but they can voice it for the people away from centres, who have joined for that purpose. An Advisory Board of practical men has been appointed by the A.R.T.S. to assist them where needed, and their communications will have the consideration of the association.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Canadian Costumes: M. W.—Decidedly the best bathing costumes are the woollen Canadians, except for competing swimmers, who use neck-to-knee single garments. To prevent woollen "bathers" getting hard and stiff they should never be put into fresh water at all, but wrung out and hung up in the shade. If you wish to preserve your costume, forego the fresh shower on coming out of the surf. Buy a good quality Canadian, and it will last two seasons, properly treated.

Cards.—G.B.A.: Visiting cards should be left at a first formal call only. The lady calling leaves one of her own cards and two of her husband's. The idea of this is that a lady calls on the lady of the house, but not on the master, as it is not etiquette for a lady to visit a man. But a man may visit a lady, consequently the caller leaves one card from her husband for the master of the house and one for his wife. Where the person visited is a widow or unmarried, the caller's husband is represented by one card only; and should the visitor be herself a widow or a single woman, naturally she will only leave her own card. In returning the call, the same rule holds good. Cards should be left, not handed to a servant, unless they are asked for by the servant. Cards should only be exchanged in this way once. But if on calling the answer is "not at home," the caller should leave her own card and two of her husband's, if it be a first call, and her own card only upon any subsequent occasion. It is not etiquette to pay a formal call twice in succession unless the first has been returned.

The unassailable supremacy of the "Smiths" in London can be estimated from the Telephone Directory. The honourable family of Jones, for example, occupies not quite four pages. The Robinsons, who have a place with the greatest, do not require two pages. But the Smiths begin on page 752, and end on page 770. The families of Jones, Robinson, Thomas, and others may compete for the second place, but incomparably above them all stand the Smiths.

WOMEN'S GUILD OF PERTH.

Although Perth ranks as one of the younger cities of Australia, the annual report of the Women's Service Guild of Western Australia bears witness to an amount of enterprise and of work that would not discredit any city in the Empire. The Women's Service Guild, which includes many of the most influential women of the west, has for its object:—

"To support from the standpoint of women any movements to protect, defend, and uplift humanity; to be loyal citizens of the State and Empire; to educate the women of the State in social and economic questions."

Moreover, this representative body of women is working absolutely along non-party lines. If the Labour party favour their movements they vote Labour. If, however, they believe they will receive fuller support from Liberals, they vote Liberal. Their aim is not to support Liberal or Labour, but that party which will give reasonable response to their demands for the recognition of certain rights and privileges for women. For instance, the immigration sub-committee has done most valuable work in meeting the immigration boats and visiting the immigration homes and suggesting and working for needed improvements.

Again, the vigilance committee of the guild printed leaflets warning young girls on the dangers of the city, and with the sanction of the Railway Department were enabled to place placards of public advice on the principal railway stations. Another committee has been working hard for the erection of a much-needed maternity hospital. A sub-committee also reports on the Women's Prison and Old Women's Home.

Efforts were made—and were partially successful—to induce the managers of shops to provide seating accommodation for their women and girl employees. A sub-committee are working for the further censoring of cinematograph films shown to young children.

Efforts are being made also to induce the Western Australian Department of Justice to organise the Children's Court, the women's probation officers, etc. in conformity with the system obtaining in the United States of America. As a result of a deputation which waited on the Mayor, the city of Perth has excellent and ample lavatory accommodation for women. Also a deputation was successful in obtaining a promise for a home for inebriate women. Likewise, the Attorney-General was petitioned to prevent the sale of wine in fruit and refreshment shops, and to this request he acceded. Also certain parts of the city which are badly lighted, and consequently unsafe for women or children at night, were brought under the attention of the council, and this matter promptly remedied. In fact, the result of this year's work marks many improvements in the civic and social life of the Western Australian women.

The guild has been endeavouring to obtain their representatives on the municipal councils. So far, we have not been successful, but this advance is, we believe, inevitable, and not far distant. C. M. L.

HOW TO MATCH-MAKE.

Matchmakers come roughly speaking, under two headings—ambitious people who matchmake in order to bring about what is called "a good marriage;" and those who do so for pure love of the game. For there is no doubt that it is a fascinating pursuit, albeit a dangerous one. If a match turns out well, one gets very little thanks; if badly, reproaches and abuse are freely bestowed.

A friend of mine once came to me, and, telling me that she was very much in love, implored me to help her. Her aunt, a very stern old lady, with whom she lived, had taken a great dislike to her Edwin. Would I arrange a meeting for them at my house? I was young myself, and enthusiastically agreed. Nay, more, I chaperoned Angelina to dances, and discreetly failed to notice how many times she was lost with Edwin in the dim recesses of the "sitting-out" places. The aunt was eventually induced to give her consent, and the wedding took place. Last week Angelina came to see me; she had had a quarrel with Edwin, and was in a very bad temper in consequence.

"I want you to help me," she said, coldly. "You ought to feel some responsibility, since the whole thing is really your fault."

I gasped with amazement and she had the grace to look somewhat ashamed of herself. "Well," she added, "I should never have married Edwin if it had not been for you."

And that is all the gratitude one gets.

The two things absolutely necessary to a successful matchmaker are patience and tact. Patience, because she must be able to wait calmly and to show a smiling face, however badly things seem to be going. Tact, because far and away the most successful matchmakers are those who never show their cards. The ones who let their hands be seen are nearly always foredoomed to failure. They defeat their own ends by making the people they want to bring together feel awkward and uncomfortable.

"Why didn't you marry her yourself?" I once said laughingly to a man I knew very well, apropos of a very pretty and charming girl friend of mine whose engagement had recently been announced.

"I wished very much to do so," he replied, "and I think I might have had a chance, but her mother spoilt it all. She was very anxious that Edith and I should get on well together and she lost no opportunities of arranging tete-a-tetes for us. It was all so painfully transparent and very often proved decidedly embarrassing. It was not long before Edith grew tired of being, so to speak, cast into my arms. I never had a chance of making the running in my own way, and so—well, this engagement is the result. I owe her mother a grudge for her interference."

It is an odd fact but if a man and a girl realise that you want them to fall in love with each other, they immediately (perhaps, unconsciously) determine not to do so. It is human nature, I suppose—at any rate, British human nature—this wish to go their own way and choose their own mate.

Here are a few hints, the fruit of experience, which may prove useful:—

1. Throw Edwin and Angelina together as much as you like, but never let them see or guess that you have done the throwing. If you think they haev the least suspicion, resort to strong measures and spoil their next interview or two by thrusting your company upon them. If, in addition, you can humble yourself by being a little boring, this course is to be recommended. They will value their prevoius solitude all the more when they get it again.

2. A little judicious "running down" of one to the other does not harm, and has been known to do much good; but do not let your criticism be too severe. Praise, on the other hand, is nearly always to be avoided, for it needs very careful handling, and, like a sleeping draught, must be administered with great discretion. It is apt to arouse suspicion as to your motives, and with some people it prejudices their mind against the person you are praising.

3. If your hopes are realised and the engagement takes place, be careful never to reveal the share you have had in it. You will get very little gratitude for your help, and may come in for a great deal of abuse later, should matters not run quite smoothly.

Finally, remember that match-making is a serious thing, and a great responsibility. It may, perhaps, seem "fun" to you at the time, but if the marriage take place, it means happiness or sorrow for life to the two concerned. Do not set about it in a frivolous spirit, and remember, that love and love alone, in spite of what cynics say, can sanctify marriage. It may seem strong language, but if you wilfully try to bring about an engagement between a girl and a man who may be rich, but for whom you can feel no respect, you are perpetrating a crime: you are condemning that girl to life-long misery, for love without respect is impossible, and no amount of riches can make up for the absence of love.

This article is not written for the benefit of match-making mammas, for with them I confess I have but scant sympathy, though, on the other hand, no one can deprecate rash engagements, ill-advised from a monetary point of view, more than I do. I only say that money is not everything, and, in my opinion, it is the worldly, heedless way in which "society" marriages are arranged that is responsible for the tragic sequels of which we have heard so much lately. A DENTAL TRIUMPH.
PAINLESS FILLINGS! It sounds good, doesn't it? I can't say it feels good, because you don't feel it at all. BUT IT IS good. Scores are testifying to that fact every month.
HOW? I have a special apparatus—the only one in Sydney—which is the foundation of my method. I can drill and fill your most sensitive tooth and cause no pain. My system of painless extraction is acknowledged unequalled. This system of painless fillings is just as certain. And I guarantee in writing all my fillings and plate work for five years against fair wear and tear.
No matter how difficult the extraction, —even of an abscessed tooth—I will perform it painlessly. You won't feel the removal, nor any painful pricking, nor suffer from swollen gums.
I will examine your teeth and give you an estimate of cost; tell you whether you have work to be done or not, and it will cost you nothing for the examination and estimate. It will entail no obligation to have me do the work.

A Summer Cough Mixture that Saves Your Money and Does You Good

THE TURBULENT DUCHESS.

By PERCY JAMES BREBNER.

(ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.)

CHAPTER III.—Continued.

"Cousin, he puzzles me, this jester of yours. His impudence is often more apparent than his humour, and it is whispered in Metsburg that he is a spy."

"Who whispers it?"

"Gossip in the market place, and it is discussed in tavern and workshop. Can you wonder? His coming was strange; he has no name, and owns to no country. Could any man be better fitted for a spy?"

"I find him an excellent fool," said the Duchess.

"And give him every opportunity to learn your secrets. I wonder if you realise how great a license you give him. If he is a spy, I shall know it presently. He would be surprised to know how close a watch I keep on him."

"You watch him? You dare to——"

"Duchess, am I not Captain of your Guard, responsible for your safety and the security of the city?"

She was angry, but she could not deny his wisdom in taking precaution.

"For whom should he be a spy?" she asked.

"Perhaps for Brandenburg, perhaps for Louis of France. They are both capable of using duplicity as well as arms, and while one covets your fair State, the other may speedily have need of your friendship. Turenne has yet to be driven back, and your friendship might give him a high road through Podina to further conquest. It is not only German princes who are ready to wed you, and King Louis has not forgotten to scheme, I warrant."

"Quite true, Karl. The Marquis de Vannes is in Metzburg to tell me of a cousin of King Louis who is most desirous to marry me. I have heard of this same cousin, and would not willingly have my bitterest enemy wedded to him."

"It is something to know that de Vannes is only the messenger. I thought he bore himself as if he were an aspirant for your hand."

"I have heard of him, too," laughed the Duchess, "and doubt if he could name his grandfather with any degree of certainty. But I talk gossip, and gossip is the business of the market-place and taverns; you will have enough to do if you go there listening for danger. I wonder what they say in the taverns concerning a certain Prince Karl; and do they not give me greater beauty and a more devilish temper than I really possess? They talk of my marriage there, no doubt. I wonder what the jester will have to say to it."

"Something insolent, for which you should punish him."

"We will see." And then she called, "Bergolet! Bergolet!"

"You would ask his advice?"

"Why not? I assure you he has often given me good counsel."

"This is too outrageous!" Karl exclaimed, springing to his feet. "Your laughter is bad enough, but I do not stay to be ridiculed by a merry-andrew."

"Are you afraid of the wit you despise?"

"I shall not stay."

"It is my wish that you stay. I do not command, but if you go it is very certain you shall never have the honour of being my husband, and I may doubt your loyalty sufficiently to find another keeper of the city."

Again he remembered how much he had to lose by disobeying her, and he had reseated himself beside the duchess when the jester came across the lawn towards them. He came soberly, still thinking of the fortune-teller and ten of the clock.

"You called, mistress."

"Bergolet, my ministers say it is expedient that I should marry. Whom would you advise me to take for a husband?"

"Why, that is an easy riddle," he laughed, leaning against the basin of the fountain. "Marry the best man you can find."

"It is not so easy, fool. I might find the man, but for reasons of State dare not marry him."

"He must be a man of no importance," said the jester reflectively; "and he is hard to find, especially if you be guided by his own opinion. Well, mistress, you pay me for my services, and even as a husband I might still amuse you."

"I had not thought of that," laughed the Duchess.

"It is true I have never been a husband," said the jester, "but to-night—to-night it seems to me I might do worse."

"Is that insolence, Karl?"

"Indeed I think so."

"It is refreshing to hear the truth. Possibly you might do worse, Bergolet—I believe less attractive women than I am do exist—but for reasons of State the Duchess may not wed her fool. Find me some other husband. If rumour be true, there are a score of anxious candidates waiting."

"So I am too dangerous. Why not marry Prince Karl then?"

"Is that your advice?"

"I can think of no man less dangerous."

"It seems to me you owe Bergolet some thanks, Karl."

"I will earn your thanks, Prince. I will urge you upon her Grace until I weary her."

"You are not in my service, Master Fool, which is fortunate for you," Karl answered, scowling.

"I have already promised to think of such a marriage," said the Duchess.

"And yet he wears a glum countenance!" the jester explained. "Give me such a promise, mistress, and happiness would make me beautiful. Is it too late? Offer me the post of husband, and most willingly shall the Prince have my cap and bells."

"Must a man be either a husband or a fool, then, Bergolet?"

"Surely, when so beautiful a woman offers to marry him."

"Sometimes you are more courtier than fool," she said with a little sigh as she stood up. "Come, Karl, it grows a little chilly I think, and those maids in Metzburg who thought of love are probably going to sleep now. Besides, we start early to-morrow. Remember, Bergolet, you ride your mule with us to the gate. Forgive my whims, Karl; you are likely to spend your life putting up with them. No, it is not a promise, but——"

"I long to do you some service which shall prove how much I love you," said the Prince; and, before she was aware of his purpose, he had bent and kissed her hand.

The jester stood by the fountain until they had gone, then by another path he hurried through the garden towards his lodging high in the tower. Only one purpose was clear in his mind: he must have his fortune told to-night. Much might depend upon it.

CHAPTER IV.

THE FORTUNE-TELLER.

With an ample cloak about him, his bauble and cap of bells discarded, Bergolet hurried from the castle. He was a privileged person, and passed the sentries easily. A glance at his green and scarlet dress was passport enough. Once in the streets, however, he drew the cloak closer to conceal his dress. He had made enemies in Metzburg; and had not the fortune-teller warned him that men sometimes died a violent death in the streets and no one was called to account.

The market-place was in shadows. Here and there a dim light shone from an upper window, but no one was abroad unless they were hiding in an angle of a wall. The irregular houses cut a fantastic outline against the night sky; the crocketed spire of St. Anne's was like a warning finger. From the depths of a narrow wynd, which looked mysterious and full of danger, came the faint echo of singing, men drinking in some tavern or wine-cellar; otherwise the market square, the centre of the town's bustle in the daytime, was silent and lifeless; its cobbled pavements empty, its booths packed up until to-morrow.

By St. Anne's was the saddler's shop, an elaborate sign of a rearing horse swinging over the doorway. No glimmer of light came from any window, and the door was shut. Never did visitor seem less expected or welcome. Bergolet looked about him sharply, trying to pierce the shadows. Was this a trick; some trap set for him? Perchance his knock upon the door would be the signal for attack, and he glanced back over the market-place to see what line of retreat would be the best. He had not been long enough in Metzburg to know every turn of the streets, nor what corners might be used with advantage.

He knocked gently at the door, and stood back a little; but there came no rush of attack from within, nor hurrying feet over the cobbles behind him. He was about to knock again when the door opened slowly, and just sufficiently to show the figure of an old man. It was darker within the house than without.

"Is the lady waiting?" Bergolet whispered, remembering his instructions.

The man made no reply as he drew back to let him enter. Then he closed the door and quickly shot a bolt home. From a corner, where it had been set to hide its light until he was sure of his visitor, he took a lantern and held it above his head. They were in the saddler's shop, which the flickering lantern peopled with distorted shapes as the man led the way through it. At the end he opened a door into a passage which smelt damp, as if it were little used; and in this passage he opened what looked like a cupboard door, but which disclosed a flight of stairs going upwards.

QUESTION OF JURISDICTION.

City Finance Company, Ltd., v Matthew Harvey and Co., Ltd.

This case was further heard, and the Court, after hearing argument, reserved judgment.

DISPUTE ABOUT SORGHUM.

A. Yates and Co., Ltd., v Farnsworth.

Mr. Leverrier, K.C., and Mr. Curlewis, instructed by Mr. H. J. Aspinall, appeared for the defendant in support of the appeal; and Mr. Shand, K.C., Mr. Broomfield, and Mr. Frank Coen, instructed by Mr. W. G. Parish, for the plaintiffs to oppose. This was a motion, on leave reserved, for an order setting aside the verdict found for plaintiffs, and entering a non-suit, or in the alternative to enter a verdict for defendant or for a new trial. The action, which was tried before the Chief Justice and a jury of four at the last August-September sittings, was brought by Arthur Yates and Co., Ltd., against Robert Sydney Farnsworth, commission agent, to recover compensation for breach of contract in regard to the sale by defendant to plaintiffs of 65 bags of planters' seed (sorghum). Plaintiff's case was that in September of last year they purchased the seed from defendant through his agent, but after they had made tests they found that a great deal of the seed would not germinate, and was, therefore, useless for their purpose. The seed had been paid for, and plaintiffs told Farnsworth that as the second test was not satisfactory they would expect him to take the seed back and return their money. Plaintiffs' manager also pointed out to defendant that his firm bought seed, and that it was not seed unless it germinated. Defendant, however, replied that he had nothing to do with that; that plaintiffs saw the sample and the bulk, and that as he sold on bulk he took no responsibility. The plaintiffs then brought the action, and defendant denied that he had been guilty of any breach of contract, and said that he did not guarantee when he sold the seed that it would prove fertile. He originally bought it through the agent from a seedsman in the Hay market, as far as he knew. He (defendant) was not a seedsman, but a commission agent, and this was his first transaction of the kind. The jury returned a verdict for plaintiffs, with damages £157 16s 5d, finding specially, in answer to questions put by his Honor, that in offering the goods for sale to the plaintiffs the defendant intended to be understood as offering seed of a quality that would grow when sown, and that plaintiffs so understood him. Defendant now appealed on the grounds that plaintiffs should have been nonsuited; that his Honor should have directed the jury that there was no evidence of any trade usage with respect to the sale of the seed; and that the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

The case stands part heard.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Ferguson and a jury of four.)

A THEATRICAL ACTION.

ALLEGED BREACH OF AGREEMENT.

Anderson v Allan.

Mr. Curtis, instructed by Mr. Neville W. Montagu, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. E. J. Bayly Macarthur, instructed by Messrs. Stephen, Jaques, and Stephen, for defendant. This was an action brought by William Anderson, theatrical proprietor, against Maud Allan, the well-known dancer, to recover compensation for alleged breach of agreement. Particulars of the case have already been stated.

The evidence for the defence was continued, and defendant, being further cross-examined, said that on the night of the accident she did not come forward after the performance and bow to the audience. She was at the back of the stage. The cost of the orchestra to her came to about £120 per week. There were 34 or 35 performers, and she did not think they received as much as £183.

Did you not occupy a box at "Bunty Pulls the Strings" on August 16, the second Wednesday after the accident?—No.

Before August 22?—No.

To Mr. Bayly Macarthur: Her losses owing to her inability to appear were about £1200. Her expenses had been very heavy, and she had to cancel engagements at Brisbane and Adelaide, and continue paying salaries to people in her employ.

To his Honor: She suffered serious pain for about three weeks, and after that time the intensity of the pain diminished.

A Juryman: Can you say why it was that there was delay in plaintiff's doctors having an interview with you?—That depended on the arrangements they made with my own medical advisers. The only stipulation I made was that they should make their examination in the presence of either Sir Alexander MacCormick or Dr. Dawson.

William A. M'Leod, manager for the defendant, gave evidence that no delay occurred in informing plaintiff's manager of defendant's inability to perform, and immediately after the medical man had examined Miss Allan he went straight to the Palace Theatre with their verdict. Defendant was confined to her bed for 10 days, and it was not until September 26 that she was again able to appear on any stage. In the first week of her season in Sydney (apart altogether from her personal expenditure) she incurred expenses amounting to £396. In the next three weeks her expenditure was £486. During the three weeks of the Melbourne season the receipts were £791, £1026, and £776.

Other evidence, including that of Leo Cherniavsky, was given in corroboration of previous witnesses as to the accident to defendant, and what occurred immediately afterwards.

Sir Alexander MacCormick, whose evidence was taken on commission prior to his departure from Australia, said that about July 8 he was called in to attend Miss Allan, and found that she was suffering from a displaced cartilage. At the time he examined her it was absolutely impossible for her to go through the contortions in connection with the dances which she performed. He advised her to take a complete rest, and to use massage. The rest necessary in his opinion to bring about a complete cure, and to prevent a recurrence of the dislocation, was eight weeks. If the defendant had gone on dancing, and had a recurrence of the trouble, it would lead to permanent injury.

Dr. Dawson, whose evidence had also been taken on commission, said there was no doubt that defendant when he saw her was suffering from dislocation of the cartilage of the knee. She was suffering pain, and he advised her to stay in bed for a time. If Miss Allan had attempted to dance immediately after the reduction of the dislocation there would have been a recurrence of the injury.

This closed the evidence on both sides.

Counsel completed their addresses, but his Honor did not finish his summing up to the jury.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

KILNER'S, LTD.

Mr. Harriott, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared on behalf of Alfred Kilner, of Cannon street, Petersham, who petitioned that Kilner's, Ltd., of Broadway, Glebe, be wound up.

Mr. Knox, K.C., and Mr. Maughan, instructed by Messrs. Parish and Stephens, appeared on behalf of the company to oppose the application.

The petitioner set out in his claim that the members of the company had been reduced in number to less than seven, and it was just and equitable that the company should be wound up.

Louisa Kilner stated in her affidavit that she was the wife of the petitioner, and had been the managing director of the company since its formation. She alleged that the application was not a bona-fide one, but for the purpose of compelling the liquidation of the company. If such liquidation were brought about the business and assets must necessarily be sacrificed.

His Honor said it was quite clear the petitioner wanted to have the company wound up for his own benefit. He thought the Court should refuse to make any order unless stronger reasons than those submitted were shown. The petition would be dismissed with costs.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

A COOMBING CREEK PROPERTY.

M'Phillamy v Campbell.

This was a suit in which Walter John M'Phillamy prayed that the defendants, Joseph Campbell and his wife, Mary Campbell, be declared trustees for him of certain lands, and that they be ordered to join in the conveyance of the lands as he might direct.

Mr. Maughan and Mr. Weston, instructed by Messrs. Weaver and Allworth (agents for Messrs. Pile and Westgarth, of Blayney), appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. R. K. Manning, instructed by Messrs. M'Lachlan and Murray, of Sydney and Orange, for the defendants.

Plaintiff set out in his statement of claim that by an indenture, dated July 7, 1876, Thomas Dover, farmer and grazier, of Coombing Creek, near Carcoar, conveyed the fee simple of certain lands owned by him, by way of mortgage, to Mary Abbott (now the defendant Mary Campbell), to secure the repayment of £100 advanced by her, subject to a proviso for redemption. Subsequently Mary Abbott married the defendant Joseph Campbell. In 1877 the defendants assigned the mortgage debt of £100, together with other valuable securities, to one Henry Rotton in consideration of £412 10s—the assignment and transfer was intended by way of mortgage only, and Dover received due notice thereof. In July, 1878, Dover paid Rotton, as assignee, the principal and interest moneys secured by the mortgage for the £100, and the defendants received the benefit of the same, and their account with Rotton was credited with the same. Since the redemption Dover and his successors in title had been in continuous and uninterrupted possession of the lands, and the defendants had never set up any claim to them, but no reconveyance of the legal estate had ever been executed by them. By an indenture, dated September 21, 1903, Dover conveyed the lands to plaintiff by way of mortgage to secure the repayment of £200 and interest, advanced by plaintiff to Dover; subject to a proviso for redemption and the usual powers of sale. On March 25, 1911, plaintiff, under the power of sale contained in the mortgage, sold the lands by public auction to one John Garment. Plaintiff had discovered that the legal estate in the lands was still outstanding in the defendant Mary Campbell, who, he charged, was trustee of the same for him. He had requested the defendants to execute a conveyance of the legal estate as he should direct, but they had neglected and refused to do so, hence the institution of the suit.

The defence was that the moneys due under the mortgage had never been paid by Dover, and, therefore, that they were not bound to reconvey the lands.

The suit stands part heard.

THEATRE MUSICIANS' DISPUTE.

CHARGE OF INSTIGATING A STRIKE.

Upon information laid by Brennan's Amphitheatres, Limited, Alfred O'Brien, secretary of the Musicians' Union of Australia, was called upon to show cause why he should not be ordered to pay such penalties as the Court might impose, on a charge of instigating a strike of professional musicians in the employ of Brennan's Amphitheatres, Ltd., on June 15, and further, for aiding a strike of such employees on August 3.

Mr. Pickburn, instructed by Messrs. Minter, Simpson, and Co., appeared for the prosecution; Mr. Watt and Mr. Jordan, instructed by Mr. J. B. Moffatt, appeared for the defendant.

The charge of aiding and abetting the strike was based on an allegation that strike pay had been paid to the members of the orchestra out of work. Officers and members of the union were called, who declared that whatever assistance was given was from the benevolent fund of the union.

The case was not concluded when the Court adjourned till Thursday morning.

(Before Mr. Justice Edmunds.)

STEREO. AND ELECTRO TYPERS' WAGES.

His Honor delivered his reserved judgment in the appeal by the New South Wales Typographical Association against the rates of wages awarded by clauses 2 and 3 of the Printing Trades No. 1 Board, gazetted on January 14, 1914. The wages appealed against were:—Stereotypers, day work, £3 per week of 48 hours; night work, £3 10s per week of 36 hours; electrotypers, day work, £3 10s per week of 48 hours, night work, £4 per week of 36 hours. The rates were the same as awarded for one year on May 22, 1912.

His Honor dismissed the application increase, holding that the rates awarded were fair, in consideration of the evidence submitted to the board. He declined to raise the rates up to the standard of those paid in the daily newspaper offices (increases of 7s 6d per week, day work, and 2s 6d per week, night work), holding that the rushed work of a daily newspaper office deserved higher rates. It was made clear in the judgment that the effect of the war had not been considered, the parties desiring to have the broad principle of the rates decided, and to allow any further application that might be made on account of the war decided on its merits.

CLOTHING TRADE PIECE RATES.

His Honor delivered his reserved judgment in the case stated against the decision of the industrial magistrate at Orange, imposing a penalty for a breach of the Clothing Trades Group No. 1 Board, of May, 7, 1913, in not paying the piece-work rates prescribed for the making of a sac coat.

His Honor upheld the appeal, and set aside the Orange industrial magistrate's order.

G. AND C. HOSKINS' EMPLOYEES.

His Honor delivered his reserved judgment in the appeal by G. and C. Hoskins, Ltd., against a decision of the Industrial Magistrate. A large number of the employees of the firm were engaged in the construction of a railway at Tallawang from an old railway siding towards the firm's quarry. Being so employed, they claimed that they came under the purview of the award of Railway and Tramway Construction, Road, and Water Conservation Board, which required that time and pay sheets should be kept. The magistrate decided in favour of this contention, and imposed a fine upon the firm for not keeping time and pay sheets. G. and C. Hoskins, Ltd., appealed against this decision, holding that their employees were specially provided for under the Iron and Shipbuilding Trades Group, No. 12 Board.

His Honor said the prosecution was really one to secure the rates of pay provided by the Railway Construction Board's award. After reviewing the whole of the circumstances leading up to the creation of a separate board to cover the employees of G. and C. Hoskins, Ltd., his Honor upheld the appeal, and reversed the decision of the Industrial Magistrate.

GRAIN MILLERS' WAGES.

His Honor delivered his reserved decision in the case of the appeal by the Federated Millers' and Mill Employees' Union against the award of the Manufacturing (No. 21 Group, No. 2 Board's award, as affected grain (other than wheat) millers, starch, and condiment makers. After an inspection of the mills in the industry, his Honor said he had decided that the labour should be placed in the second grade.

His Honor then awarded an increase of wages in six of the classes of labour concerned, but directed that these amendments of the award should not be gazetted for two weeks, in order to give the employers an opportunity of applying for a variation on the grounds of the effect of the war. If no such application is made within a fortnight, the amended award is to be gazetted.

In the appeal case O'Sullivan v Finch, decided in the Industrial Court on Monday, Mr. J. B. Moffatt, instructed Mr. Wise, K.C., and Mr. Crawford, on behalf of the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Association.

LAND APPEAL COURT.

(Before Mr. H. A. G. Curry, President; and Messrs. W. Houston and C. E. Rennie, Commissioners.)

Mr. Harbury Davies, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, appeared in all cases for the Minister.

DISMISSED.

The reference by the Minister for Lands in respect of an application by George Edgar, Alfred Harry, and Ernest Frank Richardson (executors of the will of George Biggs Richardson, deceased) for permission to transfer to Ernest Frank Richardson conditional purchase No. 1910-120, and conditional lease No. 1910-67, Dubbo land district, was dismissed.

Mr. Pike, instructed by Mr. A. D. Booth, solicitor, of Dubbo, appeared for respondents.

CASES FOR REHEARING.

J. Bell, land district of Dubbo, appealed against the recommendation of the local Land Board in respect of travelling stock reserve No. 1110, parish of Medway, county of Lincoln, land district of Dubbo.

Mr. Pike, instructed by Mr. A. D. Booth, of Dubbo, appeared for appellant.

The Court remitted the case to the local board for rehearing and further evidence, the evidence already given to be taken as evidence at such rehearing. Deposit on appeal to be refunded.

W. Douglas appealed against the recommendation of the local Land Board for refusal of his application for conversion of special lease, No. 4458, Dubbo, into an additional conditional purchase, No. 1913-74, Dubbo.

Mr. McManamey appeared for applicant. This case was also remitted to the local board for rehearing, deposit to be refunded.

APPEAL SUSTAINED.

R. H. Barnett appealed against the recommendation of local Land Board for refusal of his application for conversion [illegible] special lease, No. 1910-23, Dubbo, [illegible] (No. 1914-6, Dubbo).

Mr. Pike, instructed by Mr. [illegible], of Dubbo, appeared for appellant. The Court [illegible] tained the appeal in so far that [illegible] mended that the application be [illegible] about 10 acres adjoining the river [illegible] mitted the case to the board for [illegible] action. Deposit to be refunded.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Backhouse and a jury.)

Mr. R. J. Browning, Crown Prosecutor.)

ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER.

George Long, 23, was charged with [illegible] on September 8, feloniously slain [illegible] James Brewster.

Mr. McMahon appeared for accused, who pleaded not guilty.

The case for the defence was that Long did not strike Brewster at all, but that deceased was holding him and fell when Long threw him off. The resulting bruises were caused by falling on the pavement.

The jury acquitted the accused, who was accordingly discharged.

TWO CHARGES.

Robert Hill, aged 25, was charged with assaulting Ernest Albert Rainford, at [illegible], on August 27. Accused was also charged with receiving stolen goods.

Mr. McMahon appeared for accused, who pleaded not guilty.

Accused denied having ever seen Rainford before, and said that he never stole in his life.

The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty on the first, but guilty on the second count, of receiving.

His Honor: I've not the slightest doubt that you are guilty on both counts, but as the jury have taken a lenient view, I cannot sentence you for something of which they say you are not guilty.

Accused was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour in Bathurst gaol.

A MOTOR TAX.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As an owner of a car and motor cycle, I would be glad if you would grant me a little space in your columns re proposed special motor vehicle tax. In my case the suggested amounts would be £3 5s and 5s respectively, and I do not think 1 per cent. of the motorists will cavil at the amounts not being reasonable; but I do think that the other 99 per cent. would have a gentle growl if the money were spent on railways or public works other than road construction and maintenance.

The motorist, I am sure, is willing to bear his burden to relieve unemployment, but I think the Government should see that the money derived from a special tax is spent in such a manner as to give some benefit to the special taxpayers. I am, etc.,

Merriwa, Oct. 26. W. G. PINK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—If this is levied for road repairs, and is fair, motorists will not generally object; but at the same time, why are all road users not treated alike?

A man can spend his surplus cash how he pleases; but on a motor car it is really too ostentatious. The most equitable way to tax is by the weight of car and size of tyre. If we assume it is to be used for a specific purpose, and as the cars can be taken for military purposes at any time, it is just as well to improve the roads round town, or they will soon be impassable. Taking the original value of the car as a basis for taxation is a rather doubtful way. Let me quote a stock argument. The cheap car seller informs you that you can purchase three cars to the other's one. Yes, says the dearer car seller, one good car will last out the other three. All right. Three cars at £200 equal £600, at £2 per annum for 10 years, equals £20 taxes; 1 car at £600, equals £600, at £6 per annum for 10 years equals £60 taxes. How will this strike a Government in want of coin? How tax a second hand originally high-priced car?

I am, etc.,

THE CAPTURED FLAG.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir, Can some of your numerous readers inform me what part Victoria and Victorians played in the capture of the German flag at Rabaul, New Britain? Is it not a fact the Expeditionary Force was despatched from the shores of New South Wales? If so, why and wherefore should the flag be handed over to the Commonwealth? Why should it not remain here until the Federal capital is a substance, not a shadow, and possesses a national museum worthy of Australian war trophies, fine arts, etc? We now have an army and a navy, but, alas, in the year 1914, as yet, we have only visionary glimpses of beautiful Canberra. I am, etc.,

AN INQUISITIVE WOMAN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Are we to sit idly by and allow the trophy of war, won by New South Welshmen, to be passed to Victoria? If the trophy is to go to a museum, why not the senior Australian museum at Sydney? Imagine the howl of indignation that would be raised in Melbourne if a Victorian prize were commandeered by the Sydney museum. Let some one who "knows the ropes" commence an agitation for the retention in Sydney of the captured flag. I am, etc.,

BABY'S WHOLE FACE DISFIGURED.

Norway, N.S.W.—"My baby at about the age of three weeks became covered on the face with small red spots. I thought it was just one of the rashes that babies are often subject to, and would soon disappear, but it seemed very obstinate, although I kept on using home remedies for several weeks, and instead of getting better it got gradually worse. You could hardly see a space between the spots. The baby's whole face was scarlet and very much disfigured, and I did not like to take her out of the house. Having read of the Cuticura Ointment, I sent for a sample tin of the Cuticura Ointment, and used it as directed with some Cuticura Soap that I bought. The result was so favourable that I bought some more of the Cuticura Ointment, and after using the best part of one tin the rash had entirely disappeared, leaving just a few isolated spots, which soon faded away, leaving the skin in a splendid condition as it is now." (Signed) Mrs. [illegible] September, 1912.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each with 32-p. Skin Book will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. T., Sydney N.S.W.—Advt.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

POISONING RABBITS.

The Minister for Agriculture can hardly be surprised at the opposition forthcoming against his prohibition of rabbit poisoning within certain areas. It was a new and somewhat startling departure, and one bound to arouse criticism. Nor do we think that the latest development will relieve the position as it affects the Minister; indeed, it is likely to lead to further trouble. The idea of relaxing the regulation in the case of securely wire-netted properties really only further confuses the issue. To be logical, Mr. Ashford should make it a condition of such relaxation of his new regulation that no trapping be permitted on the properties concerned. If this is not done, then one of the original motives given for creating the regulation becomes an apparent fraud. We have been somewhat sceptical as to the question of danger to the public health if rabbit trapping and poisoning are carried on in the same locality, for, as far as we know, there is no evidence that any harm to the consumers of rabbit has resulted at any time because of such practice. Those who are acquainted with the position will not be inclined to treat this phase of the question seriously, as they know there is no likelihood of any serious danger arising. But the likelihood of such danger was given as one of the reasons that actuated the Minister when he prohibited poisoning. On the same reasoning if he allows poisoning on certain properties in the affected areas he cannot allow trapping. And what will the trappers have to say to that development?

Why did the Minister issue this new regulation? As time goes on, the reason does not become the plainer—indeed, there is something contradictory in his statements. When Mr. Ashford signed this regulation he stated that the freezing works were employing a large number of hands, and circulated considerable money, and it was only right that their industry should be protected against the possibilities that were open if poisoning in their vicinity was allowed to go on. The Minister also said that he was influenced by the fact that a drought existed, and the rabbit, as a source of the people's food supply, should not be lost sight of. The latter factor can be promptly dismissed, whether Mr. Ashford meant it seriously or not. The chance of obtaining a decent food supply in the shape of rabbit carcases from drought-stricken districts is not worth consideration. In that respect we notice practical country opinion agrees with our previous comment to the effect that the rabbits would not be worth trapping unless it was for their skins, and even the latter would be of poor quality. On the other hand, the present is an effective time to poison, green feed not being in existence. Thus far, therefore, Mr. Ashford's action merely aims at helping the rabbit trapper at the expense of the landowner.

But later, in replying to the criticism of a correspondent in these columns, Mr. Ashford stated that he "had received letters from pastoralists and others congratulating him on the issue of the regulation, and one pastoralist had said he hoped to see a ban placed on poisoning right throughout the State." The Minister said further that from his own knowledge about three-fourths of the landholders preferred to dig out and trap rather than to poison rabbits. From this it would appear that the main idea was to prohibit poisoning because it was an objectionable method. That is the reasonable interpretation of this statement. If that was in Mr. Ashford's mind, it is a pity he did not say so at the beginning. It would have raised a clear cut issue, and we are inclined to think that the majority of opinion would have supported the Minister, although strong opposition in favour of poisoning would be certain to arise. But in such a case should not the prohibition be general? Where do the freezing works come in as a factor? Yet, in any case, the Minister's latest statement again confuses the issue, for he proposes to allow poisoning within netted areas. So the wisdom of poisoning does not enter the question. Why, then, quote letters from pastoralists in favour of placing a ban on poisoning? Mr. Ashford might make his position clearer.

In the mass of country criticism coming to hand it seems to us that the most vital point has been missed. Protests against the prohibition of poisoning are coming from different districts, but the more important phase does not appear to be raised. As we previously pointed out, the Government, through the action of the Minister for Agriculture, has given a new and momentous status to the interests vested in the rabbit trade. Hitherto that trade has virtually existed on sufferance—now the Government gives it first consideration, placing its interests before those of the landowner who provides the rabbits. We are not advocating the use of poisoning, for we have always felt that if that method of destroying rabbits could be done away it would be a good thing. But we object to the Minister giving a trade special consideration and talking of it as an "industry that should be protected," until it makes good by paying the landholder an equitable return for the rabbits, the presence of which is responsible for its existence. And the interests of the landholders must be considered before the interests of the rabbit trapper. It is not a mere matter of poisoning or no poisoning, but of landholder or trapper, and whether the landholder should receive a return for the use of his grass and country.

"GRINDING TAXATION."

FARMER CRITICISES CRITIC.

In our issue of the 19th inst. Mr. A. Verge, of Kempsey, farmer, stated that he was leaving Australia, intending to settle in Fiji or Argentina, because "the lot of the producer in this country is becoming unbearable. We are being subjected to grinding taxation, and I am sick of it."

In reply another North Coast farmer, Mr. H. Burgmann, Central Lansdowne, Manning River, writes:—Mr. Verge did not say where the grinding taxation came in, or who was responsible for it. When a man makes a statement like this he should qualify it, for the benefit of other farmers, who must also be suffering under this grinding taxation, real or imaginary. I am also a farmer, and fail to see where grinding taxation comes in. The Federal tax placed on the man on the land by the Fisher Government allows a man to hold over £5000 worth of unimproved land before he is taxed. The local government tax for the benefit of the upkeep of our roads, etc., is a very necessary tax. Mr. Verge also stated that Fiji is a very fertile country. But it seemed to him that it was run more in the interests of the natives (the real owners of the land) than the Europeans, and why should it not be so? It is very evident Mr. Verge went to Fiji with the object of taking up land and getting cheap labour. But he was evidently disappointed. He now intends to go to South America, which he thinks has a bright future. But he will also find when he arrives that the taxation is heavier and labour hard to exploit.

"We are sending the very best blood of our nation to fight military despotism in the interests of such men as Mr. Verge. Yet he objects to pay a tax or I should say an assurance policy for the protection of our shores. Well Australia can well do without such men."

A NEW WHEAT.

DEVELOPED BY WALLA WALLA FARMER.

At a recent meeting of the Walla Walla branch of the Agricultural Bureau of New South Wales Mr. J. H. Schmidt, a private experimentalist in wheats, submitted a new sample of this season's wheat. The members of the Bureau compared the sample with some seven or eight samples also brought in by Mr. Schmidt, including some of the latest introduced heavy-yielding wheats of Victoria. It was agreed that the new sample was superior to all the others, and the bureau christened the new variety Schmidt's No. 1. Several years ago Mr. Schmidt's attention was attracted in the wheat field on his property by the distinguishing merits of several ears of wheat. He plucked these ears, and from a few grains he has this season 15 acres under cultivation. The wheat has stooled very well; is about 6in taller than Federation, with ears filling out splendidly. The wheat has been inspected by Mr. A. J. Wenke, of Walla Walla who is regarded as one of the most practical farmers of the district. So delighted was he with the wheat and its prospects that it is said he gave Mr. Schmidt an order on the spot for 20 bags of seed.

CO-OPERATIVE MOVEMENT.

SELLING PRODUCE IN LONDON.

SUPPORTED IN VICTORIA.

As a result of arrangements made at the meeting of the six interstate co-operative distributing companies in May last, Mr. Meares, of the Coastal Farmers' Co-operative Society, Ltd., met the full directorates of the Gippsland and Northern Co-operative Selling Company, and the Victorian Butter Factories Co-operative Company, in Melbourne on Tuesday last. Details of the proposal to establish a co-operative selling floor in London were given, and the matter of financing the Australian enterprise fully discussed.

The following resolution was unanimously carried,—"That this meeting of directors of the Gippsland and Northern Co-operative Selling and Insurance Company, Ltd., and Victorian Butter Factories Co-operative Company, Ltd., recognises the advantage and necessity for the early establishment of an Australian floor in London, and pledges the movement its hearty support."

The following day some 20 delegates from the following factories, viz., Warrnambool, Koriot, Colac, Camperdown, Grasmere, and Framlingham, and Garvoc, met at Warrnambool, when Mr. Meares was present, and the proposal, as outlined by him, was fully debated. Mr. H. W. Osborne, manager of the Western Districts Company, who visited London in September last, gave his views, and, at the close it was resolved, without a dissentient, "That this meeting of directors of Western Districts factories affirms the desirability of the early establishment of an Australian floor in London, and recommends the matter to the favourable consideration of the directors of the Western District Co-operative Selling Company."

FROZEN CARGO.

PROPOSAL TO USE ENEMY SHIPS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Deputations representing butter and meat exporters recently waited upon the Minister for Customs, Mr. Tudor, with reference to the difficulty of obtaining space for refrigerated cargo on outgoing ships, owing to such a large number of cargo ships having been diverted to other purposes. It was urged that the enemy ships now held by the Commonwealth should be made available for carrying such cargo.

Referring to this matter to-day, Mr. Tudor stated that, whilst no conclusion had yet been come to by the Ministry with regard to making use of the enemy ships, exporters would be glad to learn that the White Star steamer Ceramic, 18,481 tons, would be available for frozen cargo.

STATE FLOUR MILL.

FARMERS SUPPORT PROPOSAL.

CRABOON.—A State flour mill would, in all probability, have been established at Dundoo this season had it not been for the outbreak of war, as it is stated that all arrangements had been made by the Minister for Agriculture to that end. The step to put the mill in a new district was considered a very wise one by the farmers of the district, and they were unanimous in their willingness to support the mill when constructed, especially when they remembered the fact that the question of erecting a mill by private enterprise during last year fell flat. Many advantages are to be gained by placing the mill at Dunedoo, owing to being in such close proximity to the cross-country line from Dubbo to Werris Creek. Wheat may easily be purocured from farms along the route of that railway line, when finished.

THE CROPS.

DUBBO.—There are many fine crops in the Dubbo district this year, but none better than the wheat grown on Mount Olive, Mr. Fred Offner's property, on the left bank of the Macquarie, just west of the town. Altogether, he has about 250 acres, mainly Marshall's No. 3, Comeback, and Firbank. The first-named is on land which had been cultivated for 40 years before it was given a spell. Last year, however, the land was fallowed, and this year's crop should yield fully 10 bags to the acre. The straw is all stout and strong and very clean, and the stooling has been quite extraordinary. The average height is about 4ft 6in, and the heads average over 5in in length, with a middle row of grain more than half way up each side. The grain is remarkably plump. Comeback and Firbank are also showing well. As an instance of the fertility of the soil Mr. Offner recently exhibited a stool of 122 stalks of barley growing amongst the wheat. A fair percentage of the crops will be reserved for grain.

DAIRYING.

BERRY.—Speaking at the conference of representatives of the South Coast butter factories at Kiama on the proposed establishment of cheese factories, Mr. F. Oke (chairman of the Berry Dairy Company) said that delegates had been sent to Bodalla to make inquiries as to cheese-making, and in many respects their report was favourable. One delegate said that milk could not be sent a long distance with any prospect of making good cheese, and that dairymen in close proximity to a cheese factory would make money. It was also said that swampy land was unsuitable for cheese. In a good district where milk had not to be carted far he thought that cheese would pay well. The suppliers of the Berry district were against a cheese factory, owing chiefly to the expense and the difficulty of keeping up a constant supply of milk.

HOWRAVILLE.—As a result of the splendid season the yield of cream during September was almost double that of the same month last year. Macksville Butter Factory paid suppliers 9½d and 8½d respectively for first and second-grade. The total paid to suppliers for September was £1572. Bowraville's Butter Factory pay was 9½d and 8½d. Suppliers received upwards of £900.

MURWILLUMBAH.—Fifty-one dairy herds have been entered for the prize offered by the Tweed Agricultural Society for the best herd embraced in the Tweed District Herd Testing Association, milking over a period of 12 months. The testing of the winning herd has been decided, but will not be announced until the first day of the annual show, next month. Last year the entries were larger, but the test period was shorter, being only for six months. That banana culture on the Tweed River is a profitable venture is borne out by the returns of Mr. James Anderson, who combines banana growing with dairy farming in Duranbah District. During the past two months he has taken 195 cases of fruit off five acres of land. The price received ranges from 14s to 18s a case.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

BLACKTOWN.—A large consignment of sheep was untrucked at Toongabbie from Bourke. Mr. Moxham, M.L.A., owner, expressed satisfaction at losing only a few in transit. Poultry farmers agree that they will have less chickens this year than last, though a larger number of eggs were used for breeding. Moxham Bros. have secured large grazing rights around Prospect towards Toongabbie Railway Station. Citrus fruit trees are again blossoming, and, like other fruit trees in local orchards, promise good crops. Some consignments of main crop oranges from this district have realised £1 a bushel-case. Farmers are busy haymaking, and express hopes that the fine weather will continue. Good quality of oaten hay is in evidence in any field around here. Some quantity was air-coloured by last week's rainstorm.

DELEGATE.—The weather in this district is now hot and dry, and a few inches of rain would do incalculable good. Crops are practically at a standstill. Shearing has commenced, and the first load is on its way to Sydney. The nights lately have been cold and frosty. A heavy frost on a recent morning cut down a lot of potatoes and garden stuff, and has probably killed the greater part of the fruit hereabout. Stock are in good condition.

THE WAR AND ITS LESSONS.

Every hour's fighting for supremacy between the Allied Forces and the German Army brings us nearer to a new era that will ultimately dominate the future policy of the Anglo-Saxon race; in fact, of the entire world.

There is but one great lesson to be derived from this gigantic conflict, and it is that the nation most effectively equipped and defended in perfect arms and scientific knowledge of the art of war will be successful.

There are other ways than those carried on between nations fighting for some great goal. There are battles fought daily in other spheres. The health of the general army is an essential thing, and so is the health of each individual member of the fighting line.

Thousands of the bravest and best of our soldier manhood are now leaving our shores to serve their country, and their kits would be more fully equipped if they contained the ever-reliable nerve and blood remedy, Clement's Tonic. In these nerve-tensioned times this medicine asserts its value. It is unequalled for creating iron nerve, keen appetite, and sound sleep after exhausting labours. It is THE medicine for every Australian home.—Advt.

POULTRY.

Questions relating to fancy or commercial poultry-keeping, diseases, etc., should be addressed to "Aucuba," Herald Office.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

North Sydney.—(1) The cause of worms in fowls is obscure, but there is no connection with the earth worms. The fowls should have no evening meal, the perches visited at night, and each given a small teaspoonful of equal parts of spirits of turpentine and salad or olive oil. A more easily administered method is to give a small capsule of the turpentine. The hens' house should be visited early the following morning, and the droppings cleared up. (2) Blood spots in eggs are due to the rupture of some small blood-vessels either in the ovary or oviduct, and frequently occurs in over-fat hens.

J.D.W.—Fowls usually acquire the habit of eating the eggs by seeing one broken in the nest or run. Keep a few china eggs in the nests, and place some in the fowls' runs. Also collect the freshly laid ones several times a day.

The poultry market for most classes opened the present week with but a moderate demand, and low prices are expected to continue till after the Melbourne Cup. Muscovy drakes and meaty cockerels are the exception, for which the late high rates are in evidence.

While the salesmen last week had full supplies of moderate quality table poultry, choice sorts were scarce, the few good lots fetching excellent prices. One lot of Rhode Island Red cockerels, from near Mudgee, and said to be but four months old, realised 8s 5d per couple, a price which should give a good surplus over the feed bill. The breeders, Misses Sands and Rouse, are specialising in table poultry, each consignment fetching top ruling rates.

A consignment of eggs, consisting of about one thousand dozens, were packed at the end of last week for the Vancouver market. The prices f.o.b. will be but the nominal one of a shilling a dozen, and if they arrive in good condition the high rates reported in country of destination should make the transaction a profitable one. Withal, this, by the time the account sale arrives here, the local prices will have considerably advanced, the extent of this rise determining the probability of further shipments.

The drought in some places, and the withdrawal of the Government subsidy, is threatening the existence of a few country shows, but the majority of societies are adopting the sensible plan of cutting the coat according to the cloth, and are reducing both the classification and prize money. In two schedules received, the poultry sections have been seriously affected, and in another the few pigeon classes of previous years have disappeared.

The hens at the Gatton (Q.) egg-laying competition, as in former years, are putting up big records. The leading pen for the six months have averaged 126 eggs per hen, followed close up by several other lots. A New South Wales pen won the monthly prize for September, with 163 eggs, and a pen of Rockdale Rhode Island Reds—the only pen of this breed in the competition—is within nine eggs per hen of the leaders.

The day-old chicken trade the past few years has developed to an extraordinary extent, there being now many breeders who make a speciality of the work, and keep from 12 to 20 incubators going during several months of the year. Unfortunately, through egg-laying, the majority of these have confined themselves to white Leghorns, the demand for these, through the low price for eggs, having suffered severely the present season. Breeders have still plenty of time to hatch, and those who can for the next few months put Orpingtons, Langshans, Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, and other of the big breed chickens on the market will find a most ready demand. Table poultry is not going to boom, but, as in England, it will become a better paying proposition than confining oneself to egg products.

Now that the hot weather has arrived, poultry-keepers should be on the look-out for that worst of all poultry vermin, the red mite. These pests visit the fowls only at night, and return to the various crevices in the woodwork and perches of the fowlhouse in the daytime. A thorough painting of the houses, perches, and nest boxes with kerosene or mineral oil is a good perventive, and should be repeated regularly. Previous to setting the broody hens the nest boxes, if any, should be well painted with kerosene, and a handful of tobacco dust placed in the bottom of the nest. The presence of red mites when the hen is setting is frequently the cause of poor hatches, weak chickens, etc.

THE KENNEL.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

H.A., Molong.—See notice below.
J.L.W., Richmond, Victoria.—Particulars received with thanks.
J.H.D., Auckland.—The services of the gentleman mentioned are not available.
Novice, Neutral Bay.—Many puppies die from worms. They should be treated when about two months old.
W.E., Parramatta.—Dissolve a packet of Epsom salts in a dipper of water, and see that no other drinking water is left about the yard.
Daredevil, Sydney.—Irish, Airedale, and Wirehair terriers are frequently trimmed for exhibition. Some of them, naturally, have very long coats.

Following the retirement from the fox-terrier fancy of Mr. J. C. Wood, of Newcastle, comes that of Mr. Fred. Roberts, of Gladesville. The latter, during the past three or four years, has been most successful with his terriers at shows both in this State and in Victoria.

A meeting of the Bulldog Society of New South Wales was held at the School of Arts on Monday evening. Mr. A. S. Allison was in the chair, and several new members were elected. Messrs. J. Le Couteur and W. White and the hon. secretary, Miss C. Fletcher, were appointed delegates to attend the general meeting of the Kennel Club of New South Wales, with the object of discussing the matter of holding a combined specialist clubs championship show in Sydney.

At a committee meeting of the Hound and Gun Dog Club the secretary reported the result of the recent parade to be satisfactory, with a balance on the right side. A number of new members have joined the club, which is gaining strength each month. A vote of thanks was accorded the secretary for the able way she managed the many duties in connection with the parade, which was pronounced a success.

Mrs. J. Vignes, of Ermington, has transferred to Mr. H. K. J. Barnsley, of Glebe Point, two young pug bitches by General Lind ex Bessie Lind.

Mr. J. L. Watson, of Melbourne, reports that the fox-terrier Dukedom's Model, imported by Mr. J. C. Wood, of Newcastle, and sold by him to Messrs. Davey and Orr, of Melbourne for £50, has again changed hands. The purchaser is Mr. R. Nott, of South Yarra, the price being £100. This is said to be a record figure for a fox-terrier in Australia. Mr. Nott aims at getting the best dogs. He gave Messrs. Watson and Dodds £25 for Riverton Beauty, and he has now a strong kennel of both "smooths" and "wires." He is importing a wirehair fox-terrier from the celebrated kennels of the Duchess of Newcastle.

Mr. Watson adds that he is more than pleased with his purchase a few years ago of Glendon Brunette from the Camira Kennels, Sydney. From her he bred four champions. Glendon Brunette was an ideal brood bitch, with good bone and substance. She was from Mr. H. Moses's imported pair Southboro' Quest and Dame Scandal.

CATTLEDOGS FOR WAR.

"A.B.C." writes:—Mr. R. Kaleski, in this column refers to the value of cattle dogs above all other breeds, as war dogs. I support his contention fully, that they would prove inestimable for that purpose. It is a pity the Commonwealth Government has not accepted his idea of giving them a trial, being true Australians, cattle dogs are marvellously adept, and once they get the hint of what special work is required of them—scouting in particular—they think and act for themselves without direction.

It is imperative, however, that Mr. Kaleski's suggestion be qualified. He refers, apparently, to really high-class cattle dogs—not the numerous white eyelash, spot-lid, snipe-head, weedy description prevailing. If the customary practise of mating what is called a "good biter" with another "good biter" be continued without the least knowledge of the science of stock-dog breeding, the result can only be ruin of the cattledog breed. Were even one uncontrollable specimen let loose in war time upon the enemy, the chances are he would tackle his own cavalry horses (for very love of "heeling", just as soon as those of the enemy. I repeat. The majority of cattle dogs about, instead of being the wonderful dogs they should be, and once were generally, have degenerated into timid curs, or wild, intractable savages.

LOGICAL DYSPEPSIA TREATMENT.

IMPORTANCE OF ELIMINATING ACIDITY AND FOOD FERMENTATION.

During the past two or three years reports have frequently appeared in the press concerning the remarkable value of bisurated magnesia as an antacid, and its ability to promote normal, healthy digestion by preventing food fermentation and neutralising dangerous stomach acid has often been demonstrated. Until recently chemists could supply bisurated magnesia in powdered form only, half a teaspoonful of which, taken in a little water after meals, almost instantly stops all fermentation and neutralises acid, but sufferers from stomach trouble will be glad to learn that, after a long series of experiments, a leading firm of manufacturing chemists has now succeeded in producing a 5-grain mint-flavoured tablet, and also an effervescent tablet, both of which combine all the value antacid properties of the ordinary bisurated magnesia in a very convenient form. These new tablets of bisurated magnesia can now be obtained of chemists everywhere, and many physicians are already prescribing them instead of the powder form.—Advt.

WOOD.—October 26, 1914, at Lidcombe, William Patrick, dearly-loved youngest son of the late Mary Wood, of Paddington, and beloved brother of Robert, Henry, Rita Wood, and Mrs. Albert H. Liddy, aged 27 years. R.I.P. Interred at Rookwood October 27.

WOOLF.—October 26 (suddenly), at her residence, 12 Liverpool-street, Paddington, Dora, relict of the late Hyman Woolf, of Melbourne, and dearly beloved mother of Mrs. Alec Marks, Mrs. Henry E. Lenn, Ben, and Rae Woolf, aged 67. Interred 26th. Minyon every evening at 8. Melbourne papers please copy.

IN MEMORIAM.

BRAITHWAITE.—A tribute of love to the memory of my dearly loved husband, Watson, who departed this life October 28, 1912. R.I.P.

The glorious dawn of heaven,
And a loved one waiting for me.
I hope there will be no moaning at the bar
When I set out to sea.

Inserted by his loving wife, Mary Ann.

BURN.—In fond and loving memory of our dear son and brother, Peter, who departed this life October 28, 1913, aged 20 years.

One year has gone; our hearts are sore;
As time goes on we miss him more.
His loving smile, his welcome face,
There is no one can fill his place.
No one knows how much we miss him,
Some may think the wound has healed,
For they cannot feel the sorrow
In our aching hearts concealed.
No matter how we pray, dear Peter,
No matter how we call,
There is no one to answer us
But your picture on the wall.

Inserted by his loving parents, F. and J. Burn, and his loving sister Sarah. Albury papers please copy.

BURN.—In loving memory of our dear brother, Peter, who passed away at Albury October 28, 1913.

We often think of days gone by,
When we were all together;
A shadow o'er our life is cast—
Our dear brother has gone for ever.

Inserted by his brothers and sisters, Alick, Dave, Mat, and Joe, and Lizzie, Nell, and Lil.

CALLAWAY.—A loving tribute to the memory of our dearest son and brother, Frank Hilton, who died October 28, 1913, at Hobart, Nelson-street, Annandale, aged 23 years. Sadly missed by his parents, sisters, and brother.

CALLAWAY.—In sad but loving memory of our dear friend, Frank Hilton Callaway, who departed this life October 28, 1913. Inserted by Thomas Donald and family. R.I.P.

CHILDS.—In ever loving memory of our dear son and brother, Albert Henry (Bertie) Childs, who departed this life on October 22, 1907, aged 17 years. Inserted by his loving parents, brothers, and sisters. R.I.P.

COSTELLO.—Holy Mass will be celebrated at St. Joseph's Church, Beaconsfield, on Sunday for the repose of the soul of Mary Costello (nee Heffernan), who departed this life October 28, 1906, at Queen-street, Alexandria. R.I.P.

COTTERELL.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Sarah Cotterell, who died October 28, 1913. Inserted by her loving daughter, Edith, and grandson, Harold. At rest.

COTTERELL.—In memory of my dear mummie, who departed this life October 28, 1913.

Tossed no more on life's rough billow,
All the storms of life have fled;
God has found a softer pillow
For my darling mummie's head.

Inserted by her youngest child, "Babe," Louie, and son-in-law, Ross.

COTTERILL.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Sarah Cotterill, who departed this life October 28, 1913.

Sleep on, dear mother, thy labour is o'er,
Your loving hands will toil no more;
Gone, and forgotten by some you may be,
But never forgotten one moment by us.
Sweet to our memory, dear to our hearts,
Our love to your memory shall never depart.
I know that our years, be they many or few,
Will be years of remembrance, dear mother, of you.

Inserted by her loving children, May and George.

DINGLE.—In ever loving memory of our dearly loved son, Harold Leslie, who passed away October 28, 1909, aged 16 years and 8 months.

He has gone like a flower cut down in its bloom,
From the sunshine of life to the shade of the tomb.
But death cannot sever the bond of our love,
Nor steal the fond hope we shall meet him above.

Inserted by his fond parents, William and Mary Ann Dingle, Glenroy, Wilson-street, Mascot.

DINGLE.—In sad but loving memory of our dear brother, Harold Leslie, who passed to a higher life October 28, 1909, aged 16 years and 8 months.

We long for you, dear brother,
And our hearts are sad with pain;
And the world would be a heaven
Could we but hear your voice again.

Inserted by his loving and only sister, Myrtle, and foster brother, Laurie.

EGGO.—In loving memory of Agnes Eggo, who died at her daughter's residence, 58 Nickson-street, Surry Hills, October 28, 1913. At rest. (Late of Goulburn.)

ELLIOTT.—In ever loving memory of our dear old father, William, who passed away at his residence, West Wyalong, October 28, 1909. May his soul rest in peace. Inserted by his loving daughter and son-in-law, Fanny and Joe Mason.

GANIEL.—In loving memory of my dear wife, Martha, and our loving mother, who departed this life October 28, 1903. At rest.

HALE.—In loving memory of Lilian Ethel, beloved youngest daughter of Margaret and William Hale, of Botany, who was called away October 28, 1909, aged 22 years.

We cannot forget you, we loved you too dearly
For your memory to fade from our lives like a dream.
Lips need not speak when the heart mourns sincerely,
For thoughts often rest where they seldom are seen.

Inserted by her loving parents, brothers, and sisters.

"THE WAR ILLUSTRATED."

A WEEKLY PICTURE RECORD OF EVENTS
BY LAND, SEA, AND AIR.

"THE WAR ILLUSTRATED" is designed to provide during the continuance of the Great War, a record of the momentous events which are to change the whole complexion of Europe, and profoundly to affect all modern civilisation.

The demand for Numbers already issued exceed anything anticipated by the publishers. There is every sign that "THE WAR ILLUSTRATED" is to be incomparably the most widely-circulated of all pictorial records of the progress of the war. It is no mere budget of photographs jumbled together without thought or discretion, but a carefully-planned weekly review of events, and competent writers co-operate with its war photographers in making the weekly issue a finished product of illustrated journalism.

THE PREMIERS' CONFERENCE.

It would be both unfair and unwise to ignore the special handicap under which the Australian Governments are labouring, thanks to the war now raging in Europe, simply because Labour finance has accentuated them in certain instances. Our own case is harder than it need have been, and we have never ceased to state the facts; but to overlook Mr. Holman's extraordinary difficulties would certainly not be playing the game. Hence, since war was declared, we have consistently urged the suppression of party politics, and now that another Premiers' Conference is to meet in Melbourne we must assume that it is a real effort to help the States and the Commonwealth by genuine co-operation among our leading men. That it has been called by a Federal Labour Government is the best of signs. Hence the Premiers' Conference, which meets next Monday, and which admittedly will have its hands full if it does nothing else but consider the financial position now giving everybody so much to think about. It may be assumed, indeed, that the discussion of finance is its main object. What is there left in the Murray waters agreement to debate? How can fresh light be thrown upon the problem of the break of gauge in connection with Australian railways? Where can the establishment of a Federal Bureau of Agriculture come in at the present moment to help a situation complicated by lack of money? And who is to say the magic word about nationalising the iron industry when no provision exists in the Federal Constitution to cover anything of the sort? It is possible, of course, that Mr. Fisher has some definite proposal to offer by which Australian trunk lines may be comfortably set to one gauge, and that the States will be invited to give their approval to it. Finance will come in then in full feather, and perhaps some compromise set thereupon may have to be reached to meet Commonwealth concessions granted in other directions. So of the Murray waters agreement, and the last Federal Government's commitment to provide a million of money to see it carried through to its proper conclusion of storage reservoirs, weirs, and regulation works—there may have to be modifications, and a new agreement, but we shall be surprised if these will bring finality under the conditions which will have to govern the situation.

Now, as finance must be the chief thing before the conference, the State of New South Wales is immediately and immensely concerned in a successful scheme of help. It is like a bank or business with ample assets which has been locking up its capital; and a little timely assistance or co-operation is all that is necessary to set free more than enough to meet the crisis created by war. Mr. Holman was quite justified, in our opinion, in taking a fairly cheerful view of the State's prospects when making his financial statement. He is upon absolutely sound ground if he can maintain public confidence, but he must enter the Premiers' Conference with something more than the pious hope that everything will work out in his favour. He must have financial accommodation somehow. Very well, is he prepared to accept the common-sense view of the best way to meet the crisis or unemployment, and so turn it to economic victory? More than that, is he willing to try to carry the conference with him? For instance, in the matter of dealing with a multitude of industrial awards, which do not now square with economic facts, is it not imperative in the spending of borrowed money that full value shall be received for every pound invested? The Commonwealth may agree to help the States, and London may come to the rescue of all the Governments on being approached by Mr. Fisher, but there will have to be some guarantee that the millions provided are not to be squandered. They assuredly will be squandered if they are to go in keeping thousands of men on jobs working half time at high rates of wages, and in occupations strange to a majority of them. The conference at the outset may as well, therefore, face the problem of finance by abandoning all theories and experiments, and getting down to the foundation of a cold business proposition. Increased wheat-growing, railway building, and new ways to market represent the principal factors in the problem. How are they to be achieved or found? By the investment of additional capital, which will only be supplied if the Governments concerned are accepted as capable of carrying out projects of undoubted public utility along lines approved by common sense and direct business experience. This is not a matter of money to be borrowed for the purpose of tiding us over the next three months or so. We shall require continued assistance, and each step well taken will make the rest of the path possible. Therefore, the way in which our difficulties are handled in the immediate future will decide our fate later on with the London money market. Mr. Holman's perplexity is with men rather than with money. If everybody is prepared to get to bed-rock at once in dealing with the facts of unemployment, the finding of necessary capital should not be difficult; and its expenditure will then prove our salvation and teach us some valuable lessons in the process.

THE PAPER MONEY PANACEA.

There still appear to be those in the community who look to an increased issue of paper money as the solvent of all our difficulties. These doctrinaire economists believe that all the Government has to do is to get the printing press going and all unemployment problems vanish into thin air. With Labour Governments in both State and Commonwealth they wonder at the delay. Finding the pinch already affecting them, they feel that public works on a grand scale could easily be carried out if only those in authority would take courage to issue more Australian notes. They are possibly even at this moment paid their half-time wages in paper, and they find that it is quite good, that it is being readily accepted by their storekeepers, and is in every way quite as serviceable from their point of view as gold could be. The only trouble is that they are not getting enough of it. Why ask them to work half time; why talk of the possible suspension of the industrial awards; why bother about adverse money markets; why, indeed, borrow at all when the printing press is ready to hand? They are quite prepared to take the risk with the whole of the credit of the Commonwealth at their back. These thoughts are plausible enough, and we do not wonder at men who foresee short commons ahead, if something be not done, arguing thus. To those who are untaught in currency matters it all seems clear enough. It is true that many of them realise that the banks oppose a large issue of paper money, but they regard the banks as partisans, as wealthy corporations, who are fearful that some of their prerogatives may be taken away from them, and are thus prepared to stand in the way of the general good. Exactly how the banks are being benefited by the continuance of the present system they are not prepared to say. Indeed, they cannot see how the banks would really lose anything at all by the adoption of a paper currency on a large scale. What they really think is that the banks have conservative notions, and it is merely their innate objection to any change that is calculated to carry them off the beaten track that makes them oppose this scheme, which to the amateur political economist is clearly in the public interest. This is, of course, quite wide of the mark, but it is a not unnatural conclusion for those to come to who have never given the subject a thought till during the last week or two.

As a matter of fact, history warns us that paper money without a large gold reserve is a dangerous expedient. It is true that the British Government is now issuing a large volume of notes, but it is doing so in a national emergency with certain safeguards. Every pound-note issued is convertible into gold at the Bank of England. The British Government is not making its paper money take the place of a loan, as is proposed here. If that could be done with safety, no doubt it would do so. If there were not sufficient gold to go round as currency possibly more notes could be issued in Australia as an emergency measure. Such issues as have been mentioned, varying in volume from 20 millions to 40 millions sterling in face value, would be calculated to bring about national bankruptcy. It may be admitted freely that if, despite the vastness of the issue, public credit could be maintained, if everyone believed in the soundness of the financial measures taken by the Government, if steps could be taken to keep down the prices of commodities, if the flow of gold out of the country could in some way be stemmed, if the people could be persuaded to give up writing cheques and use notes instead, then no particular harm might arise. But there are too many ifs attached to the argument. Were notes, in fact, issued in excess of the currency needs, then prices would rise correspondingly, and no legislative measure would be effective in keeping them down. There are some things that, contrary to popular belief, are beyond even the power of the Legislature. Wages paid in paper might be maintained, might even be raised, but what profit would that be to the worker who saw prices constantly rise against him? An over-supply of paper money would drive out gold, this being the inevitable result of international exchange. Imports would be stimulated, exports would be repressed, and in the long run the workers would suffer most. Do those who propose an extended paper currency as the solution of all our troubles imagine that the idea is an original one that has never been tried before? Let them ask the Governments of the United States, of Argentina, of France, of Russia, of Italy, and more particularly of Japan, which latter tried every conceivable variation of the paper money fad, and paid dearly for its experience. Our greatest asset to-day in Australia with which to face the difficulties that beset us is the strength of our banking position. That would be irretrievably weakened were we to indulge in a paper currency of such magnitude as has been proposed. Fortunately, Mr. Holman appears to have no illusions on this subject. May those in the Federal sphere be as wise.

THE "SYDNEY MAIL."

This week's "Mail" is the thirteenth special war number, and is in many respects the most interesting of them all. Among the pictures are many photographs from the front. Some of these represent German "culture" as exhibited in the sacking of Louvain and the bombardment of Malines. We see refugees fleeing from Brussels and Malines, and the admirably "stage-managed" parade of the Kaiser's troops through the streets of Belgium's capital. We are shown Belgian soldiers defending a canal, the Belgian armoured car which has figured from time to time in the cables, and Germans watching for Belgian sharpshooters in a street of Louvain. A fine page picture depicts the landing of British marines at Ostend; we see some of the Indian troops now serving under Sir John French; and there is a full-page recent portrait of General Sir Douglas Haig, whose magnificent leadership in the battle of the Aisne has won the highest praise from the Commander-in-Chief, as well as portraits of other British officers who have distinguished themselves. There are scenes from Ostend, Antwerp, Bruges, and Ypres. The arrival of wounded soldiers in England is pictured, and there is a capital photograph of the Royal Army Medical Corps at the front. The scene at St. Petersburg when Britain's decision against Germany was announced is shown. And among many other illustrations are pictures of the destruction wrought by German cruisers at Papeete and Fanning Island. An excellent double-page engraving, "At the Breaking of the Dawn," represents a scene in connection with the training of the Australian Expeditionary Force.

MINING STRIKES.

EMPLOYERS COMPLAIN.

INTERVIEW WITH MINISTER.

Representatives of the Colliery Employers' Federation waited on the Minister for Labour and Industry yesterday, and laid complaints before him regarding the strike in the Maitland district against the afternoon shift. As is well known, this strike has been proceeding for months, and 517 miners were fined for breaking an industrial award. Summonses were issued against a number of others, but were subsequently withdrawn by Mr. Estell.

The Colliery Employers' Federation was represented by Messrs. John Brown, N. J. Clark, and Mr. C. Earp, the Under-Secretary for Labour and Industry (Mr. J. B. Holme), being present at "the interview," as the Minister subsequently described it. The proceedings were conducted in private, and at the close Mr. Estell made a statement to the effect that no result had been arrived at. He indicated that the members of the federation had looked at the matter from one standpoint, while he had looked at it from the point of view of a Minister who wished to avoid keeping the district in "a ferment" through a continuous series of prosecutions for breaches of awards. The proprietors complained that the fines imposed on the 517 miners in July last, for striking had not been enforced. Mr. Estell said he had pointed out that the method of recovering the fine was by garnishee, which he had not resorted to. He admitted that the time for the payment of the fines was overdue.

It was urged by the federation representatives that some action should be taken against other miners whose conduct had led to the temporary closing down of mines, and an explanation was sought from Mr. Estell why he had withdrawn the summonses issued against a number who were alleged to have gone on strike, contrary to the Industrial Arbitration Act. The answer Mr. Estell said he returned under each head was that he did not desire to keep the district in a ferment by a continuance of the prosecutions.

The position of the men on strike on the Maitland coal field was yesterday discussed by the Labour Federation of Australia.

Senator Watson (Colliery Employees' Federation) stated that the men were absolutely solid in their determination not to work the afternoon shift. To-day they were, in fact, more resolute in the stand they have taken than they were 22 weeks ago. It is considered, Senator Watson continued, that the trade in the port of Newcastle more than ever justifies the contention that there was no necessity whatever for more than one shift every 24 hours.

PERSONAL.

The Chief Justice (Sir William Cullen) returned to Sydney from the Bathurst circuit yesterday morning.

Judge Rogers has been appointed to exercise jurisdiction in the metropolitan district, and Judge Docker in the south-west district.

The Premier of Western Australia, Mr. Scaddan, left Fremantle by the Orsova yesterday for Melbourne, to attend the conference of State Premiers and representatives of the Commonwealth Government.

The Rev. E. C. Kempe, Principal of the Brotherhood of the Good Shepherd in New South Wales, will leave shortly for England.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman Richards) will leave to-morrow evening for Melbourne, and will be absent from Sydney for about 10 days.

Judge Murray, who has been indisposed since Thursday last, was still too unwell to sit at the Quarter Sessions yesterday.

Mr. J. M. de Macedo, the newly appointed Australian Consul for Peru, accompanied by his wife, are passengers by the Ulysses, which is due from London to-morrow, and will make either Sydney or Newcastle his headquarters. The appointment of a permanent official to represent Peru in this country is an indirect result of the opening of the Panama Canal.

Mr. Fred Vale, of the firm of Henry Vale and Sons, locomotive engineers, of Auburn, returned to Sydney from a visit to London yesterday.

Captain J. K. Davis, of the Mawson Antarctic expedition, who has been on a visit to Melbourne, returned to Sydney yesterday.

Mr. F. M'Donnell, M.L.C., of Brisbane, is on a visit to Sydney.

Miss Ellen Terry, the famous actress, will arrive from Melbourne to-day, en route to Vancouver. She will sail by the Makura, leaving to-morrow.

LIBERALS IN QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

For some time the position of the Liberal Association of Queensland has been exercising the minds of members of the executive, for the organisation has not been supported in a way those controlling it have expected. At the last meeting the following resolutions were recorded: "That, owing to the continued apathy and lack of moral and financial support from Liberals, members of the central executive of the Liberal Association have resolved to tender their resignation, and have convened a special conference of the council of the association for November 9 to receive such resignations; that the central executive recommends that the association be wound up."

UNFINISHED RAILWAY.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The City Council has resolved, "That, as nine miles of the proposed Condobolin-Broken Hill railway will be finished in about a month, this council urges upon the Government the great necessity of proceeding with the line, and asks for a definite statement of its intention."

WOOL PROBLEMS.

TO SHIP OR NOT TO SHIP?

The most important problem before the country to-day is how to realise the wool clip as quickly as possible without too great a sacrifice in prices. Somehow or other the trade balance must be restored. The wool clip usually brings in some 25 millions sterling, taking the Commonwealth as a whole. It helps to pay for necessary imports and to settle the interest bill on our external indebtedness. Without this money something serious must happen. Either imports must be restricted, the interest bill must go short, or gold must be shipped to make up the balance. But, quite apart from the necessity to restore the balance from a national balance-sheet point of view, every individual pastoralist has his own position to consider. He has done his year's work, and now he looks for his year's pay, but looks in vain.

The question that must be agitating the minds of many a pastoralist to-day is as to whether he should ship direct to London, as so many did in the days of old before the local wool sales had developed as they have of late, or whether he should quietly abide by the arrangements made in his name, and in some part on his behalf, by the associated woolbrokers. This point emerges, that if the growers abide strictly with the arrangements made many of them will be unable to dispose of their wool till next year, for, whereas last season 1,240,000 bales were offered during the period from July 1 to December 31, this season, owing to the restricted arrangements made by the associated brokers, only 291,000 bales will be put before buyers. Now, what about the men who are left with their wool while their neighbours have sold? Besides, the man with the greatest needs may not be the lucky one who has realised.

On general principles it is well for the growers to support the local woolbrokers. The local sales are in the long run infinitely preferable to sales in London or anywhere else. They spell quicker realisation, more varied competition, lower charges, more direct control by the owner till actual realisation.

ARGUMENTS IN FAVOUR.

1. Growers hope that by shipping their wool direct to London they will procure a more speedy realisation than if they wait their turn and have their staple offered possibly after Christmas, possibly even 12 months hence, or the local market. They have seen the cables describing the excellent results accruing to those who had wool for sale at the September series on the other side. They have heard of the extreme prices secured for crossbreds, and they not unnaturally desire to participate in the good things going.

2. The banks generally are offering an immediate advance against shipment, which undoubtedly appeals to the grower who needs money at once.

3. Some growers are anxious to get the clip off their minds, as it were. They have done their part, and are desirous of getting some return. Be it good or be it bad, it is still something, and it may be better than they would get if they waited longer and worried meanwhile.

4. Some think that if the war should come to a speedy conclusion, there will be such an outburst of buoyancy that those who have wool so near the consuming centres as London is will reap huge profits from their enterprise.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST.

1. Undoubtedly there will be heavier direct shipments to London from all the States of Australia and from New Zealand than has been the case of late. There are some wool growers who are always prepared to take a sporting chance, more particularly in view of the fact that there is something indefinite about the date at which they may expect to get their money if they dispose of their clips locally.

But will not wool-growers from South Africa be of precisely the same frame of mind? Is it not likely, too, that the wool-growers of Argentina and Uruguay, who chiefly produce crossbreds, that are at the moment in such keen demand, will also force their product on to the London market? With the Continent shut to them they can only look to the United Kingdom and the United States. If the whole wool-producing world floods London with supplies what is likely to happen? First of all, London has not sufficient storage accommodation to stack, let alone display, all the wool that might be forwarded. Having wool in London does not mean having it sold. The trade cannot take unlimited quantities. It can only deal with such a quantity as it can effectively absorb, and no more. Whether it is London or Australia, supplies in the present circumstances will have to be rigidly regulated, or the market will inevitably get into a chaotic condition.

2. Shipping does not necessarily involve speedy realisation, on account of the fact that similar regulations that are in force in the Australian markets are in force there, with this difference, that there they are still more rigid than is the case here. For instance, for the September series 130,000 bales were available, whereas only 35,000 bales were submitted, with the result that no less than 115,000 bales had to be carried over to a future series.

3. An important point is that London is the ultimate market. The wool has to be sold there, and if the stores are all full and there is no other outlet, the fact of a huge quantity being there awaiting sale must hang like a wet blanket over the market, not of Coleman-street only, but of the whole world. This has been proved on many previous occasions.

4. The position is very different if wool is stored at the market of production, and more particularly if it is stored on the station where it is produced. Though the world, in these circumstances, would contain no less wool from a market point of view, the wool would be much less "visible." Besides, it would not be eating off its head in charges.

5. Precisely the same consumers are represented here in the local market as are represented in London. If a Yorkshire buyer operates in Sydney on behalf of his principal at Bradford the capacity of that principal to operate in Coleman-street is correspondingly reduced, and vice-versa. Here there is competition from Japan and the United States, as well as from Yorkshire. How long American buyers will be in a position to operate, however, is a matter for doubt, owing to the possibility of the Commonwealth Government prohibiting export to neutral countries, just as the British Government has done so as to ensure no wool getting into enemy hands.

6. Charges in London are very heavy, amounting to 2d per bale per week from the 12th week after the ship breaks bulk.

7. Freight on wool, under present war conditions, has to be paid at the port of shipment, so that if a bale weighs, say, 360lb gross the shipper has to pay 2d per lb, or, say, 22/6 per bale freight, plus 20 per cent. for war supertax, and 2 guineas per cent. under the Imperial war scheme, which has to be arranged by cable.

8. Growers who ship will be lucky if they get their wool offered at the March sales, assuming that the regulations of offerings found necessary at the last series are also found to be desirable, in perhaps a modified degree, in the next three series.

9. Several of the local wool-selling brokers have London as well as Australian houses which undertake the sale of wool consigned to the other side, so that it probably matters little to them whether the wool is sold locally or in London. They secure their commission in either case. This should be set against the idea that the local brokers are necessarily biassed when they advise their clients to stick to the local market.

10. If a grower is pressed for money, and has 1000 bales for sale in the event of shipment, he must find about £1500 for freight in advance apart from war risk and other charges.

11. Some banks are encouraging their customers to ship, and think that by so doing they are patriotically assisting to keep the wheels of industry going round. The question is as to whether they will get their money back as quickly enough through the medium of the London sales as they would had the wool been sold locally, and they had taken up wool bills in the ordinary way.

12. If the sales are to be held partly in Australia and partly in London, the result must prove disastrous to the market. Buyers here will say, "Oh, but we can buy cheaper in London," and so, too, in London would be heard the well-worn wheeze, "We can do better in Australia."

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUTS.

(CHRONICLED BY [illegible])

Administrative Triumphs—The [illegible] Recruiting—The German Navy [illegible] tories—The War and the [illegible] Minister in the Ranks.

WESTMINSTER, [illegible]

Reading the life of Arnold [illegible] of exceeding interest just now, [illegible] his official career, first at the [illegible] at the War Office, was contemporaneous with the Boer War, I come upon a [illegible] passage. Writing from Johannesburg [illegible] vember 4, 1900, he says: "Lunched with Lord Kitchener. He was very friendly, [illegible] freely to me about army matters [illegible] most soldiers, takes the lowest view of War Office organisation, and spoke [illegible] the horror with which he first discovered [illegible] kind of machine he was expected to [illegible] in South Africa." Lord Kitchener [illegible] Redvers Buller and Lord Roberts [illegible] and benefited by their desperate [illegible] straighten out a tangle of mal-administration in Pall Mall that finds its only [illegible] the Crimean War. If this cry of [illegible] wrung from him towards the close of the second year of the campaign, what [illegible] been the position of his predecessors [illegible] pily things are different to-day. [illegible] call to arms found the navy fully [illegible] tually on guard at the posts of danger [illegible] the army, alike in respect of men and [illegible] rial, was in the condition that has made [illegible] sible its magnificent stand against [illegible] odds on the battlefields of Belgium and France. Since war was declared, there has [illegible] pened a single one of those misadventures [illegible] most invariably attendant on the [illegible] naval and military forces suddenly [illegible] upon active service.

Whilst this rare immunity from [illegible] has gladdened the heart of the people [illegible] be admitted that the Government [illegible] mitted one error of far-reaching [illegible] It is an open secret that the [illegible] against the presence of war correspondents in the fighting columns is due to the [illegible] tive of Lord Kitchener. But [illegible] Cabinet may have felt themselves [illegible] yield to the opinion in this matter [illegible] new and valued colleague, they are [illegible] lieved from responsibility. How [illegible] may be illustrated by a suggestion [illegible] the principle further. Suppose that [illegible] correspondent being driven away from the skirts of the battlefield, his colleague [illegible] reporter, was also interdicted from [illegible] his business. In such case the [illegible] speech at the Guildhall, which [illegible] heart and braced the spirit of the British [illegible] at home and in the colonies as with the [illegible] of a trumpet, would not have been [illegible] The cases, at first glance [illegible] really analogous. The war correspondent describes what he sees; the reporter [illegible] what he hears. When the latter [illegible] his way an opportunity such as [illegible] sented by the Premier's glowing [illegible] the classic Guildhall, he is instrumental [illegible] conveying a thrill of emotion that [illegible] anent effect in heartening the nation. [illegible] Press Bureau does its best. Stirred by [illegible] creasingly angry protest against the [illegible] tion of the war correspondent, it [illegible] week improved upon the incomplete [illegible] tardy record of events that marked [illegible] efforts. But Mr. F. E. Smith and his [illegible] leagues are poor substitutes for "Billy" [illegible] sell, Archibald Forbes, and the [illegible] army of war correspondents who during the last 60 years have written priceless [illegible] of history. The sooner their successors [illegible] reinstated in their former position, the [illegible] pleased the army will be, the more [illegible] the public.

Recruiting for the army, which, [illegible] owing to this War Office edict, [illegible] gerously fell off, has within the [illegible] days made substantial advance. [illegible] men have been offering themselves in [illegible] bers which strain the machinery of the [illegible] in attendance at various centres. A [illegible] difficulty hereupon presents itself. [illegible] upon officers has been increased by the [illegible] cessive mortalities in face of the [illegible] The proportion of officers to men of [illegible] ranks killed, wounded, or missing [illegible] testifies to the almost reckless gallantry of the former. Six months' training [illegible] long way towards licking into shape the ordinary recruit. But you cannot [illegible] facture a capable officer in six months or even twelve. In creating the new [illegible] Brigade, Mr. Winston Churchill finds himself faced by this difficulty. In making [illegible] ial appeal for officers, he finds himself [illegible] pelled to adopt the condition that "[illegible] lous knowledge of the profession of arms [illegible] not indispensable, provided other [illegible] are exceptional." It appears probable [illegible] something of this largeness of view will [illegible] forced upon the acceptance of Lord Kitchener if he is to go much further towards the [illegible] tainment of his heart's desire, the strengthening of the army by an additional [illegible] million men.

The daring feat of the German [illegible] which sank a fleet of fifteen English [illegible] boats, stole the fish, and carried off in [illegible] umph the unarmed crews, recalls a little [illegible] of Lord Charles Beresford, perpetrated [illegible] ing the war between Russia and Japan. [illegible] Russian fleet, timorously making [illegible] through the North Sea en route to the Far East, caught sight of a fleet of English [illegible] ing boats on the Dogger Bank. [illegible] they were Japanese destroyers, they fired on them. Continuing their voyage, they [illegible] through the Straits of Gibraltar, where Lord Charles Beresford happened to be at the [illegible] in command of the Mediterranean fleet. [illegible] First Lord of the Admiralty was in the [illegible] of the day alarmed by receipt of a [illegible] telegram from the Admiral, which ran [illegible] "Awfully sorry. Have fired on the [illegible] fleet. Thought they were trawlers." It was speedily recognised that this was [illegible] Charlie's fun, a humorous inversion of [illegible] explanation given by the Russian Government when the Dogger Bank incident was brought under their notice by the British Ministry.

Incidentally, the war has led to the [illegible] duction of large quantities of verse, [illegible] good, some bad, much indifferent. [illegible] the best things yet written are William Watson's "The Man Forsworn," two verses of which were quoted in this column, [illegible] outburst of splendid scorn from the pen of Barry Pain. Kipling's contribution [illegible] afresh his decadence since he took to [illegible] In the first verse there is a false rhyme, [illegible] culated to uplift temporarily the hair of the head of a sensitive reader. In the last [illegible] a line that does not scan, a blemish the more irritating since it might easily have been avoided by striking out an obviously [illegible] fluous word. It is sad to find so low [illegible] the writer of the noble "Recessional," [illegible] at a critical epoch in the Boer war, [illegible] through the land like the music of [illegible] bells. An unpleasant accident [illegible] the publication of the poem. It was [illegible] the "Times" office. The editor, [illegible] believing the contribution was [illegible] his paper, forwarded to the poet an [illegible] orarium of £50. His feelings when he [illegible] covered a copy appearing in the columns of the "Morning Post" have not been [illegible] in print.

A dramatic incident, which [illegible] bustle attendant on the opening of [illegible] not meet with the attention it [illegible] was the volunteering of Colonel [illegible] active service, and his departure for the front. Less than six months ago the [illegible] ber for the Ilkeston division of Derbyshire was the Supreme Head of the Army. [illegible] ne thus returns in humble capacity [illegible] toward circumstances, implying no [illegible] upon his honour or his capacity, [illegible] den stroke tumbled him down from [illegible] position. Since his resignation of the [illegible] Ministry he, in the House of Commons, [illegible] out of it, maintained an attitude of [illegible] ing loyalty towards his former [illegible] Cabinet colleagues. Active service is [illegible] new thing to him. He was serving in the Imperial Yeomanry in South Africa, [illegible] 1901 the Isle of Wight elected him its member. During the war he was [illegible] in despatches, had bestowed upon him the coveted distinction of D.S.O., [illegible] Queen's medal, with five clasps. [illegible] medal, in this case of gold, was [illegible] him by the French Government [illegible] life at sea. When he left Cambridge [illegible] elected to go to the bar, and [illegible] this day a member of the Inner Temple. But a military career called him with [illegible] tible force, and entering upon [illegible] to command the Hampshire [illegible] whence he derives his title. [illegible] friends on both sides of the House of Commons, and throughout the country [illegible] with keen interest his new [illegible] the war path. He is certain to be in the front when fighting is to the fore.

INDIAN TROOPS.

Effective Debut.

ALLIES' LEFT.

A HARD TUSSLE.

RUSSIAN PROGRESS.

The Allies on Sunday maintained their front in Belgium, between Nieuport and Dixmude.

The Germans who crossed the Yser have progressed no further.

Indian troops have been distinguishing themselves in recent fighting on the Allies' left wing.

An official announcement in Berlin states that while the Allies are obstinately defending the line between Nieuport and Dixmude, progress has been made elsewhere, the English troops losing heavily in street fighting.

The Germans claim that a heavy attack by the French north of Arras broke down, the French troops suffering severe loss.

Though the fighting in East Prussia and Poland is described by the Germans as being indecisive, the German retreat in Poland is continuing, the Russians having had the better of actions with the German rearguard.

It is stated that the Austrian right wing has been completely turned.

It is officially stated that the Boer rebel, Colonel Maritz, has been completely defeated, and has fled into German territory.

Berlin newspapers claim that, up to October 21, the Germans had taken considerably over 300,000 prisoners, including nearly 9000 British.

WAR BULLETIN.

FROM SIR GEORGE REID.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

Paris reports a violent battle between Nieuport and the River Lys. German forces crossed the Yser between Nieuport and Dixmude. The enemy's fierce attacks west and south of Lille were repulsed. A German infantry regiment was annihilated north of La Claisdale in the Argonne. Slight progress was made between the Oise and the Argonne to the north west and west of Soissons.

The Russians inflicted defeats on Friday and Saturday on the German rearguards. Lowicz, Rawa, and Skierniewice were taken at the point of the bayonet on the San, and to the south of Przemysl violent fighting continues. The Germans have evacuated Lodz.

October 27, 2.5 a.m.—Official: The British War Office reports that the situation continues to be satisfactory. Fighting is severe and continuous, but ground is being gained. Many prisoners have been taken, and two of the enemy's guns captured.

October 25, 8.35 p.m. Paris reports that our front was maintained on Sunday along the general line from Nieuport to Dixmude. Germans crossed the Yser, but were unable to make progress. In the battle during the last few days the enemy losses were considerable.

Colonel Maritz's dealings with the Germans are revealed in documents just published. A treaty has been discovered between the German Government and Colonel Maritz to declare the independence of British South Africa, Germany taking Walfish Bay, and the republic taking Delagoa Bay.

ALLIES' LEFT WING.

IN BELGIUM.

FRONT MAINTAINED.

PARIS, Oct. 26.

A communique states: We maintained our front between Nieuport and Dixmude on Sunday.

The Germans who crossed the Yser have not progressed any further. There have been considerable losses during the last few days.

GERMANS' BIG GUNS.

CITIZENS MURDERED.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 26.

The "Telegraf" states that the Germans have reoccupied Roulers (10 miles north-west of Courtrai), but the Allies have gained ground near Nieuport.

Two 12-centimetre and 10 28-centimetre guns have arrived at Bruges.

Ghent and Roulers are full of German wounded.

The citizens of Roulers were again marched in front of the German troops, when the latter advanced to battle. About a thousand of the inhabitants of Roulers were murdered. The church of Notre Dame was plundered and destroyed.

THE GERMAN VIEW.

OFFICIAL MESSAGE.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 27.

An official message published in Berlin states: The enemy is obstinately defending the line between Nieuport and Dixmude.

The German artillery forced the British fleet eight miles off shore, and three vessels were hit.

Our attacks south-west of Ypres and west and south-west of Lille are progressing. The English troops lost heavily in street fighting, and five hundred soldiers were taken prisoners.

A heavy French attack north of Arras broke down, the enemy suffering severe loss.

FIGHTING AT DIXMUDE.

OVER-CONFIDENT PRUSSIANS.

PARIS, Oct. 26.

The "Journal" says that with the object of drawing the Germans towards Dixmude the Allies feinted the abandonment of the town. A Prussian regiment fell into the trap. They entered with the parade step and bands playing.

Immediately they entered the principal street a terrific volley drowned the strains of the music. Machine guns concealed in the houses were fired on the Germans, who broke in a panic and turned to flee, but were met with bullets on all sides.

French marines sprang from concealment, and hurled themselves on the survivors, who threw down their arms and surrendered at the sight of the bayonets.

INDIAN SOLDIERS.

INFLICT TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

The Central News Agency, describing the recent fighting at La Bassee (north of Arras), states that the Sikhs and Gurkas took part in the charge. A staff officer estimated that 20,000 dead and wounded Germans were left on the field.

The British losses did not exceed 2000.

A THRILLING STORY.

The "Daily Telegraph's" Paris correspondent states that during the past fortnight the Germans have been showing the greatest bravery, making desperate efforts at La Bassee to counterbalance the Allies' successes in the north.

The country is extremely difficult, and is intersected by hedges and canals, with many copses and hillocks, necessitating much fighting at close quarters.

Frequently the fighters have had to cross the waterways on planks.

An eye-witness relates an incident which took place at La Bassee last week. The Germans had heavily shelled the British trenches, also a line of miners' cottages running to the northwards. There was nothing to indicate their intention to rush any particular point, though aviators reported that they were massing several brigades behind artillery in different positions.

Suddenly an avalanche of men was let loose. The section line of British infantry outwinged the enemy rank after rank, but the rush was irresistible. The British defenders held their ground to the last. Reinforcements were hurried up, but before they could repair the broken line further hordes of Germans appeared.

For a while the situation was dangerous. The Germans were confident that at last they had found a way to the coast, but were rudely deceived. The Indian troops were supporting the British. This was the first time they had been in action. For days they had been watching bursting shrapnel, and thirsting to prove their quality. Now they were ordered to move forward with the bayonet. The forces met and clashed.

"In an instant," said an eyewitness, "the issue was decided. The German advance was not merely checked, it was beaten and broken. The Indians ran through them, pushing the foe back to receive, right and left, the fire of the British infantry. The Indians were not content with recapturing the trench, but leaping from it they pursued the Germans downhill until the officers recalled them."

BENGAL LANCERS.

DASHING CAVALRY CHARGE.

Corporal Cole, who has arrived at Aberdeen amongst a number of wounded, gives a thrilling account of a charge by the Bengal Lancers.

The British had been fighting hammer and tongs for three weeks, and were exhausted. One brigade of German infantry attacked them, and when half way to the trenches the Lancers, who arrived the day before, made a slight detour to avoid the British line of fire. They then swept down on to the Germans from the left like a whirlwind.

The Germans knew the Turcos, but not these dark-skinned horsemen, who, with shrill yells, brought down a man with every lance thrust.

The Germans ran for their lives, and the Lancers pursued them for about a mile, and were received with wild cheers when they returned to the British lines.

ALSACE-LORRAINE.

GARRISONS STRENGTHENED.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 26.

The "Telegraf," in a message from German sources, states that the French are greatly strengthening the forts in the vicinity of Belfort and Mulhausen.

The garrisons close to those towns have been heavily reinforced.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE.

AUSTRIAN RIGHT TURNED.

ROME, Oct. 26.

The correspondent of the "Messagero" at Petrograd states that the Austrian right has been completely turned.

The Germans in Poland continue in retreat towards Kalisz (west south west of Warsaw).

The Russian cavalry give the Germans no rest, and the latter are demoralised.

GERMAN STATEMENT.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 26.

An official message published in Berlin states that indecisive fighting has taken place in East Prussia and Poland.

PRISONERS IN GERMANY.

BERLIN PAPERS' STATEMENT.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 26.

Berlin papers state that up to the 21st the prisoners in Germany were:—French, 2472 officers and 146,807 men; Russians, 2161 officers and 104,524 men; Belgians, 547 officers and 51,378 men; and English 218 officers and 8669 men.

The prisoners, it is stated, include 27 generals.

AERIAL DREADNOUGHT.

DISASTROUS TRIAL.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 26.

Vienna newspapers state that a new aerial dreadnought, costing £5400 collapsed during its first trial, and was completely destroyed.

JAPAN'S CO-OPERATION.

FRENCH STATESMAN'S REGRET.

PARIS, Oct. 26.

M. Pichon, ex-Minister for Foreign Affairs, writing to the "Petit Journal," expresses regret that the Allies did not appeal for the co-operation of Japan in Europe. By this means they might have brought an incomparable force against the Germans.

KIAO-CHAO.

AUSTRIAN CRUISER SUNK.

PEKING, Oct. 26.

It is reported that the Japanese artillery has sunk an Austrian cruiser in Kiao Chao Bay.

THE BADGER.

RAMMING THE SUBMARINE.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

In connection with the Badger's adventure with the German submarine, it appears that while cruising off the Dutch coast the submarine was sighted ahead.

The British cruiser was sent full speed ahead, and rammed the submarine. As she drew off she also fired shots into the German boat.

The repairs to the Badger only occupied a few hours.

A GERMAN TRICK.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

A naval officer writes that the latest German dodge is to place a periscope on a mine, hoping that a British warship will ram it. The trick has, however, been discovered.

GOEBEN AND BRESLAU.

THE SALE TO TURKEY.

ROME, Oct. 26.

The "Tribuna" states that the hasty return of the cruisers Goeben and Breslau to the Bosphorus was due to the Russian and British Ambassadors having informed the Porte that they did not regard the sale of these warships to Turkey as valid, and that the Allies would attack the cruisers the next time they came out.

GUNBOAT AT HONOLULU.

JAPANESE PROTEST.

TOKIO, Oct. 26.

Japan has protested against the United States allowing the German gunboat Geier to remain any longer at Honolulu, as the repairs to the warship are complete.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

GERMANS INTERNED.

SINGAPORE, Oct. 26.

All Germans in the Straits Settlements and adjacent British territories have been ordered to be interned.

SOUTH AFRICA.

THE REBELLION.

ENGAGEMENT WITH MARITZ.

PRETORIA, Oct. 26.

Colonel Van der Venter's force is engaging the rebel Maritz at Calvinia (185 miles north north-east of Capetown).

Ninety-two of the rebels have surrendered to scouts, who also captured two maxims.

COMPLETE DEFEAT.

REBEL LEADER'S FLIGHT.

CAPETOWN, Oct. 26.

It is officially stated here that Colonel Maritz, the rebel leader, has been completely defeated in the neighbourhood of Kakamas (a township on the Orange River, a few miles from the boundary between British territory and German South-west Africa).

In the fight Maritz was wounded, and fled into German territory.

MONROE DOCTRINE.

GERMANY'S CLAIM.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.

Count von Bernstorff, German Ambassador, claims Germany's right to land troops in Canada, if possible, because, as Canada has sent troops against Germany, such a step would not be an infringement of the Monroe doctrine.

ITALIAN PRISONERS.

CZAR'S OFFER.

ROME, Oct. 26.

In connection with the Czar's offer to release all Italian prisoners of war captured with the Austrian army, now interned in Russian prisons, it is stated that the number of men whom the Czar proposes to send back to Italy is nearly five thousand.

HAPLESS REFUGEES.

VESSEL STRIKES MINE.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

A vessel carrying Belgian refugees struck a mine off Boulogne. A panic ensued amongst those on board. Thirty of the passengers were drowned. The rest were landed at Folkestone.

PRINCE'S LOYALTY.

DEALING WITH RUMOURS.

Silly stories have been current for several weeks discrediting the loyalty of Prince Louis of Battenburg.

The "Globe" discusses the subject apologetically, justifying its step by the stream of editorial letters it has received, and asks for an authoritative statement to clear away the accusations.

BRITISH CENSORSHIP.

AMERICAN JOURNALIST'S CHARGE.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

The London correspondent of the "New York Evening Post," having accused the British censorship department of seeking to conceal German successes, and to blacken Germany's character in order to win the opinion of the people of the United States, the Official Press Bureau announces that it is taking steps to compel the substantiation or the withdrawal of the charge.

TRADE BANK.

IMPORTANT PROPOSAL.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

The Institute of Industry and Commerce proposes the formation of a trade bank which is to be supported by leading English banks. The bank will advance up to 60 per cent. to contractors of good repute.

EMPIRE TRADE MARK.

LONDON, Oct 26.

The Board of Trade has decided not to permit the use of the British Empire trade-mark.

WAR NOTES.

A STUBBORN BATTLE.

The general tone of the cablegrams regarding the position between Nieuport and Lille seems to suggest that the Germans generally are holding their own. Although the Allies have made slight advances at certain points, they have had to fall back at others. The battle will, doubtless, continue for several days before it is definitely proved which side has gained such an advantage as to affect the general situation. The admission that the Germans have retaken Roulers, when considered together with the fact that they are still holding the western approaches to Lille, suggests that the troops of the Allies' salient pushed out to Courtrai must be faced with some tremendous fighting if they are to maintain their position. If the Germans gain much more ground either south of Roulers or northwestward from Lille, we will have to expect the announcement of the withdrawal of this wedge.

THE RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN.

The news from the Eastern theatre continues to be good. The left, or northern flank of the German Army seems to have been signally beaten, and is now being pushed back towards the border. It is not made clear whether the main force has been driven back from the Vistula, but if it be true that the German left has evacuated Lodz, which is about 80 miles south-west of Warsaw, and only about 50 miles from the frontier, then any German forces near the Vistula will soon find their communications seriously menaced. As to the position further south, in Galicia, we are told in Sir George Reid's cable that violent fighting continues on the San and to the south of Przemysl, but a Petrograd message announces that the Austrian right has been completely turned. If this is true then a general retreat of the Austro-German forces becomes inevitable.

THE BRITISH TROOPS.

It is made clear by this morning's cablegrams that the British troops are fighting west of Lille, though we know that others are up on the coast. The force at La Bassee is facing the great German attempt to smash through the Allies' line between Armentieres and La Bassee, with the object of cutting off the troops to the north, and the messages now coming through give some idea of the work they are called upon to do. A particularly interesting feature of this news is that it not only lets us know where the Indian troops are engaged, but also tells how brilliantly they are acquitting themselves. By this time the Germans should have a very definite idea of the capabilities in the field of the men so generously praised by their own Crown Prince when he visited India some little time ago.

GERMANY'S PRISONERS.

The German announcement that they have as prisoners 5401 officers and 311,378 men of the Allied forces may come as a surprise to many, and there will be not a few who will regard the figures as grossly overstated. But a little reflection will show us that although we have been told very little about the losses on our side, the fighting which has been going on in a huge war like this for nearly three months must necessarily have meant great losses in prisoners as well as in killed and wounded. We know that the Russians in the Battle of Osterode and the subsequent retreat across their own border lost something like 80,000 or 90,000 men in prisoners. That was the loss sustained by one army in, practically, a single battle. That army has been fighting ever since, and, besides, two other Russian armies have also been engaged. In regard to the French losses we were told at the outset that no casualties would be published, but from neutral sources it was learned that many thousands of Frenchmen were captured when General Joffre's troops were first driven back from the border, and the fighting that has taken place since, especially at the southern end of the line, must have inevitably led to many surrenders on both sides. The comparatively small British figures speak eloquently of the spirit with which our men are fighting. The way the British army retreated from Mons practically to Paris without a big percentage of men being cut off in batches is a wonderful tribute, both to the skill of the commanders and the determination of the men. It certainly looks as though the old spirit of "no surrender" largely animates our troops to-day, as it did their forefathers on the fields of long ago. In the meantime, while we ponder the figures announced from Berlin, it is to be regretted that the Allies have not taken steps to make public the number of prisoners they hold. Were they to do so it would certainly mean a big off-set to any disappointment the present figures might conjure up.

THE MARITZ FIASCO.

The exploit of Colonel Maritz in South Africa has apparently come to an inglorious end. His small force of rebels and Germans—or what remained of it after some scores had surrendered—has been badly defeated by the Union troops under Colonel van der Venter, and Maritz himself, wounded, has fled into German territory. It is certainly fortunate, however, that the Maritz bomb exploded somewhat prematurely. Had the renegade colonel been given more time, with the ample backing Germany was affording him, he might have worked up a veldt fire which would have called for a much greater effort to stamp it out than that which has now been exercised. As it is, the severe lesson that has been taught should have a salutary effect on any Boers who may have been dallying with the idea of re-establishing a republic. The whole incident will assuredly give one or two prominent Boers who have refused to declare their views out in the open, food for much reflection—and this, not so much on account of the physical steps that were called forth by the Maritz rebellion as on account of the way it was made clear that the Boers as a whole regarded the breaking of the oath of allegiance as an unpardonable slur on the Dutch character.

CANADA AND THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

Count von Bernstorff, the gentleman who represents Germany at Washington, can hardly be termed a tactful diplomat. Taken as a whole, the sympathies of the people of the United States are with the Allies, and the "blood and iron" methods of the Germans in Belgium have swung over many who were not at the outset unfriendly to the latter. Germany needs friends. She is more in need of friends at the present moment than anyone we ever knew of. And that being so, one would think her representatives in neutral countries would be at some pains not to rub those countries up the wrong way. But Count von Bernstorff, who, since the war began, has proved himself a strangely loquacious diplomat, now comes out with the declaration that to land armed forces on the Continent of America would not be a breach of the Monroe Doctrine, and he claims the right for Germany to throw troops into Canada. As far as Britain is concerned, Germany is quite welcome to that claim—it is about as effective as if she were to declare that she had the right at the present moment to take her High Sea fleet up the Thames. But the very futility of it illuminates Count von Bernstorff's tactlessness, for without the slightest possibility of his ideas being put into practice he had raised the one question upon which the United States is most touchy. That nation regards the Monroe Doctrine as something almost sacred. For Germany to say she could throw an army into Canada now is tantamount to saying she could pick a quarrel with one of the Southern American States, and throw an army in there. The United States would have very definite views on such a proceeding. And the big Republic would look with just as much favour on a German conquest of Canada as a German conquest of Brazil. The thing seems to suggest, of course, that Canada is under a double protection, but for the present, when she is not in the slightest danger of attack, that is not the point. The real fact of interest is that Germany is hardly fortunate in her diplomatic representation at Washington.

A FOOLISH CAMPAIGN.

"Silly" seems to be about the only term applicable to the stories by which an attempt is being made to discredit the loyalty of Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg. His long and brilliant services to the Empire render the attempt rather pitiful. The Battenberg title was conferred on Countess Hauke, daughter of a Polish general of artillery, and morganatic wife of Prince Alexander of Hesse. She was the mother of Prince Louis, who was born in 1854. He entered the Royal Navy as a cadet in 1868, and in 1882 served with distinction in the Egyptian War. By 1891 he had risen to the rank of captain, and 11 years later he was appointed Director of Naval Intelligence. In 1904 he was promoted to Rear-Admiral, and successively commanded the Second Cruiser Squadron, the Atlantic Fleet, and the Third and Fourth Divisions of the Home Fleet. Then, in 1911, he was appointed Second Sea Lord of the Admiralty, and the following year became First Sea Lord. His brother, Prince Henry, who had been Governor of the Isle of Wight, died at sea in 1896, when returning from active service with the British troops in West Africa. After practically a life-time of service devoted to the country of which he is a naturalised subject, and which has many times gladly extolled his capacity and his work, the present petty campaign against him speaks ill for the men responsible for it.

SUNKEN AUSTRIAN CRUISER.

The Austrian warship reported to have been sunk in Kiao-Chao Bay by the Japanese artillery is apparently the second-class cruiser Kaiserin Elizabeth, for she was the only Austrian cruiser in the bay of which we have any record. She was an old vessel, having been completed in 1892. Her displacement was 4000 tons, length 321½ft, beam 47½ft, and draught 18½ft; her indicated horse-power was 8000, and her speed about 19 knots. She carried two 9.4-inch, six 5.9-inch, and thirteen 1.8-inch guns, and her normal complement totalled 418.

DOCTORS FOR THE FRONT.

FAREWELLED IN PARLIAMENT.

ELOQUENT TRIBUTES.

Eloquent appreciation was expressed in the Legislative Council last night regarding the patriotic action of Dr. Beeston and Dr. Nash in joining the Australian Expeditionary Force.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council, Mr. Flowers, moved that the House place on record its appreciation of the patriotic action of Dr. Beeston and Dr. Nash, two of its members, in becoming members of the Expeditionary Force that Australia was sending to the front. Although not going as combatants, their duties would be none the less dangerous, and would require the same amount of courage and determination as if they were active combatants in the field. He was proud that by sending two members to the front the House had placed itself in line with the Assembly, which had sent two of its members into the fighting ranks. "When the history of this war is written," he said, "the achievements of the British race will stand out equal to the achievements of our great race in days gone by." (Cheers.)

Mr. Garland, in seconding the resolution, said he felt proud of the opportunity of doing so. It was a time when the Empire needed service from every quarter, and they could be proud to recognise that the Legislative Council of New South Wales was doing its duty along with the other Houses of Parliament in the Empire. This was the greatest war struggle that the world had ever seen, and it was a circumstance to be remembered with glorious pride that one had been a member of the unit that Australia was sending to take part in a struggle that was eminently just. (Cheers.)

Mr. Trickett recalled that the act of New South Wales in despatching the Soudan contingent in 1885 by Mr. Dalley, at the time a member of the Council, had raised New South Wales to equal companionship with the chivalrous nations of the earth. "I venture," he said, "to couple the name of William Bede Dalley in connection with these proceedings." (Cheers.) He trusted that their two colleagues would not only receive a cordial welcome back from the members of the House, but a share in the plaudits that all Australia would shower on her brave sons. (Cheers.)

Sir Joseph Carruthers said it would be seen that Australia had grown to be of some assistance to the Empire to which they belonged. "The example set by our honourable colleagues," he said, "is a very worthy one." The Duke of Wellington in a letter to a friend which he had recently read said that often oppressors failed to see that those whom they sought to oppress had many friends. In this war the oppressors had failed to see that Belgium and France, whom they sought to oppress, had in the civilised world many friends. (Cheers.)

Mr. Sinclair said there could only be one ending to the conflict now proceeding, because on one side only were common honesty, truthfulness, and morality. (Cheers.)

Sir Francis Suttor (the President) said that the cablegrams showed that doctors were taking the same deadly risks as those who were not wearing the Red Cross. The military duties of Dr. Beeston had called him to South Australia, which explained his absence on that occasion.

The resolution was carried, members standing and applauding.

Dr. Nash, in acknowledging the vote, thanked the House on behalf of him self and his colleague in so sending them forth on a public duty. He recalled that, acting on the request of his father, he had after completing his medical studies joined the British Army for the Egyptian campaign. It was a time "when all the youth of England is on fire, and silken dalliance in the wardrobe lies"—words put into the mouth of Henry V. by their greatest poet when serving his country on the very fields where General French was now at the head of the British Army. (Cheers.)

APPEAL TO RACEGOERS.

BINOCULARS NEEDED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Minister for Defence (Senator Pearce) said to-day that the forces were in need of binoculars, and gifts from racegoers after the coming carnival would be welcomed.

The department was also prepared to buy binoculars from those who had no further use for them.

WHEAT SUPPLY.

MILLERS' CONTRACTS.

The Attorney-General yesterday, stated the position regarding wheat.

"I have in my possession," said Mr. Hall, "information which shows that a very large proportion of wheat reported to be stored at country railway stations, belongs to millers, and is held to cover contracts for flour already entered into by them. Clearly no good purpose would be served by the Government seizing wheat from one miller to sell to another. Before making further seizures, there is also to be considered the question of seed wheat. It is desirable that where crops have failed, seed produced in the same locality should be supplied for next year's crop, if possible. No great harm, however, can arise by a little delay while full inquiries are made as to the various stocks held in the country."

"It is not," added the Attorney-General, "as if we were in the same position as we were in last month, when the ships were alongside the wharf to take the wheat away out of Australia, unless an immediate seizure took place. I have not heard that any baker is short of flour, or is likely to be short."

STATE SCHEME.

Mr. Carmichael remarked yesterday that he was in cordial agreement with the statement in yesterday's "Herald" that "there is going to be a serious shortage in the world's wheat supplies as a result of the present war."

"I claim," said the Minister, "that the farmer who grows additional wheat next year is doing his duty to the Empire in his own sphere equally with the men who have gone to the front. This Imperial phase cannot be stressed too much, for I consider the Government risk in connection with the wheat supply equally the duty of the State as the provision of expeditionary forces is the duty of the Commonwealth. The bonus of 6d a bushel we are prepared to pay upon all wheat from new lands up to a minimum of 4s a bushel is, I think, a very slight insurance against the food supply of the Empire. Personally I am inclined to hope that we will have to pay this bonus, since it will mean that the wheat supply of the Empire is equal to its needs. There will be no question as to whether our wheat-growers will have earned it, for they certainly will deserve something more earnest than thanks for their patriotism in making special efforts in the cause of Empire during the present crisis. I disagree with the 'Herald,' however, in the statement that the scheme is only possible if financed from England. While I do not anticipate any difficulty in getting the necessary money from the London market, I am confident that if necessary it would be comparatively easy to float a short-dated wheat loan in the local market. It would not affect the general trade, as it would be gilt-edged security, being short-dated and based upon patriotism and self-interest. As far as the criticism concerning the Government stroke is concerned, it seems to be forgotten that experience is altogether in favour of the big area with its steam machinery and long furrows. The only reason this has not been put in operation hitherto, and a reason why the advent of the Government in the wheat-growing industry, should be temporary, is the necessity for placing as many settlers as possible upon a given area in a new country. I am confident, not only that the farmers will respond loyally to the wishes of the Government, but that the new wheat land—chosen as it is from land that has long been ringbarked—will prove both a national and an economic advantage to the State."

ALLEGED CORNER.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A deputation representing the Victorian Millowners' Association waited to-day upon the Price of Goods Board, to ask that the board take action to make available stocks of wheat which, it was stated, were being held throughout the country in anticipation of a higher price than that already fixed by the board.

The complaint of various millers met with the sympathy of the board, the chairman, Mr. Adamson, M.L.C., characterising the conduct of holders of wheat as "shameful," and expressing his belief in the existence of a corner in wheat. He said the board had no legal power to act. All it could do was to refer the deputation to the Attorney-General. This the board would do, so that he would be aware of their plight.

WOOL BUYERS' HELP.

SYDNEY PARTY GETS OUT OF BERLIN.

Dr. Alfred N. Chenhall, of Stanmore, who travelled from London to Melbourne by the Holt liner, Ulysses, and came overland to Sydney, arriving yesterday, was, with his wife and son in Berlin at the outbreak of the war. The party managed to get seats in the last passenger train, and reached England, by way of Flushing, 24 hours later. A German woolbuyer from Wellington, New Zealand, whom Dr and Mrs. Chenhall met on the steamer by which they journeyed to Europe from Australia, happened to be in Berlin at the time, and it was on account of acting upon the advice he had given that they were able to get away without bother. The train journey was a dreadfully uncomfortable one, the carriages being literally packed. Those who were left behind, however, had a much worse experience. On the voyage out they had been in darkness every night, every port hole being closed.

METHODIST VIEW.

SYNOD ON WAR.

At the meeting of the Sydney District Synod, yesterday, the Rev. Dr. Brown moved "That the members of the Sydney District Synod of the Methodist Church of Australasia record their profound loyalty to the Sovereign and Empire of Great Britain in the awful and unprovoked war in which the Empire is now engaged. We regard war with the utmost horror as in itself unsocial, inhuman, and un-Christian on the part of those who provoke it. But, since the Government of Germany wantonly resorted to the arbitrament of the battlefield in the pursuit of its military ambitions and purposes, and in violation of its solemn international covenants, and thereby rendered resistance necessary on military lines to its arrogant designs, we record our admiration of the high and noble and self-sacrificing spirit with which the call of duty has been responded to by all classes, and in all parts of the Empire. We especially commend the courage and patriotism which have animated those who have volunteered from all parts of the Commonwealth for the various sections of the Australian Expeditionary Forces, and earnestly commend them to the care and blessing of our Heavenly Father during their time of perilous service. We unreservedly express our confidence in the sacredness of the cause for which our Empire and its allies are contending, and pray that this great strife may speedily terminate in the destruction of military autocracy and the establishment on a firm basis of methods of Christian international arbitration."

The motion was carried.

AGGRESSIVE GERMANS.

FLY THEIR FLAG.

INCIDENTS NEAR GRAFTON.

AUSTINMER, Tuesday.

"Germans on the Northern Rivers are becoming very aggressive," said Mr. H. R. Lee, manager of Port Kembla electrolytic works, this morning.

Mr. Lee, who has just returned from a motor trip through the Rivers, stated that in one of the largest of the northern towns an alderman of German extraction had flown the German flag above the Union Jack, and when approached by a deputation from the local council made the excuse that one of his children had hoisted the flag without his knowledge.

Mr. Lee also had an unpleasant experience, which might have ended disastrously. He was motoring with a party a few miles out of Grafton, when another motor, flying the German flag on the hood, passed them, and ran just ahead for a considerable distance. Any attempts to pass the car were frustrated, and on one occasion the foremost motor swerved rather quickly, and just missed a collision. On returning to Grafton Mr. Lee made a complaint to the inspector of police, and his explanation of the facts of the case was corroborated by the chauffeur and passengers.

LIVERPOOL CAMPS.

LIGHT HORSE AND INFANTRY.

TRAINING THE MEN.

HEAVY RECRUITING.

The two camps at Liverpool, light horse and infantry, are separated by a distance of a little over a mile, the railway dividing them. Train passengers can see most of the infantry tents, which are on the banks of George's River. This camp will have to expand considerably before it fills one tenth part of the available area of that flat country. There are about a hundred tents all in lines, with a "street" dividing the two divisions of the 13th battalion of the 4th Infantry (A.I.) Brigade. This is the battalion that is to be concentrated at Broadmeadows, but the officer commanding (Lieut.-Colonel G. J. Burnage, V.D.) has no knowledge when the move will be made. The 4th Brigade is to be made up of regiments from all the States.

Meanwhile the men of the 13th are settling down to their work at Liverpool in a whole-hearted fashion. They are mostly men from the country. Their equipment is not yet complete, but this is not allowed to interfere with their training, which is conducted in dungarees. They are paraded each morning between 6.45 and 7.45, and are put through bayonet fighting, semaphore signalling, and group reading. After breakfast they receive musketry instruction and rifle exercises, as set out in the drill book. Visual training is specialised by squads from the different companies. Section drill is given daily, to prepare the men for company work. At the latter end of each week field training is the chief work in the forenoon, and on Sunday mornings there is the usual church parade.

The afternoons of each day are divided up in a similar way. From 2.15 to 4.15 the men are put through company drill, section drill, and musketry instruction. At the end of the week the chief work is battalion drill, and on Sunday afternoons there is what is called a muster parade, after which the men are permitted to see their friends. On week nights, after 7.30, there are silent marches with arms and accoutrements, and lectures for officers and "non coms." On bright moonlight nights the men are paraded on the road adjoining, and then brought back to do battalion drill.

Next week a step onward will be made, and target practice will be included. As there are only two targets at the camp, it will be necessary to remove the men each day, as required, to the rifle range at Long Bay.

Lieutenant-Colonel Burnage is grateful to Miss Margaret Harris, of Littlebridge, Ultimo, for the supply of a complete set of brass and reed instruments, drums, etc., and also to Captain W. G. Bentley, brigade bandmaster, who gives periodical instruction.

The battalion requires company commanders, senior men preferred. Letters for the men should be addressed "13th Battalion, Liverpool."

CAMP SUPERVISION.

Outside the work of preparing the 13th Battalion, general training is going on for the benefit of other New South Wales recruits, who have been sent to the infantry. The arrivals at Liverpool during yesterday and on Monday afternoon comprised good types of men, who have had much country experience. They are being drafted into the additional companies that are being formed for future A.I. expeditionary forces. This work is in the hands of drill instructors, under Major Murray, camp commandant. Each recruit as he steps into camp is provided with food, blankets, and tent accommodation. One big marquee can accommodate 70 men.

LIGHT HORSE.

Much enthusiasm pervades the men of the Light Horse Camp, which is under the general command of Lieutenant-Colonel C. F. Cox, C.B., V.D., in the absence of the Brigadier, Colonel Ryrie. The latter visited the camp yesterday, and was pleased with the general progress. Colonel Cox's regiment is the 6th of the 2nd Light Horse (A.I.) Brigade. The command of the 7th Regiment has been given to Lieutenant-Colonel J. M. Arnott, who had command of the 11th (Strathfield) Light Horse Regiment of the New South Wales forces. He was at one time brigade-major to the Light Horse Brigade of New South Wales. He was on duty at Liverpool yesterday.

When the time comes for Colonel Cox to lead the men out of this camp it will be the fourth time he has taken troops from Liverpool. He took the Lancers home to the Queen's Jubilee; then a contingent home for 12 months' training at Aldershot (from whence they went to South Africa), and next he took home the 3rd Imperial Mounted Rifles, 1000 men.

The 6th (L.H.) Regiment has an establishment of 556 men and horses. The personnel is complete, but there is yet a shortage of 150 horses. It is expected that these will be provided in the course of the next few days. In addition to the New South Wales regiments the Queensland L.H. Regiment is to concentrate at Liverpool. One squadron of the 6th Regiment is complete. All camps have now "dry" canteens. Leave is granted from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. No serious misbehaviour has occurred.

In addition to the sum of £50 from Colonel Burns, the band fund for the "6th" amounts to nearly £100. Yesterday £1 was received from Mr. H. Curtis, and £2 from Mr. Sam Nettleton.

HORSES BY RAIL.

It was officially announced yesterday at Sydney headquarters that "all horses sent to Liverpool, either purchased or presented for the use of the Expeditionary Forces, should be consigned to the Remount Depot, Liverpool. Privately-owned horses should be consigned direct to owners, and not to the remount depot. In the event of the horse being given to the Defence Department for the use of a particular man, the donor should notify the Assistant Director of Remounts before despatch of the horse, giving full and correct description, together with the name of the man, and the horse will be duly allotted to him. The consignment should be marked 'Expeditionary Force,' which will enable horses to travel free of cost."

RECRUITING.

Three hundred and fifty men presented themselves at the Barracks before the recruiting officer, Major Timothy, yesterday. Thirty were rejected, and 320 accepted, 190 going to Liverpool in the afternoon, the balance being told to report themselves at 2 p.m. to-day.

The announcement that Miss Maude Harvie, of Melbourne, is to visit Sydney (as well as other State capitals), at the instance of the Defence Department, for the purpose of making bandages for the horses of the Expeditionary Forces, has created some surprise here, in view of the fact that for weeks past a large committee of ladies, headed by Mrs. F. A. Antill, has completed the work of making 3000 of these bandages, which have already been forwarded to the War Chest Department. Many of these bandages are now in use.

MOTOR TRANSPORT.

An English motorist following hard in the heels of the British expeditionary force in France has supplied the Dunlop Company with an interesting description of a motor transport column.

"Upon overtaking the motor transport, we visited their camp, and found a collection of motor vehicles, probably unique in the history of motordom. As one examined this fleet, one could not but be impressed with the magnitude of the task of sending an armed force abroad. We had plenty of opportunities of examining the detail work of the Army Service Corps, and can only say that it is admirable. The men are magnificent; their equipment is excellent, and the general organisation shows a well-thought-out scheme executed to the letter.

"Mechanics were lubricating their vehicles, cleaning out carburettors, examining plugs, making adjustments. In one of the side avenues traction engines were lined up. Everything necessary has been brought with the army. The motor vehicles have their own petrol and oil supply, quite independent of that needed for the French vehicles.

DISLOYALTY AT MANLY.

A correspondent remarks apropos of the moving-on of the band in Moore-street, on Monday:—A number of men every Sunday make a point of ostentatiously plugging their hats on their heads when our "National Anthem" is played on the ocean front in Manly. The police look complacently on, and threaten to arrest those who resent it.

A BARBAROUS ACT.

Captain W. J. Roberts, of the American liner New York, which arrived at New York from Liverpool before the last American mail left, said that his daughter, at his home in Liverpool, was caring for a little Belgian girl whose hands had been cut off by German soldiers.

"She is a pretty, flaxen-haired little thing about six years old," the captain said, "and I cannot understand how any man could commit such a barbarous act on an innocent child."

LATE WAR NEWS.

THE LEFT WING.

GERMAN EFFORT.

ATTACKS REPULSED.

PARIS, Oct. 27.

A communique issued at midnight on Monday states:—"Nieuport has been violently bombarded, and the German effort continued on the Nieuport-Dixmude front, but without result."

The entire front between La Basse and Homme was the object of violent night attacks, which were all repulsed.

BELGIAN BATTLE.

DESPERATE FIGHTING.

A quarter of a million Germans were massed at Ypres, but the British force held them in check for five days, despite the siege guns which had been brought from Antwerp, sometimes burying the men in the trenches.

Again and again the Germans got within a few hundred yards. The British then leapt out of the trenches, and charged with their bayonets, and the Germans fled, many hundreds being captured.

Thousands fell victims to the shell fire and machine guns.

The situation was critical till reinforcements arrived on Friday, and the enemy was thrown back 15 miles.

HEAVY CASUALTIES.

CALAIS, Oct. 27.

The Belgians lost 10,000 dead and wounded in nine days' fighting along the Yser.

In the Yser Canal 2500 bodies of Germans were found after a single night attack. Many were drowned and others bayoneted.

Belgians and Germans even wrestled, and died drowning each other.

EMPEROR'S SON.

SUFFERING FROM SHOCK.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 26.

Prince Oscar, fifth son of the German Emperor, is suffering from partial paralysis of the vagus nerve, as the result of the shock caused by seeing the Turcos kill all the officers of his staff. His recovery is regarded as doubtful.

TO SUCCEED VON MOLTKE.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 27.

General Falkenhayn has been appointed to succeed Count von Moltke as the German Commander-in-Chief. Count von Moltke was recently reported to be dying.

SCENES OF TERROR.

REFUGEE-LADEN STEAMER.

SUNK BY EXPLOSION.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

After the explosion which caused her destruction, the Amiral Ganteaume (4590 tons), which was carrying Belgian refugees, commenced to settle almost on an even keel. The steamer Queen and two French torpedo boats sped to her assistance. Meanwhile panic-stricken women rushed to the sides of the steamer screaming for help.

As the Queen approached the doomed vessel a number of men and women jumped overboard. Some failed to grasp the ropes and lifebelts, which were thrown into the sea. Fifteen others were crushed between the two boats as they came together.

One of the boats which was launched, and which contained a number of passengers from the sinking ship, was capsized, and three of its occupants were drowned. The sea proving too rough to launch the boats, the Queen was finally manoeuvred alongside the Amiral Ganteaume.

The refugees who were the poorest of the poor, were wild with fear. They scrambled on board the Queen, and tumbled over each other in their fright. Despite the disorder, the Queen succeeded in rescuing over 2000 of the passengers in 20 minutes.

The captain of the Queen states that the disaster was due to the vessel striking a mine. Others attribute the disaster to a boiler explosion.

ALBANIA.

MOVE BY GREECE.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

Greece announces her intention to re-occupy Northern Epirus, in view of the breakdown of the Albanian Government.

Greece emphasises the fact that her action is entirely provisional.

ITALIAN ACTION.

ROME, Oct. 27.

It is officially announced that an Italian naval expedition occupied Valona, for the purpose of safeguarding the neutrality of Albania.

SERVIAN ASSASSINS.

VERDICT OF GUILTY.

ROME, Oct. 27.

Prinzip, the Servian student who shot the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, has been found guilty with others, who were arrested as accomplices. They will be sentenced on Wednesday.

The Servians are making a desperate attempt to capture the city before the trial terminates.

BRITAIN'S WOOL SUPPLY.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

The "Daily Telegraph" commends the action of Sydney auctioneers in refusing to take bids at the wool sales on account of German buyers. In view of the exploits of the cruiser Emden, the "Daily Telegraph" calls on the Government to arrange for more regular supplies of wool from Australia and New Zealand.

DESTITUTE BELGIANS.

The work for the relief of the destitute Belgians was begun on September 1, at the Belgian Consulate, 255A George-street, and, after packing for a fortnight, it was noticed that there was a scarcity of children's clothing. A workroom was immediately opened at the consulate, and subscriptions and workers came forward at once. The workrooms are in charge of Mrs. Ninian Thomson and Miss Evans, Mrs. Withers acting as hon. secretary. Up to date, 55 tons (250 bales) of clothing have been forwarded, including 11,000 new garments. By the time the depot closes it is anticipated that another 10,000 new articles will be ready for despatch.

The sum of £130 was received from private subscribers to begin the work, and a grant of £50 from the War Chest. Further donations of £100 are coming from various sources.

These contributions came through the local committee. In addition, £1650 was sent direct to Sydney by local residents, as well as £1400 in kind (sheep, etc.).

NOTE ISSUE.

UNION MOVEMENT.

At yesterday's meeting of the executive of the Industrial Unions' Committee, a letter was read from the Premier, stating that the proposals of the committee had been transmitted to the Prime Minister.

The secretary (Mr. Claude Thompson) reported that about 50 of the unions and the P.L.L. leagues had replied to his circular, expressing approval of the Industrial Unions' scheme to relieve the financial pressure by a note issue.

AN AUSTRALIAN IN AMERICA IN WAR TIME.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—From the rough billows of the Atlantic to the calmer waters of the Pacific main, and from the Great Lakes to the Caribbean Sea, there has rolled a mighty wave of sympathy and admiration to the great mother of freedom. Beyond law and language and faith there are the bonds of a common literature and tradition, even of a common hope for the destiny of mankind. We are told, and may believe, that nine-tenths of the citizens of the United States are one in heart with the arms of the Allies. They will help where they can or ought.

Immediately after England's decision had been made known to the world her action was received upon the American Continent with enthusiastic and reverential acclaim. As a noble instance, take the following splendid editorial tribute by the Baltimore "Sun" to Great Britain, which your readers will appreciate. It should be pasted in every album as a testimony for coming generations:—

For forty-eight hours the uppermost question in the mind of the world has been, What will England do? And again in that question we pay willing or unwilling homage to the majesty and greatness which that little island represents. The fate of Europe and civilisation has depended frequently before now on England; and the course of Empire and of history has been turned hither or thither according to the attitude which she has assumed in great international crises. Selfish she may be, domineering, and even occasionally "perfidious," as the French formerly delighted to call her, but whatever her motives, there can be no question that almost invariably the cause which she has espoused has triumphed, and that the map of the Continent has been drawn and redrawn a dozen times through her influence or at her command.

But for her there might have been to-day no German Empire and no Austrian Empire. When the German States and the Austrian monarchy were both prostrate at the feet of Napoleon, she raised them up, she inspired them with fresh courage, she urged them on to resistance and led them to victory. Her constructive statesmanship, her tireless energy, her business genius, her splendid and unfailing courage, her indomitable obstinacy, overthrew the greatest military commander and the most formidable military empire of modern times. She has been potent in the work of humbling Russia both in the East and the West, and through her combinations and her money, she has set bounds to that mighty power when it seemed about to become a menace in Europe or the Orient. Her influence and her friendship have done much to protect her ancient enemy France at various periods since the Franco-German war, and they have stood like a shield before other smaller countries which might have fallen before the ambition of more powerful neighbours.

No wonder mankind has been waiting almost breathless to know what this empire-builder, this maker of world-history, would do in such a startling and momentous crisis, for we all feel that if England is the England of old the results of this struggle will be materially affected, if not finally determined, by her action or her non-action. . . . She has no easy task before her in going up against Germany. In contending with her she will be battling with a kindred race, possessing the same moral qualities as herself, superb in intellect, in organisation, in science, aflame with splendid patriotism, animated with unquenchable enthusiasm for the Fatherland.

It would be a contest of the gods. And Germany does not shrink from it. The Kaiser has counted the cost, whether accurately or not remains to be seen. But though Germany does not fear, she would be greatly relieved if she did not have to reckon with England.

Whether we love her or whether we hate her, we must admit England's greatness and the immense power she has wielded and still wields on this little planet.

Herewith I send you a specimen of the most remarkable publication that surely was ever issued by any Foreign Office. It has been scattered broadcast over the United States by the German Government, and, though very long-winded, selections from it may interest the Australian public. Probably the chief significance is the desperate desire to win the good opinion of America to the German cause by very unhandsome statements concerning our august ally the Czar, and his advisers. Plainly the translation is by a German whose knowledge of the English language was not perfect. The correspondence between Czar and Kaiser is of intense and historic interest. Though headed officially "Foreign Office, Berlin, August, 1914," no signature is attached to the introductory remarks, whilst the authenticity of the whole is vouched for by the printed signature of the monarchs themselves.

You will have been informed by cable of the worries caused to the amiable and high-minded President Wilson by Ambassadors of one sort or other. Himself in profound mourning for the loss of his admirable life's companion, he preserves an honourable neutrality, during a difficult time, both with dignity and firmness. He must check a talkative Englishman from Mexico, get rid of a rude and irascible Turk, restrain explosive Germans, refuse excited deputations, and—let us hope—find a fitting expletive for the bloodthirsty Mexican bandits. He wins praise from all parties—a certain nationality alone excepted—and commands the respect of everybody.

An effort is made by the intransigent German element to stem the tide of public disapprobation in the United States by issuing a weekly newspaper upon the war. It is called "The Fatherland, Fair Play for Germany and Austria-Hungary." The reading-matter is couched in terms of extreme exacerbation, whilst the cartoons are alike inartistic, honourless, and merely brutally offensive. Of course it cannot circulate in Canada, and only sober argument could have effect in the United States.

Lord Haldane will not deny the following, for the narrative comes from himself and, as far as I know, has not yet been published. Three summers ago army manoeuvres were carried out in England. Later in the year, in Berlin, during an interview, the Kaiser suddenly said to Lord Haldane: "Tell me, did you mobilise your army this summer?" "We made an attempt, your Majesty." "I have another question to ask you, and would like a direct answer," said the Kaiser. "We must be supreme at sea. What do you say to that?" Lord Haldane replied: "For every battleship you build, we shall build two; for every cruiser you build, we shall build two; the rest in proportion; and we shall so continue until we are extinct." The Kaiser brought his fist heavily on the table, said only "Damn," and ended the interview.

Centuries hence, when the causes of the colossal tragedy now being unrolled shall be calmly considered by historians, the simplicity of the words employed by the imperial actors will be compared with the duplicity of their intent. Look at "exhibit 21" and the replies thereto. Let us note, too, the departure from precedent in "exhibit 26" where the German Emperor is called in the original, official text "his Majesty the Emperor of Germany." And, again, the official statement (page 11) "Shoulder to shoulder with England we laboured incessantly and supported every proposal in Vienna from which we hoped to gain the possibility of a peaceful solution of the conflict." It is inexpugnable evidence that England sought with all her soul to prevent the Armageddon for which Germany had herself so long prepared, and yet was found unready.

I am, etc.,
OCTAVIUS C. BEALE.

Vancouver, B.C., September 30.

THE RUAHINE.

CAUSE OF THE LEAK.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

The result of unloading operations aboard the Ruahine shows the chief cause of the inrush of water was a buckled cargo port, used principally for shipping frozen meat on the port side. In all probability the damage was caused through the vessel bumping the wharf as she lay berthed alongside. The fact that it was impossible to make it watertight was not discernible at the time.

GERMAN MISER.

AUCKLAND (N.Z.), Tuesday.

An old German, named Theodore Oswald Lattorff, who lived the life of a hermit and miser, has died, leaving a fortune in cash and property vaued at about £20,000.

The furniture in Lattorff's house could be bought for a pound note. Deceased only spent a few pence daily on food, living as a pauper. He had no relations in the Dominion.

TWO WATCHMEN KILLED.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Two watchmen—James Casey and C. Lovell—employed by the Victorian Railway Department, were killed at Melton Viaduct cutting, about 18 miles from Melbourne yesterday evening. They were on a trolly travelling down the line to guard the bridge about 11 o'clock, when a special stock train from Ballarat overtook them in the dark. Both men were killed instantly.

NEWSPAPER LIBEL ACTION.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the libel action Watt v the "Age" the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff with £1000 damages.

COAL EXPORTS.

CHILIAN MARKET IN DANGER

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

Mr. Manuel Gundelach, Consul for Chili, stated to-day that owing to the restrictions placed upon the exports of coal to Chili, the commercial operations between that country and Newcastle will be seriously affected. Last year 800,000 tons of coal were exported from Newcastle to the Republic, and 280 steamers and sailers were required for the transportation. These figures will show an alarming decrease by the end of the year.

"I have read in the papers the possibility of Japanese coal being exported to Chili," he continued, "in the event of Newcastle coal not being obtainable.

"During the 14 years I have been Chilian Consul here, I have signed documents for no fewer than 3500 steamers and sailers, carrying seven million tons of coal.

"By the Chilian papers lately to hand, there is talk of U.S.A. coal being exported to Chili on a large scale, via the Panama Canal. If such a proposition were successful, Newcastle would lose her best market in the international trade. Indirectly Chili contributes towards the progress of this port to an enormous extent. Besides obtaining £500,000 for the coal, you have the benefit of the disbursements of ships while in port, which reaches a large figure."

CONTINUATION CLASSES.

RESULT OF EXAMINATIONS.

The third annual examination for evening continuation school certificates was held on September 7 and following days. 291 candidates sat for the examination, and 182, equal to 62.5 per cent., were successful. Last year only 176 sat, and 99 passed (52.6 per cent.), while in the first year, of 170 candidates, only 36.4 per cent. passed. The number of candidates this year would have been considerably greater had it not been for the fact that a number of boys who had prepared themselves for the examination, and contemplated sitting for it, were prevented from doing so on account of military duties. The military authorities have granted leave of absence to candidates for the leaving certificate examination to be held in December, and the Education Department proposes to consult with the military authorities in order that, if possible, the various camps may not conflict with the dates of the departmental examinations.

It will be seen from the following list that the candidates who sat for the evening continuation school certificate were scattered all over the State, boys and girls from Albury, Broken Hill, Lithgow, Orange, Tamworth, and Newcastle districts competing. This certificate is beginning to be valued by employers, and as time goes on will, with the other departmental certificates, probably be considered a necessity for boys and girls seeking employment that requires a definite degree of education. In fact, certain bodies have already intimated to the department their acceptance of this certificate.

The following are the successful candidates who attended the evening continuation schools:—

MR. A. H. CONROY ENTERTAINED.

A reception in honour of Mr. A. H. Conroy was given by the members of the Freetrade and Land Values League and others at Baumann's Cafe last night.

Sir Joseph Carruthers K.C.M.G., who presided, in proposing the health of the guest, said he did not think that Mr. Conroy had been beaten fairly in the recent contest. There had been a wonderful unanimity of blundering on the part of the scrutineers. He regretted to think, and to have to believe, that here had been political dishonesty in this democratic and free country of Australia. Incidentally, he thought that the old Liberal party—the freetrade party—had lost something of its punch. Ex-Senator Pulsford supported the chairman.

Mr. Conroy, in reply, said that until a man grasped the principle of freetrade he was not likely to grasp those other principles of freedom which really formed the root of human existence. The people must see to the principle of justice. They must see that Parliament did not make laws for the benefit of one section of the community, and to the disadvantage of others. Liberalism had got to go back to its old meaning—that of a free party.

MUCH NEEDED RAINS.

PERTH, Tuesday.

Splendid rains have fallen over a large area in the southern portions of the State in the last 48 hours, but, unfortunately, in the eastern agricultural districts, where rain was wanted so badly, the falls have been few and far between. A heavy hailstorm passed over Coolgardie yesterday, and considerable damage was done.

LABOUR ANXIOUS.

POSITION IN WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

PERTH, Tuesday.

In view of the fact that the fate of the Labour Government depends largely on the result of the three deferred elections in the north-west, the Minister for Works, Mr. Johnson, and Mr. O'Loughlin, M.L.A., left Perth today to assist the Labour candidates in those constituencies.

BLIND AND DEAF CHILDREN'S SPORTS.

The postponed sports meeting of the N.S.W. Institution for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind was held at the Grammar School sports ground yesterday. In addition to the competitive events the children went through marching, Indian club, and physical exercises, and gave a very interesting display. The blind children were guided throughout their races by the sound of a whistle at the tape. At the conclusion of the programme Mrs. W. Rigg presented the prizes.

LOAN FOR STATES.

PREMIERS' CONFERENCE.

At the Premiers' Conference, which opens at Melbourne on Monday, Mr. Holman intends to be present.

The Conference has been convened particularly to discuss the financial outlook in the States. It has already been authoritatively announced that the various State Governments are acting in concert with the Federal Government to secure a substantial loan in England for the States to enable important public works, which have been interfered with by the war, to continue. It is expected that a reply will soon be received from London, indicating that the negotiations in hand will be satisfactorily completed.

There are other loan negotiations afoot, in which the States and the Commonwealth are concerned, and the time is approaching for finality to be reached.

METHODIST SYNODS.

SYDNEY DISTRICT.

The Sydney District Synod met in the Conference Hall, Castlereagh-street, yesterday morning, under the chairmanship of the Rev. F. Colwell, president of the conference.

The Rev. W. Pearson was chosen as secretary.

The Rev. C. A. Sims, of New Zealand, was given permission to attend the sessions.

Recognition was given to the honorary degree of doctor of divinity that had been recently conferred upon the Rev. J. E. Carruthers by the Victoria University of Toronto, Canada, and Dr. Carruthers was congratulated upon the honour.

At the afternoon session reference was made to the loss the Church had sustained by the death of the Rev. R. M. Laverty.

The report of the commission appointed by the last conference on the readjustment of circuit boundaries affecting the Ashfield, Burwood, Strathfield, Homebush, Campsie, and Lakemba circuits, was recommended for adoption.

The Rockdale circuit accepted its obligation to take a married minister at the ensuing conference, the Glebe-Toxteth circuit being recommended for exemption. The Mosman circuit application for an additional minister was recommended.

It was agreed to recommend to the conference that Gladesville be attached to the Drummoyne circuit.

The Rev. J. Ward Harrison submitted the statistical returns for the Sydney district, which showed an increase of three churches, two parsonages, 310 new members, and 1825 adherents.

The Rev. G. W. Furner presented the report of the Sunday-schools, which indicated an increase of 182 teachers, 537 scholars, 789 scholars who have joined the Church, and 58 branches of the Young Worshippers' League, with 3000 members.

GOULBURN, Tuesday.

The Methodist Synod met to-day, under the chairmanship of the Rev. T. Parker. The Rev. W. Weston was re-elected as supernumerary. The following invitations have been accepted:—The Rev. T. M. Taylor, Yass, as second minister to Goulburn; the Rev. L. Hurd, Goulburn, to Newtown; the Rev. A. Morris, Yates, to Mudgee; the Rev. C. P. Walkden Brown, to the fourth year at Young.

TAMWORTH, Tuesday.

The pastoral sessions of Armidale District Synod opened this morning at Tamworth, under the chairmanship of the Rev. William Stewart.

The Rev. J. P. Penman was elected secretary, and the Rev. T. Jenkin assistant secretary. The Revs. T. M. Starr and G. T. Moore were recommended to be received into the regular work of the church at the next conference. The Rev. N. H. Parr was recommended for ordination, and the Revs. S. W. M'Kibben William Coleman, and S. R. Robbins were advanced a year in their probation. The Revs. J. B. Penman, Thomas Jenkin, and C. A. S. Woodhouse, having completed their terms, are due for removal, and seek fresh appointments.

CARE OF THE BLIND.

"The problem of the adult blind in Europe, the United Kingdom, and America is still to be solved," states Mr. S. Hedger, who has just returned from the international conference on the blind held in London a few months ago, and which he attended as the official delegate from New South Wales.

Mr. Hedger said that the Sydney industrial blind institution had been acknowledged by the conference to be the most up-to-date in the world, and he had been invited while staying in London to give evidence before a Royal Commission that was considering the subject of the treatment of the blind. He had visited all the principal institutions, libraries, and workshops in England, Scotland, and Ireland, and had found the officials very anxious to obtain information about the work in Australia. The appeal that had been made by King George for an endowment to cheapen the cost of Braille literature had resulted in £45,000 being subscribed within a very short time. There were five workshops and schools for the blind at Berlin, and the aged blind were very well looked after there. He had visited the residential schools and workshops for the blind at Copenhagen and Amsterdam, and had then gone to Belgium. The blind institution at Brussels, conducted by the Roman Catholic Brothers, was one of the best in the world. In France the blind were well cared for, and the various States of America were now awakening to their responsibilities and establishing workshops for the blind.

MAROUBRA GUN FATALITY.

FUNERAL OF PRIVATE WALKER.

GOULBURN, Tuesday.

The military funeral of Private Walker, victim of the machine-gun accident at Maroubra, which took place to-day, was an impressive spectacle.

The coffin was placed on a gun carriage under a Union Jack. The band of the Australian Light Horse played the "Dead March" in Saul. All the local military units were well represented. The cadets mustered in particularly good force.

DEATH OF MR. G. PRAIN.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

George Prain, who retired a year ago on superannuation from the position of chief clerk of the Customs Department, at Dunedin, was killed last night. He was apparently wrestling with another man, and fell on his head.

Ernest Dallas has been arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

Prain was a well known cricket umpire. On several occasions he accompanied the Otago team on tour. He was 57 years of age.

WRECK OF THE KAIRIKI.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Tuesday.

The Court, which investigated the wreck of the steamer Kairiki, off Point Elizabeth, found the divisions of the hatchways were too large to withstand the heavy weather. There was no evidence to show whether the hull was strained or otherwise damaged. The vessel was sufficiently manned and equipped.

RELIGION AND POLITICS.

LAUNCESTON, Tuesday.

An animated meeting was held at Karoola on Saturday in connection with the opening of a branch of the Roman Catholic Federation.

When the election of officers came on two prominent residents declined the offer of positions, intimating that they wanted further information. When asked what information they required, one resident said the movement was introducing a third party into politics, and he would have a conscientious difficulty in voting for any candidate to whom he was politically opposed, even though that candidate favoured the Roman Catholic claims.

The Rev. Father M'Nally, who presided, and Mr. de Dassel replied that Roman Catholic claims were paramount. The two residents, however, persisted in declining to join the movement for the present. The officers having been appointed the branch was officially opened with a membership of over 50.

ELECTORAL REGISTRARS.

CONSIDERED UNNECESSARY.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

It has been decided by Senator Russell, hon. Minister in charge of the electoral branch of the Home Affairs Department, to dispense with the services of electoral registrars in metropolitan districts and in the larger cities. Their duties will in future be performed by divisional returning officers, who are now permanent officials. This is an endorsement of the policy laid down by the Cook Ministry.

UNIONS' LEVIES.

MR. JUSTICE HEYDON'S DECISION.

FUTURE ACTION BY THE MEN.

Mr. D. O'Sullivan, secretary of the Railway Workers and General Labourers' Society, commenting on Judge Heydon's decision in regard to the legality of a levy in support of a newspaper, stated yesterday that the union could not, of course, go any further in the matter, but steps would immediately be taken towards securing an amendment of the Trades Union Act of 1881.

This Act, which was passed by a Conservative Government, to render trades unions lawful organisations, as far as trade unionists are concerned, Mr. O'Sullivan avers, is so much waste paper, as it leaves the unions without powers to confer benefits upon their members, or to carry on the objects of the association. Before the introduction of arbitration, Mr. O'Sullivan continued, the unions' method of forcing a recalcitrant member to pay a levy, would be to strike, and therefore if arbitration has taken away the means of giving effect to the wishes of the majority of members, trades unionists must demand that similar powers be given them to obtain their ends by constitutional means.

VICTORIA'S COALMINE.

PAYING ITS WAY.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The committee of public accounts placed before the Legislative Assembly to-day its report on the State coal mine at Wonthaggi.

The report states that when Parliament sanctioned the mine as a State undertaking it was estimated that the sum required for equipment, development, and drainage of the mine would be £67,000. The capital expenditure on the mine, however, had been just three times that amount. It was also estimated that the annual output of the mine would be 350,000 tons, of which 20 per cent. would be small coal and slack. The output during 1912-13 totalled 457,653 tons, of which about 36 per cent. was slack. In 1913-14 the State coal mine paid its way after making full allowance for depreciation which occurred in that year, and also for a contribution to the sinking fund, which would, if maintained on the same basis, pay off the whole of the capital put into the mine before its life, which is estimated at another 21 years, was exhausted.

CASUALTIES.

DOMAIN SUICIDE.

The City Coroner yesterday held an inquiry into the cause of death of Pemberton Wilfred Close Palmer, 38. Evidence was given that Palmer was found dead in the Domain. He left letters stating that he came from Gundagai, and referred to financial troubles. A verdict was recorded of death from poison, self-administered.

KILLED BY TRAM.

While journeying from Manly to The Spit, John Robson received fatal injuries from an electric tram. The City Coroner, at an inquiry held yesterday, brought in a verdict of accidental death.

PTOMAINE POISONING.

Mrs. H. Hall, her two young daughters and Walter Southall, were at a harbour picnic yesterday. After partaking of some sandwiches, they became ill. They were removed to the Sydney Hospital, where they were successfully treated for ptomaine poisoning.

MAN POISONED AT BALMAIN.

John Wise, 32, was removed yesterday to the Balmain District Hospital suffering from the effects of poison.

DROWNING CASE.

About 5 a.m. yesterday, Edward Sly and Reginald Roberts, found the fully-clothed body of a man floating in the ocean off Fairy Bower, Manly. Papers in the man's pocket were addressed "Mr. Kinnane, Harris-street, Harris Park."

FALL FROM CART.

William Brown, 69, yesterday morning fell from his cart in Denison-street, Paddington, fracturing his skull. He was removed to St. Vincent's Hospital.

TRAM ACCIDENT.

Frances Blue, was knocked down by a Forest Lodge tram yesterday. She received injuries to the head, and was taken to the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING.

FORBES, Tuesday.

A young man named Patrick Smith, 19, son of Mr. E. J. Smith, farmer, of Budgerabong, was drowned in the Lachlan River whilst bathing with a companion.

BITTEN BY A SNAKE.

HOBART, Tuesday.

A death from snake-bite is reported from Fortescue. A boy named Woolley, aged four and a half years, while playing with another child not far from their home, trod on a snake, and was bitten on the leg just above the ankle. Remedies were applied by neighbours, but the child succumbed.

SWEPT DOWN STREAM.

BOWRAVILLE, Tuesday.

A lad, named Ernest Howley, in endeavouring to ride across a bridge while a strong stream was running over it, narrowly missed losing his life. His horse slipped, was swept off its feet, and became entangled with the railing of the bridge. The rider was carried down stream for a couple of hundred yards. When passing a tree he grasped a limb, and a man on the bank, Alex. McKay, jumped into the water and rescued the lad.

JUMPED OVERBOARD.

MURWILLUMBAH, Tuesday.

A man, about 30 years of age, jumped overboard from the steamer Booyong, at Condong, on Monday. The vessel was about 20 yards from the wharf. He was seen to swim about 15 yards, and then suddenly sink.

DROWNED IN A DAM.

WAGGA, Tuesday.

James Murphy, a well-known farmer at Marrar, was missed from his home on Thursday. Some time later a member of the family saw his body floating in a dam near the homestead. Life was then extinct. At a magisterial inquiry an open verdict was returned, no evidence being forthcoming as to how deceased got into the water.

DRIVING FATALITY.

ALBION PARK, Tuesday.

Charles Faulks, 71 years of age, and a resident for the past 35 years at Stockyard Mountain, Yellow Rock, was killed on Saturday whilst driving his milk cart down the mountain. At an inquiry yesterday a verdict of accidental death was returned.

FOUND DEAD.

RICHMOND, Tuesday.

At Kurrajong, on Friday, a woodcutter found the body of a man hanging from a tree. So far, identification has not been established. The Coroner held an inquiry, which was adjourned for a week.

DEAF MUTE KILLED.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

A deaf and dumb woman, Lizzie Truscott, about 40 years of age, was killed on the railway line at Charters Towers this morning. She was walking down Melville-street, alongside the railway line, when she suddenly stepped in front of an engine hauling firewood.

MOTORING FATALITY.

PERTH, Tuesday.

A young man, Kenneth Hayes, of Lyall's Mill, was killed, and Chas. Spencer, town clerk, of Collie, was badly injured as the result of a motor car accident in the main street of Collie.

SHALLOW DIVING.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

Samuel Morey, 26 years of age, dived into about 18 inches of water at the Ocean Baths yesterday afternoon, and struck his head on the sandy bottom.

He was conveyed to Newcastle Hospital in a serious condition.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

In the quarter ended August 31, out of a total of 125,022 trade union members reporting in N. S. Wales 11,674 were unemployed, representing 9.3 per cent. The percentage of unemployment throughout the Commonwealth, according to a report by the Commonwealth Statistician, Mr. Knibbs, was 10.7. The total unemployed unionists in the Commonwealth was 30,367.

DISPUTES.

MR. HUGHES ON THE RECENT JUDGMENT.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

A statement was made by the Attorney-General, Mr. Hughes, to-night, regarding the position that has been created by the recent judgment of the High Court in the tramways case.

"The situation is redolent of comic opera, with more than a suspicion of Dante's 'Inferno,'" said Mr. Hughes. "If the interpretation I have put upon it is the one Mr. Justice Powers intended, the position created by the High Court is a most serious one. As I understand it, Mr. Justice Powers says that, in the face of the clearest proof, there was a dispute between employees and employers, and that a demand had been made and refused, or ignored; that this had been done on more than one occasion, and that the employees had then gone to the Court, duly filed a plaint, and complied with the requirements of the Act in every particular. Yet, if nothing further had been done, he would have to find that no dispute existed. In plain words, this means that there is only one way to create a state over which the Federal Arbitration Court can exercise jurisdiction, and that is to strike—a mere compliance with the law. A dispute followed by a demand or a refusal is not enough. At least, that is what I understand Mr. Justice Powers says. There must be something more; there must be a strike. I had always understood that in previous cases the Court had laid down that a strike was not necessary; yet from the latest statement by Mr. Justice Powers, it is very clear that, putting aside material things, there remains only one certain method by which an industrial organisation can be assured of getting its case tried by the Federal Arbitration Court. It must strike—no alternative will suffice. The formulation of a demand and the refusal or ignoring of that demand by the employer is, according to Mr. Justice Powers, not enough.

"Now, to strike is prohibited by statute. It follows, therefore, that in order to create a dispute, which the Federal Court can deal with, it is necessary to break the very law under which that dispute is subsequently to be heard. This is surely a most amazing situation. I hesitate, though with great respect, to accept the position as laid down by Mr. Justice Powers. It would, indeed, be monstrous if men, in order to obtain the settlement of a dispute by peaceful means, should be compelled to resort to industrial war. It would be a continual menace to the industrial peace of the community and the complete negation of principles on which the Arbitration Court rests, and for which it was passed. If Mr. Justice Powers' interpretation of the law is right, and although I hesitate to accept his statement, there is only too much reason to believe it to be amply justified, what a position. Here is a Court, created to prevent as well as to settle industrial disputes—an alternative and a saner method of settling industrial disputes than the barbarous weapon of the strike—and over the portals of this Court of industrial peace is now inscribed 'None who will not strike may enter here.'"

SPORT ABROAD.

BOXING.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

In the 20-round boxing contest between Bandsman Rice and Arthur Pelkey, at Premierland, Rice easily outpointed the Canadian heavyweight. The fight went the full 20 rounds.

BILLIARDS.

GRAY VERSUS REECE.

In the billiard match of 18,000 up between Gray and Reece, the scores now stand:—

Gray, 1237.
Reece, 1120.

THE HIGH COMMISSIONER.

AUDIENCE WITH THE KING.

LONDON, Oct. 26.

The High Commissioner for Australia, Sir George Reid, attended the meeting of the Privy Council to-day. He afterwards had an audience with the King.

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

WHEAT.

LONDON, Oct. 27.

Wheat remains steady. The market is quiet, with more offering.

WOOL PRICES.

At Bradford the wool market is buoyant, with prices against the buyer. Business is meagre, owing to the scarcity of stocks.

TRADES AND LABOUR.

DEMARCATION CONFERENCE.

The conference which has been sitting daily for the past six weeks to settle the demarcation of work of the Amalgamated Engineers, Boilermakers, and Labourers' Societies, mainly in consideration of the recent trouble at Cockatoo Dock, has arrived at a decision in each of the 742 claims heard. Mr. E. J. Kavanagh, the chairman and secretary, will now bring the findings of the conference before the demarcation board, of which Mr. G. S. Beeby is chairman, with a view to having them made law.

FEDERAL PARLIAMENT.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Both the Senate and the House of Representatives will meet to-morrow.

In the House of Representatives further attention will be given to the Crimes Bill, and if there is time during the sitting the Bankruptcy Bill will be taken in committee.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Fisher, said today that the Attorney-General, Mr. Hughes, was busy with a number of bills, and in all probability the bill to amend the Commonwealth Bank Act would be proceeded with.

LATE MRS. J. L. STEEL.

Probate has been granted of the will of the late Mrs. Janet Laurie Steel, widow, of Killara, who died on September 24 last. Testatrix bequeathed £50 to the treasurer of the Presbyterian Church extension fund, and the whole of her real and the residue of her personal estate to her trustees in trust for her children. The net value of the estate was sworn at £15,943 5s 10d, of which £9300 represented realty.

DEFAULTING GERMAN RATEPAYER.

At last night's meeting of the Balmain Council, the town clerk (Mr. J. Goodsir) stated that of the £170 outstanding for rates the sum of £80 was owing by a German, in respect of vacant land in the municipality, valued at about £5000. The man was said to be in Germany, presumably fighting against England and her allies.

It was resolved,—"That the facts be communicated to the council's solicitors, with a view to action being taken in the ordinary way to recover the rates."

BALMAIN HOSPITAL.

Referring to the treasurer's statement at the last monthly meeting of the Balmain and District Hospital, the president (Mr. D. H. Easton) said the financial position was very serious. With a bank overdraft of £352 1s 8d, and accounts amounting to £317 due for the previous month, the committee was faced with an immediate deficiency of nearly £700. It was unlikely they would receive any more money this year except comparatively small amounts. The total assets were £1275, but £1000 of that would not be touched, as the sum in question had been bequeathed to the institution for a specific purpose—viz., to endow a bed for the poor people of Balmain.

After discussion, the president said he would ask the member for the district (Mr. Storey) to arrange for a deputation to the Minister for Public Health.

CANVAS TOWN.

Reference was made at the meeting of the health committee of the City Council on Monday to the Government's scheme for the erection of canvas houses near Daceyville. Alderman Lawrence moved that the committee strongly protest against the Government putting up these places, unless proper sanitary arrangements be provided, the danger of an epidemic being too great. After discussion, the town clerk was deputed to make representations on the matter to the authorities.

"SCRAPS OF PAPER."

MUST BE RESPECTED.

The New York "World," commenting editorially on the light manner in which "scraps of paper" are treated by Germany, says:—

"That 'scrap of paper' was the treaty guaranteeing the neutrality of Belgium. The whole history of human liberty is written on just such scraps of paper.

"The Magna Charta was a 'scrap of paper.'

"The Bill of Rights was a 'scrap of paper.'

"The Declaration of Independence was a 'scrap of paper.'

"The Constitution of the United States is a 'scrap of paper.'

"The emancipation proclamation was a 'scrap of paper.'

"For a hundred years a 'scrap of paper' has maintained an unbroken peace between the United States and the British possessions of Canada along an unfortified frontier of 3000 miles.

"The Hay-Pauncefote Treaty was a 'scrap of paper,' and one of the most brilliant moral victories won by President Wilson is the Act of Congress, which voluntarily repealed a violation of the terms of that 'scrap of paper.'

"Respect for these 'scraps of paper' measures a nation's honour, no less than its freedom.

"Democracy itself is only a 'scrap of paper,' but it loses forces that no autocrat can stay. The German army is the most wonderful military machine ever constructed by the hand and brain of man, but in the final reckoning of history a 'scrap of paper' will prove more powerful than all the Kaiser's legions."

GERMANY'S FEARS.

RUSSIA'S GROWING STRENGTH.

AUSTRALIAN OFFICER'S IMPRESSIONS.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

"It was never anticipated in official circles in Germany that England would be drawn into the war with Germany, but everywhere it was felt that war with Russia was at some time inevitable."

The foregoing remarks were made by Lieutenant-Colonel Ramaciotti, an Australian officer who has been touring Europe, and is now on his way to Sydney to take command of the 11th Infantry Brigade, Australian forces.

"When I was in Germany, about a year ago," he added, "I was everywhere received with courtesy, and on occasions I could not help saying to an official with whom I came in contact that my visit had proved a very agreeable surprise. Why should it be otherwise?" asked the official. 'There are so many ties between England and Germany that we cannot be other than friends. A war with England would be calamitous, and we have never counted upon it. We are not afraid of France, for two reasons. One is that the old spirit of revanche has almost died out, and the other is that we are too strong for her; but there is a danger to Germany which people on the other side of the Channel do not appreciate, and that danger is Russia. Russia is at our back-door. She has limitless men, and behind them inexplicable supplies. She is getting stronger every day, and her internal dissension may one day disappear in a wave of national enthusiasm. If Germany is ever crushed, it will be by Russia, and we know it.'

"Views expressed by my informant were similar to those of other officials with whom I discussed the matter, and in view of recent events they make interesting reading.

Colonel Ramaciotti attended both the Italian and French army manoeuvres, and when asked his views as to the attitude Italy will ultimately take up, he said that he did not anticipate for one moment that she would intervene except as a friend of the Allies.

"Italy, as you know, carried through the Tripolitan War without outside financial assistance. That was a popular war, which gave the country a new possession, worth its cost diplomatically, as well as commercially. The cost of the war, however, had to be faced, and as a result additional taxes were decided upon. These taxes were necessary. They led to serious disturbances as recently as last June. Thus, while popular feeling in Italy is decidedly in favour of abandoning neutrality, the Government is very properly counting the cost. Whether popular feeling will prevail in the end time will show. Meanwhile, Italian neutrality has enabled France almost to denude the Italo-French frontier of troops, and has released some 120,000 men at the very least for service in the field. This service rendered by Italy cannot be too fully recognised.

"As to Italy taking the field against us with other members of the Triple Alliance, racial prejudices will not, in my opinion, permit it. Italians have not forgotten the Austrian domination of 1848."

EPPING ROSE SHOW.

The ninth annual Epping Rose Show was opened by Mr. Wm. Thompson, M.L.A., on Saturday afternoon. There was a large gathering, and the show of roses was particularly fine. Other sections were also well represented.

At the conclusion the exhibits were sold, the proceeds being devoted to the Red Cross Fund.

WOOL SALES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The wool sales were continued to-day. 4200 bales were submitted. The bulk of the offers was again comprised of crossbreds or Northern Victorian and Riverina growths. Merinos, as was the case yesterday, were in comparatively short supply. The highly satisfactory position, as was then disclosed with regard to crossbred fleece of all qualities, and the better class of merinos, must again be reported, and prices for such descriptions were fully maintained. An improvement in the demand and prices paid for crossbred skirtings was also noted, but the low level established for the more faulty and inferior descriptions of all qualities in general showed no improvement. A satisfactory feature of the sale, and one conspicuous by its absence yesterday, was the Japanese demand, which resulted in many lots being secured for this account.

In the list of those present at the funeral of Judge Gibson on Monday, the name of Mr. A. G. Ralston, K.C., should have been included. Mr. C. W. Lloyd desires it to be stated that he did not attend in the capacity of representative of the Australian Club.

Messrs. S. J. Doudman, E. W. Burbury, G. W. Hall, and A. H. Collis have been appointed justices of the peace.

An interesting lecture on the life of Robert Burns was delivered at St. Stephen's Church, Phillip-street, last night by the Rev. J. R. Sabiston, M.A., B.D. The speaker referred to the poet's connection with freemasonry, which craft he joined at the age of 22.

NEWCASTLE.

WORK AT THE PITS.

NEWCASTLE, Tuesday.

The past fortnight has been the slackest for many months. Only 16 collieries worked the full time of 11 days, five others had from half a day to three days each, 12 had from four to nine days each, and the remaining eight were idle for the whole fortnight.

COPRA TRADE.

Passengers by the Mindini, which arrived from the islands on Saturday, state that work on the plantations in the Solomons is at a standstill, because there is now so little demand for copra, on account of the war.

FINANCIAL.

A CONCRETE PROPOSAL.

STIMULATING THE WOOL TRADE.

Much has been said about capturing German trade, about keeping the wheels of industry moving; about giving employment within the Empire in war time; about facilitating finance; about encouraging producers to carry on their ordinary occupations in the ordinary way. An opportunity now presents itself for doing all these things, and consolidating the Empire in the process. If the Imperial Government could see its way, and it might be urged to that end by the Prime Minister of the Commonwealth, to give some financial assistance to those conducting the textile industry at Bradford much good might result. It is understood that Bradford has been badly hit through its having given extended credit to German buyers. If Bradford could be financed it could buy much more freely than is the case in its present semi-crippled position. A little well-directed assistance would enable the mills to be kept going during the whole 24 hours, and the amount of money that would be involved would be small compared with the big things that the Imperial Government has in hand. The whole of the 2,500,000 bales which Australia and New Zealand produced last year were valued at about £32,000,000 sterling, a sum of magnitude to us, but of much less magnitude when contrasted with the big things the Empire has in hand.

MELBOURNE WOOL SALES.

The news of the satisfactory character of the wool sale in Melbourne was read with not a little congratulation locally. Crossbreds were 15 per cent. to 20 per cent. up, while merinos were about 5 per cent. below the opening rates of last year. Faulty and burry lots were not sought after.

THE SEPTEMBER EXPORTS.

Yesterday we gave particulars of the imports in September and of the decreases therein. An examination of the exports shows decreases on a greater scale. Produce was less than in September of last year by £2,810,777, and gold and specie exports were less by £1,086,063. The latter decrease is in some respects an advantage. The comparison may be made thus:—

EXPORTS, SEPTEMBER.

	1913.	1914.
Gold and specie	1,157,073	71,010
Total	£7,077,897	£3,181,057

In August exports decreased 33 per cent. In September exports decreased 55 per cent. The greater decline in the latter month is almost wholly due to wool, skins, wheat, flour, and metals. Frozen meats show an increase. The decrease in butter is moderate. In the following table, for the sake of an easier comparison, the September, 1914, column is placed immediately after the August, 1914, column:—

	August, 1913. £	August, 1914. £	Sept., 1914. £	Sept., 1913. £

FEDERAL LAND TAX.

CASE OF DOUBLE TAXATION?

"Taxpayer" writes:—

Sir,—I would esteem it a favour if you will kindly inform me, through the medium of your esteemed paper, whether this is a case of double taxation or not:—

On June 30, 1912, I owned land upon which I had to pay Federal Land Tax, amounting to £3. By June 30, 1913, I had acquired 80 per cent. of the shares in an industrial trading company, owning land within the Commonwealth, and upon which land the company paid Federal land tax. The fact of my holding the abovementioned shares has, after a number of additions and deductions made at the Federal Land Tax Office, resulted in my assessment being increased to £37. The company has still to pay their full tax, and mine has been increased by £34.

The authorities maintain that they wish to avoid double taxation, but if by any stretch of imagination I can be convinced that I am not paying an extra £34 upon land which has already paid tax, I shall be only too pleased to hear of it.

On the facts given it certainly would appear to be a case of double taxation.

ILLAWARRA STEAM.

The half-yearly report of the Illawarra and South Coast Steam Navigation Company, Limited, covers the six months ended September 30. It shows a net profit for the period of £2636, which, with £170 brought forward, made £2800 available. The directors recommend a dividend at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, absorbing £2625, leaving £175 to be carried forward. The following comparison may be made:—

	Half-year ended Sept. 30, 1912.	1913.	1914.
Profit and Loss—
Net profit	£2,978	£2,606	£2,630

The meeting of shareholders was held yesterday, Mr. C. T. Metcalfe being in the chair. The report and balance-sheet was duly adopted. The chairman reported that the dividend would be payable after the meeting.

PERMEWAN, WRIGHT, AND CO., LTD.

The half-yearly meeting of the shareholders of the above company took place yesterday afternoon, Colonel Greenfield in the chair, and the board's recommendation that an interim dividend for the half-year at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum be paid was adopted. The dividend will be payable on Friday.

TORPEDO SUBMARINE SHIP CLEANER COMPANY.

The report of the Torpedo Submarine Shipcleaner Company for the period ended September 30 states that various schemes for the flotation of the company have been considered, and satisfactory progress was made by a flotation syndicate to undertake the underwriting of the company, but the declaration of war had for the time being checked any further progress in this direction. A machine has been sold to the Admiralty, and there is a prospect of selling it to others. The profit and loss account shows that the expenses from July 22, 1913, to September 30 (London to July 31), 1914, amounted to £2653, and that there is a balance carried forward of £2676.

ROYAL BANK OF QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Tuesday.

The 58th annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Royal Bank of Queensland was held to-day.

It was stated that the net profit for the half-year showed a small advance, and with the amount brought forward there was available a balance of £18,600. A dividend at the rate of 5½ per cent. per annum, absorbing £14,463, was recommended, and subsequently declared payable.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Tiy Sang and Co., Ltd., has been registered with a capital of £2700 in £1 shares. The object is to take over the business carried on at Sydney as Tiy Sang and Co., general merchants, etc.

Barnes and others at Murrumburrah and Harden, under style of T. and G. Barnes, general merchants, etc. The first directors are Messrs. G. R. Barnes, A. E. Barnes, and R. H. Barnes. The registered office is at Murrumburrah.

Mr. Fredk. W. Hall, M.D., and M.S., London, has joined the board of directors of the Insurance Office of Australia, Limited.

WAR PROBLEMS.

GERMAN STEAMERS SHELTERING.

The president of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce is convening a meeting of consignees having cargo on board German steamers which are sheltering in Java and adjacent ports, to be held at 11.30 this day (Wednesday). The sub-committee which was appointed by consignees to report as to the best means of obtaining this cargo will make a full statement as to the final position.

As a result of a conference between representatives of the Marine Insurance Companies effected, and the Roon and Stolberg sub-committee, a communication has been received from the insurance companies covering the following resolutions:—"That underwriters and assured should act together without prejudice to obtain recovery of goods, leaving liability for charges to be settled when goods are delivered. Also that it be a strong recommendation that guarantees only without prejudice be given for general average, and that cash payments be avoided."

BUSINESS FOR FRANCE.

M. A. Chayet, Consul-General for France, writes:—

Sir,—Owing to the war, there are, no doubt, many persons and firms in Australia desirous of purchasing elsewhere articles which were previously supplied by Germany and Austria-Hungary.

I should, therefore, be very much obliged if you would kindly let your readers know that they may consult either at the French Consulate-General or at the French Chamber of Commerce, 2 Bond-street, Sydney, a very complete directory giving the names and addresses of French manufacturers and commercial houses. The fullest available information will also be given to those interested.

CABLE CODES AND THE CENSOR.

Mr. George A. Brackenreg writes:—

Sir,—The allowance of the use of certain codes between Great Britain and her dependencies, as also between "neutrals," is certainly a move in the right direction; but does this go far enough?

The suggestion of enabling one to use particular private code words, such as, for instance, repeat orders for shipments, or any portion of a shipment, should be allowed right away, provided, of course, that proof of bona fides be given by well-known persons of business standing and good repute.

The advantage of this concession would be obvious.

THE BUDGET.

PROPOSED NOTE ISSUE.

E. McC. writes:—

Sir,—Mr. Peeby's very interesting letter, published in your this week, is deserving of our best attention. In my opinion, Mr. Holman is too sanguine in framing his Budget for the coming year. A number of business men very much doubt if his revenue will anything like approach his estimates. Then again are we helping England very much just now by asking her for big loans? Is she not likely to have to finance pretty heavily herself? Is it magnanimous to offer England troops, etc., and accompany the offer with the statement that we will bear all the cost of these offerings, and then immediately find we cannot get the money to back our good intentions except by asking England, herself hard pushed, to lend us the necessary cash to carry out our promises? It is up to us to do something more substantial to help England, for by so doing we are more than helping the motherland; we are doing something to help save ourselves. We will be asking enough of England when we ask her to renew our expiring loans without just now pushing her to make fresh advances.

Now, it is admitted by all that our railway duplication works are our first necessity. It is also admitted that we must borrow to carry them out. Then why not borrow per medium of a special note issue? These notes to be issued only to pay for railway works; but once issued to become legal tender, so that the banks could re-issue them as currency or hold them as part of their reserves. By such a scheme we would save interest sufficient to create a sinking fund to redeem this issue in 20 years, starting redemption, say, 12 months after termination of the war. We could also get labour at reasonable rates, and make a further saving thereby, at the same time finding employment for most of the able-bodied men out of work. Such a scheme would not flood the country all at once with an unwieldy note issue; it would only be put out by degrees in payment of wages, and before being all out it is quite probable the redemption of the notes would have begun.

I say again, that having to borrow the money for such works, it is not only legitimate to borrow it in such a manner, it is highly advantageous to the community to do so. We will not owe any more to anyone by doing this, but we save interest, and we find employment when it is badly needed.

An expanded note issue should only be indulged in as the last resort.

INTERSTATE EXCHANGES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

Sales on 'Change to-day were:—Goldsbrough, Mort, 31/6; Howard Smith, 78/; Broken Hill Globe Timber, 15/; Henry Jones Co-operative, 23/9; New Northcote Brick, 5/; Swallow and Ariel, 19/; Nat. Bank, pref., £12/9/.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

Business was being done in groceries for the first of the month, and orders generally showed a good distributing trade. But market business was at a low ebb. Everything was firmly held on account of shipments, or, rather, the time of their arrival, being uncertain. The salmon which arrived by the Ventura had a great part of it passed out of the distributors' hands. In this and in other lines the storekeepers were stocking up freely, perhaps too freely from the point of view of the merchant who had to finance them, the reason actuating storekeepers being the fear of tariff changes, and of consequent increase of duties. Herrings and sardines were selling well, with no alteration in quotations. Tinned fruits were moving out freely, it being between seasons as far as the fresh fruit was concerned. A satisfactory trade was being done in dried fruits. Storekeepers were stocking up early for Christmas requirements. They recognised that with the large exports to New Zealand, on account of European shipments being curtailed, there was a chance of an increase of rates. Safety matches were in short supply, and attempts to buy a parcel failed. For any good lines not less than 3/ per gross was asked.

Cables from the East indicated an easy market for tapioca, prices being the lowest for fully six years. Desiccated coconut was also weak, cables from Colombo quoting £23/15/ per ton, equal to 3¼d per lb c.i.f. and e. The cause of the lowness of the commodity is probably that affecting copra, the coarse produce of the same kind, want of freight, and lessened demand from the consuming countries.

Sales of Kent hops, new season's, were made at 1/5 to 1/6 per lb in bond.

A better inquiry was manifested from the country for fencing material. Wire netting had more numerous sales, and importers advanced their prices to the same level as the locally manufactured article. Wires were firm, full rates being obtained. For small lots of No. 8 £9/10/ was asked, and for No. 10 £9/12/6. The American price had eased slightly, No. 8 being quoted at £9/3/ per ton c.i.f. and e. Landing charges run into 12/, without allowing any profit, so that here we have £9/15/ before the importer can see his money back, let alone remuneration for his work of importing.

The oil market showed no change. Linseed was better held, and all houses were asking 4/ and 4/2 for ordinary distributing lots. Whitelead in parcel lots was quoted at £44 per ton for Champion's, and distributing 45/ per cwt. Turpentine, Pinetree, was worth 3/5 per gallon. Eastern oils were steady at late rates.

There was again no change in jute values.

Tartaric acid and cream of tartar were by no means so strong, word having been received that there were moderate shipments on the steamer Messicano, from Genoa, October 20, the first direct vessel from Italy to Australia. The Messicano also had on board shipments of olive oil worth from 12/ to 13/ a gallon in parcel lots, Sydney.

CALCUTTA JUTE SHIPPERS' APPEAL.

The president of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce has convened a meeting of jute importers for to-day at 12 noon. Consideration will be given to a communication which has been received from the Minister for Trade and Customs, forwarding copy of a cablegram from the Viceroy of India, in regard to contracts for the supply of jute for Australia.

OIL IN PAPUA.

EXCELLENT PROSPECTS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

The Assistant Minister for External Affairs, Mr. Mahon, stated to-day that he had had a very interesting interview with Dr. Wade, the English oil expert, who visited Papua in order to examine and report upon the oil deposits. The oil area extends over a very long coastline and inland about 20 miles, the entire area, in Dr. Wade's opinion, showing indications of very extensive oil deposits. Dr. Wade says the oil should not be conveyed by pipes to the coast, but refineries should be erected close to the deposits. This would entail a considerable outlay, but, as compared with the results that would be obtained, the question of expenditure does not bear much significance.

BREADSTUFFS.

STILL NO WHEAT AVAILABLE.

Yesterday there was again no wheat to be had at the proclaimed price of 4/6 a bushel. Millers stated that while the Act provided that a holder must sell at 4/6 when asked to they were unable to locate a farmer or shipper holding grain from whom to demand supplies. They possessed no machinery for finding out who owned any particular stock of wheat at country stations so they said, and were, therefore, forced to wait in their offices until someone turned up and offered to sell. Their position, according to themselves, was becoming more critical, and unless they secured supplies at an early date some of them would be forced to close their mills. On the other hand, wheat operators asserted that many of the millers possessed large stocks of wheat, and that many of them had made large profits out of the grain they secured from the Government at 4/2. However, one thing is certain; wheat cannot be bought at the proclaimed price of 4/6.

There was a strong demand from Western Australia and South Australia for bran and pollard. Several sales were booked at £6/10/ a ton—an advance of 5/ on the proclaimed price of £6/5/ a ton. The export price is now £6/15/. Flour was available at the proclaimed price of £9/17/6.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 181 tons of wheat and 80 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

The amount of wool manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour yesterday totalled 2535 bales.

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In wheat there were sellers at the official price, 4/9. Flour, bran, and pollard officially were unchanged. Barley was firm, nominal; English 5/6; Cape, quiet, 3/7½ to 3/9. Oats, strong, 3/7 to 3/8; maize, 4/. Chaff, quiet, £5/12/6 to £6/2/6; hay, trusses £6 to £6/10/, sheaves £5/10/ to £6. Straw, scarce on spot; Victoria £2/15/ to £3, Tasmanian oaten £2/17/6 to £3, wheaten £3/2/6 to 3/5/. Potatoes, good inquiry; Carmens £8 to £8/10/, Excelsiors and Snowflakes £7/10/ to £8. Onions, steady; brown Spanish, £10/10/ to £11; Silverskins, firmer, £8/10/ to £9. Butter, 1/5; eggs, /9½ to /10. Jute market, flat and unchanged. Clothes-pegs, strong, 4/3. The first new Alaska salmon to hand was quoted at 8/6 to 9/. New prunes are selling quickly.

ADELAIDE, Tuesday.

Wheat was quiet, growers' lots 4/7, parcels nominally 4/10 to 4/10½ trucks Port Adelaide. Flour, £10/10/ to £11, bakers' lots delivered Adelaide. Bran and pollard, 1/7 to 1/7½, delivered city. Algerian feed oats quiet, but firmly held nominal value 3/6 to 3/8 for old season's English. Chaff, firmer tone, £6/10/ trucks Mile End and northern stations. Cornsacks, dull and neglected, 6/6, spot or season's branbags 5/9. At auction factory butter realised up to 1/2½, dairy up to 1/, stores up to 10½d. Eggs, unchanged, 7½d; cheese, 6½d to 7½d; honey, 3d to 3½d; bacon, 8½d to 9d for sides, middles 10d; hams, 10½d to 1/.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

NEW-LAID EGGS DEARER.

The hot weather has as usual brought with it an improved demand for new-laid eggs, and yesterday agents were able to advance prices almost 1d a dozen. Ordinary brands were quoted at /10, but for choice graded lots up to /10½ was wanted. There was no change in the value of case eggs. Rivers were available at /8, and South Coast and railways at from /8 to /8½ a dozen. Duck eggs brought to /10½.

The reduction in the price of cheese has had little or no effect upon the number of orders coming to hand, and some agents are still "in trouble." On the other hand, others find no difficulty in keeping their floors clear, and, in fact, one or two reported that they were still asking /6½ for their best makes. Reports from Brisbane indicated that prime loaf was worth /6½, and large /6¼ f.o.b.

Poultry was lightly supplied, and prices were well maintained. A marked increase in the arrivals is looked for during the next fortnight.

There was a strong demand for butter at 106/ per cwt., delivered in boxes. Last week Mr. J. B. Craig of Prescott, Ltd., telegraphed to several of the co-operative factories offering 110/ per cwt. Sydney, including boxes, less the usual 3 per cent. selling commission. The replies are now coming to hand, and in almost every instance the offer has been refused. "Money does not appear to enter into the business," said Mr. Craig yesterday. "With many of the butter factory directors co-operation is a religion. They're not at all Scotch. Here is a typical reply received to-day. It is from the Bega Co-operative Creamery Company, and reads:—'I have to inform you that my directors have decided to adhere to the policy of direct export, and that they cannot therefore see their way to avail themselves of your offer.'"

Quotations were:—

DAIRY PRODUCE.

Bacon.—Sides /9¼ to /9½, flitches /8½ to /9, middles /9¼ to /11, shoulders /7 to /7½; special brands, sides /10½, flitches /9½, middles /11½, shoulders /8 per lb.

Butter.—2/ per cwt. to be added for boxes and cartage, New South Wales selected brands, 104/, secondary 78/ to 90/ per cwt.

Suburban Consignments.—Young roosters, 5/6 to 7/6, choice to 8/6; fat hens, 3/6 to 4/, choice to 5/6; ducks, English 3/ to 3/6, choice to 4/6; Muscovy, 4/ to 5/6, choice to 6/9; drakes, Muscovy, 7/ to 9/, choice to 11/6; turkeys, hen, good to 12/6, cock, good to 21/6, choice to 24/; pigeons, to 1/3 a pair.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

TRADE QUIET.

The forage and grain section of the Sussex-street markets was exceedingly quiet, and there was no change of any note in values.

FORAGE.

Chaff.—Tasmanian: Oaten, £6/10/ to £7 a ton.

Derrick Straw.—Tasmanian: Wheaten, £3/7/6; oaten, £3/2/6 to £3/5/ a ton.

VEGETABLES.

Potatoes.—Tasmanian: Redskins, Plunketts, and Brownells, £7; Up-to-dates, £6 to £6/5/; Clarence River, £7 a ton.

Onions.—Victorian: Brown Spanish, £11; Silverskins, £11 to £12.

RAILWAY MARKET.

At the railway forage and grain sales yesterday the market for chaff was slightly firmer than was the case on the previous day, consequently higher prices were realised.

Wheaten chaff was present in fair quantity and brought from 5/ to 6/9, whilst oaten, which was not so well represented, was sold at prices ranging from 4/6 to 6/9. Lucerne commanded 5/5 per cwt.

Several consignments of lucerne hay, principally from Mudgee and West Maitland, were offered, and found buyers at figures from 3/1 to 5/6.

The potato sales were inclined to be dull. Few buyers were in attendance, and auctioneers had difficulty in getting reasonable prices, 3/10 being the highest price paid at auction. Two truckloads, however, from Tarana and Piper's Flat, realised 4/6 per cwt privately.

Consignments placed in position for sale:—Hay, straw, chaff, 79; grain, 6; potatoes, 22.

Produce manifested to arrive:—Hay, straw, chaff, 90; grain, 23; potatoes, 18.

Mulberries.—4/ to 6/ a dozen punnets.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In Queen Victoria Market to-day apples sold at 3/ to 9/ a case; almonds and walnuts, /10 to 1/ lb; oranges, 10/ to 16/ a case; lemons, 8/ to 15/ a case.

PIG SALES.

At the City Yards yesterday 1060 pigs were offered at auction. Competition for porkers was active, and values were firmer than on Friday last, whilst backfatters and baconers were unaltered.

Quotations were:—

Best backfatters £5/15/, good £4/10/ to £5/10/, medium £3/10/ to £4/10/, light from 55/.

Best baconers £4/17/, good 70/ to 82/, medium 60/ to 70/, light from 55/.

Best porkers 56/, good 40/ to 50/, medium 30/ to 40/, light from 20/.

STOCK TRUCKINGS.

The following stock trucks have been ordered for the forthcoming sale:—November 2, 416 sheep and 365 cattle waggons.

PRODUCE INWARD.

LAUNCESTON, Tuesday.

The Wakatipu left for Sydney to-day with 3242 bags of oats, 44 bags peas, 11 bags oatmeal, 5 bags rolled oats, 30 bags potatoes, 383 bags of chaff, 611 bales of straw, 13 bales of wool, 46 cases of apples, and 528 bundles of willows.

MINING.

BUSINESS AT A STANDSTILL.

The absolute stagnation of the market is shown by the fact that only one transaction was booked yesterday morning. But this was no guide to the general tone of the market. That was evidenced by the quotations. They were of a steady character. Indeed, there was a slightly better feeling shown for certain Barrier stocks, because of the notification by the Comptroller-General of Customs that zinc and lead concentrates, silver lead bullion, blister copper and electrolytic copper may be exported to Canada and the United States of America, provided the same are shipped in British bottoms and the Collector of Customs is satisfied as to the bona fides of the whole transaction. The further announcement that the Zinc Corporation has arranged to resume work at the mine and mill next Sunday night on the alternative week system also had a steadying effect on the market.

There was again a very limited amount of business transacted during the afternoon, but there was a noticeable improvement in the quotations at the last call. Thus, in the copper division, the offers for Hampden-Cloncurry hardened from 15/3 to 15/10, Mount Morgans from 36/ to 36/6, and Mount Lyells from 17/9 to 18/. In the case of Barriers, buyers of Amalgamated Zincs offered 15/6, but sellers were silent. Melbourne reported sales at 16/. The offers for British Broken Hill (old) improved from 18/9 to 19/1½, with sellers demanding 19/6. The best offer for B.H. North was 35/1½, whilst sales were booked in Melbourne at 35/3 and 35/6. B.H. Proprietary were again in request at 29/, cum dividend, with sellers dumb; whilst B.H. Junction North were also a fraction harder. Offers of £5/11/ were made for B.H. Souths (paid), but holders would not come below £5/13/. Buyers did not come to close quarters in the case of Sulphide Corporation (ord.). Zinc Corporation (ord.) was a shade in better request.

In the case of gold stocks, Great Boulders were in demand at a solid figure, possibly on the strength of Adelaide speculation. In the tin division, Tongkah Harbour Tin Dredging were in good favour at 21/6, but sellers were undeclared, whilst Tongkah Compound were unobtainable at a slightly improved rate, possibly on a cabled report from the mine that the past fortnight's output was 17 tons of tin oxide—the same as that of the preceding fortnight.

MINING NOTES.

The Duke and Main Leads Consols (Victoria) has declared a dividend of 6d per share, payable on November 10.

The following gold dredging yields have been reported for the past fortnight:—Tewksbury Proprietary Araluen, 138oz; and Victorian Araluen Dredging Co., 90oz.

MINING IN THE STATE.

PORT MACQUARIE, Tuesday.

Considerable excitement exists in consequence of the Gundle tin mine leases being forfeited by the Government. Mr. Rankin, accompanied by Mr. Shepherd, took possession, and is applying for a 140 acres lease on behalf of the Eggars Company, London.

BATHURST, Tuesday.

A report received to-day from Hill End states that the mill at the Hawkins' Hill mine has been running all the week with one shift. During the last fortnight 75oz were returned from 80 tons of ore.

The shoot of gold being worked on the mica vein in the Amalgamated Hill End, is passing the old Star of Peace shaft to Fisher's and Beard's Blow. The cross course in the latter was formerly worked to a depth of 500ft with rich returns. The tributers, working it for three years, paid to the owners £20,000 in tribute money. The present company has now 170ft to go to reach the cross-course, which will be intersected 420ft from the surface. The crushing from the consolidated tunnel is expected to return wages.

BARRIER MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

At the B.H. South mine last week, in the north west crosscut at the 1070ft level (section D4), stoping operations were started upon a small showing of ore, but were suspended as the ore cut out. The north drive (1270ft level) was taken to 350ft, and the south drive (1470ft level) was carried to 25ft. The despatches for the fortnight totalled 1190 tons of concentrates.

VULCAN TIN MINE.

For the four weeks ended October 12 the manager reports as follows:—

Owing to the disorganised conditions due to war troubles we continue to work with only about 12 men.

350ft Stope.—Payable ore is still being broken from here, but during the last week the quality has not been so good. Have started to rise vertically on payable ore, about 2ft in width, and are now up to about the level of the 400ft drive.

1220ft Level.—From off the main south-east drive a crosscut, going south-westerly, has been put in a total distance of 32ft 6in, passing through a chlorite lode for 12ft in width, but very poor in tin value. At this point (32ft 6in) rock came in, and have discontinued this face for the present, and started driving on the lode formation, the drive is now in 15ft, but only a few holes showed tin. The cut now being bored out shows a little better tin in two holes. If this improves the face will be pushed on, and if not a drive north will be gone on with in order to prove the end of the lode referred to above.

As firewood supplies are getting depleted it is intended to start the team carting in further supplies this week.

The Irvinebank Company's battery is still hung up, and in consequence no ore has been treated during the month.

UMEARI GOLD, LIMITED.

A communication from the dredgemaster dated September 14, just received, advises that good progress was made up the river to the beginning of September, since when the mean tides had hindered progress somewhat, but that everything was ready to make another good move on the next spring tide. After this, progress will presumably be made without regard to tides. The natives are now beginning to track to and from Infanta, which will be advantageous in many ways. He reports all hands are keeping in good health.

OCCIDENTAL GOLD MINE.

The following extracts are made from the report of work done at the above mine for the fortnight ended October 14:—

Ore raised for 11 working days, 1184.4 mine tons, average value, 10dwt 11gr gold.

Stoping, etc.—110ft level: South gossan stope being cleaned down to be timbered up and mullocked. Stope above the old intermediate: Started breaking ore, 24ft level (south gossan stope): Very nice face, about 6ft wide; ore of over average value. 440ft level, No. 3 lode, stope "Albert's": Breaking fair ore in small parcels. So far, ore is clean for cyanide work, but face has to be carefully watched. 540ft level: No. 1 lode, south drive stope, "Brookes," continued disappointing in average pulling, and has been stopped. No. 2 lode, stope, "Bargwanna's": Breaking ore of fair average value from face, about 2ft wide. N.E. lode stope 1, "Rimmer's": Breaking ore from face 4ft wide. 660ft level: No. 1 lode, north drive stope, "Turner's": Face about 1ft wide; ore rather low grade. No. 3 lode, stope, "Mitchell's": South end face continues to assay very well, and shows promise of further improvement in quantity and quality compared with stope over it in 5 level. North end stope being squared down and cleaned up ready for timbering and mullock.

A large amount of development work was done.

Battery ran full time except Eight-hour Day. Stoppages and delays have been caused by choking and corrosion of pipes, etc. New supply pipes being put to concentrators. Concentrates produced for fortnight 13 tons, estimated to contain 102oz gold. Cyanide works treated 1170 tons, containing 540oz gold. Recovered 473oz gold.

VEGETABLE CREEK TIN MINE.

Report for the week ended October 22:—

Skinner Shaft.—South-west crosscut advanced 21ft in soft bottom, a rise was put up here, 50ft from the shaft, a distance of 15ft in soft bottom; the channel is evidently not in this direction, therefore an intermediate level is being driven in a westerly direction, at the junction of the pipeclay and slate bottom, advanced 4ft from the shaft.

Strathbogie Shaft.—Sunk 3ft, to 175ft, in hard basalt, and timbered to 172ft. A change is apparent in the bottom, pipeclay and sediments coming in.

Allen and Chandler Shafts.—Keeping unwatered.

CARE OF BABIES.

NEW SYSTEM PROPOSED.

The Minister for Public Health announced yesterday that he hoped shortly to be in a position to extend largely the system of baby clinics.

"Arrangements have been made," said Mr. Flowers, "by the Baby Clinics Board to take over the Alice Rawson School for Mothers at Newtown, equip it, and run it as a clinic.

"I have also been asked to take over at a later date the original Alice Rawson School for Mothers at Bourke-street. This very excellent little establishment is failing through want of funds. The necessary arrangements will be made in respect of it also, but the name 'Alice Rawson School' will be perpetuated.

"The Alexandria Clinic, which has now been in existence three months, is doing excellent work. Through it recently we were able to trace the source of a septicemic affection which had been carried to a number of mothers. The vigilance of the clinic also enabled us to save a baby from total blindness.

"To render cases of the first kind impossible," said the Minister, "I intend to give immediate consideration to the introduction of a Nurses' Registration Bill. The second class of case will be met by the introduction of a Notification of Births Bill. By means of this notification bill clinic nurses would be able to get on to cases quickly.

BOER WAR ECHO.

In a paragraph yesterday referring to "a fighting family" it was stated that the result of the judgment in the Privy Council appeal, Williams v Howarth, was that certain soldiers, who had served in South Africa, received both Imperial pay and that promised by the New South Wales Government. As a matter of fact, the Privy Council decided that the men were only entitled to draw the larger pay, that given by the State Government, but subsequently inquiry was held by Commission, and the State Government, gave the two pays only in cases where it was ascertained on evidence that soldiers had left under the impression that they would receive both.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

In the live stock market 46,750 fat sheep were penned for the two days. The bulk were only useful mutton. The yarding included a very large proportion of ewes of inferior to useful grades. At the opening to-day the market was very irregular. As sales progressed the demand became more active, and prices for all prime sorts were very firm at fully equal to the quotations of this day week. Occasional pens showed an upward tendency, and sales closed firm for all good mutton. Interior sheep were in irregular demand throughout at generally lower values.

Quotations:—Prime crossbred wethers 14/0 to 18/3, extra to 19/3, a few to 21/7; good crossbred wethers 12/ to 14/, seconds 9/9 to 11/6, inferior to 8/6; crossbred wethers in the wool, from 12/ to 17/6; prime cross-bred ewes 13/3 to 15/9, extra to 17/6, odd sheep to 19/3; good ditto ditto 10/ to 12/6, inferior to 8/6, crossbred ewes in the wool 11/ to 17/9, a few pens to 20/7; prime merino wethers 10/6 to 14/, extra 16/3 to 19/6; good merino wethers, 8/3 to 9/6, inferior to 7/; merino wethers in the wool from 6/9 to 17/1; merino ewes from 5/9 to 10/, inferior 1/ to 4/; merino ewes in wool from 8/ to 10/, low-conditioned sorts from 3/3. Fat lambs: 47,700 were penned for the two days, including a rather better proportion of useful to prime sorts. Sales opened with a brisk demand at fully equal to last Tuesday's rates for prime. The recent decline in values was recovered, and as sales progressed the demand strengthened, prices showing an advance of from /6 to 1/ per head for all pens of prime. The market closed firm. Inferior sorts were inactive throughout at easier rates. Quotations:—Prime 12/6 to 15/, extra to 18/, good 9/ to 11/6, seconds 6/ to 8/6, small and inferior from 1/6.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The two high pressures have not altered much since Monday. The one over the Tasman Sea is still centred between Brisbane and Norfolk Island; the other is over the western half of the straits. Between these two "highs" is a "cool," which covers the greater part of New South Wales. This should result in some scattered thunderstorms over our State.

Still more important is the extensive monsoonal depression over the western half of the continent. This extends from the western districts of Queensland to Western Australia, and includes a closed curve depression in the south-west corner of the western State. There is evidence of another high pressure to the west of Geraldton, and of an Antarctic disturbance well to the south of the Leeuwin.

Ocean Forecast.—Strong southerly on New South Wales coast south from the Hunter River; squally easterly in the western bight.

SOME REASONS WHY

ROSEBERY MODEL SUBURB

ROSEBERY MODEL SUBURB

IS FAST BECOMING SUCH A POWERFUL FACTOR IN THE SUBURBAN DEVELOPMENT OF THIS STATE:—

(1) Rosebery is a Suburb developed entirely upon modern Town-Planning methods.

(2) The situation of Rosebery affords the singular advantage of wide, open, and healthy surroundings, close to the City.

(3) Rosebery is within 25 minutes by tram to the city by the main tram route, or via Kensington, and is 15 minutes from the Central Railway. The present satisfactory train system shall soon be rendered more complete by the extension of the present Zetland tram, and by the construction of the proposed city and suburban electric railway.

(4) The wide, well-formed roads of Rosebery artistically set off with tree-lined borders add greatly to the modern aspect of the Suburb.

(5) ROSEBERY COTTAGE HOMES are perfection in architectural design. Built of brick, each cottage is individually treated, and all the latest improvements have been employed to make each one attractive and "home-like"; whilst the interior furnishings comprise all the conveniences of present day requirements.

THESE HOMES RANGE FROM £685.

(6) The matter of easy terms, such as are offered at Rosebery, attracts the immediate attention of a home-seeker.

A SMALL DEPOSIT OF £25

is all that is required to obtain possession of a Rosebery home, the balance in reduce by easy weekly repayments.

(7) Those not wishing to buy a Cottage at present have the advantage of securing a Building Allotment at £3/10/ per foot on a very low deposit of £5, balance in monthly payments.

Aided by such advantages as these we have mentioned, it is small wonder that this new Suburb is gaining such general popularity, and that "The Rosebery Proposition" constitutes one of the finest forms of secure investment that the homeseeker can combine with his home.

HOUSE RENTS.

RENTING A HOUSE means paying 100 per cent. interest, because nothing is credited to the Tenant.

FOR PURCHASERS OF OUR COTTAGES, we are often able to arrange satisfactory terms if the inquirer has suburban land and a little money.

THE COTTAGES WE BUILD are not excelled; for only first-class materials are used, and we have been so many years engaged in this work that we have had unequalled advantages in selecting only highest skilled labour.

THE FACT WE QUOTE PRICES in our Catalogue is a challenge to supply similar sizes and qualities of timber and the standard of skill employed at the prices we offer.

CATALOGUE FREE on receipt of address.

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

LET YOUR RENTAL BUY YOUR HOME AT HABERFIELD, "SYDNEY'S GARDEN SUBURB."

Every element which can impart an air of HOME has been ingeniously embodied in the planning of Haberfield. The dweller in this fine suburb feels that he turns his homeward steps towards a healthy, attractive, and desirable place. He leaves the congestion and the oppressive, dust-laden atmosphere of the city to enter his home district, where health and purity of air and house are of paramount importance. The streets are wide and lined with shade trees, large open spaces, and the gardens surrounding the homes add greatly to the beauty of the suburb.

Do you wish to live under the most congenial conditions? Do you wish to save money? Do you wish to live in your own home—absolutely master of it—rent free, happy? Do you wish to avoid the unpleasant feeling that after twenty years of rent paying you own nothing more than rent receipts?

It is almost unnecessary to put these questions to oneself; still, put them to yourself, and you must sensibly answer to your own advantage, and the advantage is OWN YOUR HOME AT HABERFIELD.

Modern, artistic Cottages are available for purchase from £695 to £1400. Every Cottage is attractive, modern, and distinctive in exterior design, and each interior is embellished with appropriate regard to the general scheme.

A small deposit of, say, £50 puts you in immediate possession and occupation of a Haberfield cottage. The balance of the purchase money is payable as rental. The interest is only 5 per cent., and the progress is so gradual that the strain of payment is never felt in the least. There are many reasons why you should act immediately to secure a home. Sydney suburban property—especially that convenient to the city—is steadily and surely increasing in value. Haberfield homes are a grand investment. Their value must materially increase.

Haberfield is convenient, is well served by trains and trams, and possesses tennis courts, bowling greens, parks, swimming baths, and all the necessary institutions of a progressive Garden Suburb.

Our Haberfield Office will be open this afternoon. We invite your inspection of the homes at present available.

STATIONS, FARMS, AND STOCK.

PERFECT FARMS. PERFECT FARMS.

Perhaps no district is so well and favourably known as the home of the successful farmer as the Hunter River Valley. For many years it has supported a great population of sturdy farmers, and its value seems to increase and the land be in greater demand every year.

THE BEST OF LAND. THE BEST OF LAND like this is cannot often be obtained, and it is therefore an unprecedented event for a great Estate like Ferodale, of about 8000 acres, to be made available in suitable Farms for the man desiring to have

A FARM OF HIS OWN. A FARM OF HIS OWN.

The areas range from 10 acres upwards for Orchard and Poultry Farm Blocks, and from 50 acres for Dairy Farms. Some are improved with residence, fencing, clearing, etc., others are in their virgin state. Prices range from £8 to £20 per acre.

SPECIAL WAR TERMS. SPECIAL WAR TERMS provide for only a nominal deposit of from 5 to 10 per cent., and the balance by 109 equal monthly payments, but these do not start until three months after the war is over. The Farmer and Producer is the one of all others who will benefit by the War, as the demand for all produce must continue great and prices high. Therefore no time should be lost in making a start.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT FERODALE ESTATE. HANDY TO NEWCASTLE. WITHIN 4 MILES OF RIVER STEAMER'S WHARF. CHEAP WATER CARRIAGE. HANDY TO FIRST-CLASS BUTTER FACTORY. GOOD ROADS. EXCELLENT RAINFALL, 50 INCHES. GOOD TIMBER ON PARTS OF ESTATE. WELL IMPROVED. LOW PRICES AND EASY TERMS. DELIGHTFUL CLIMATE. FINE SOIL AND PASTURES. THE PLACE FOR SUCCESS. HERE INDUSTRY REAPS ITS REWARD. INSPECTION. INSPECTION.

These lands require to be seen to be thoroughly appreciated, and the Vendors have therefore made arrangements to convey purchasers over the Estate, and for a thoroughly practical man to accompany them, and show what has already been done in the locality, and what is being done at the present time. It is worth seeing. Sydney residents can make a full inspection, and only be away one day.

Plans, etc., on application. HENRY F. HALLORAN AND CO., 82 PITT-STREET, SYDNEY.

LATE SPORTING.

THE TURF.

At a meeting of the appeal board of the N.S.W. Trotting Club, the appeal of F. H. Wood against the stakes being awarded to Esmond Huon at the Richmond Trotting and Racing Club's meeting held on September 28, 1914, was upheld, and the race was awarded to Al Huon. The bets will follow the stakes.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Tuesday.

AMUSEMENTS.

CHANGE FOR MAUD ALLAN SEASON.

This afternoon and evening there will be an important change in the programme at the Theatre Royal, by which Maud Allan will appear in one of her finest impersonations to the music of Chopin's "Funeral March," played by Leo, Jan, and Mischel Cherniavsky. Both in the dancing and musical portion of this classic entertainment variations will be made until the closing performance on Friday night, but in every case the beautifully staged "Vision of Salome" will be retained.

LADY DUDLEY HOSPITAL CONCERT.

At the Southern Cross Hall, on Saturday evening next, a patriotic concert, promoted by the 5th Australian Army Medical Corps, will be given in aid of Lady Dudley's Field Hospital Fund. The programme will be contributed to by Miss Daisy Sweet, Miss Hazel Doyle, Messrs. Malcolm McEachern, George Castles, Bryce Carter, W. J. Grieves, and Henry Thomas. The plan is at Paling's.

CAMPBELL BELGIAN FUND RECITAL.

The central feature in the entertainment given at St. James's Hall last night by the Lawrence Campbell School of Public Speaking and Dramatic Art in aid of the Belgian Fund was the "Quarrel Scene" by Master Jack Radford and little Cecil Haines. These two juvenile actors appeared as Sir Peter and Lady Teazle, the former being but nine years of age, and the latter seven. The miniature Sir Peter, perfectly dressed for the part, was surprisingly natural in the suggestion of fretful age, and he delivered the old beau's reproaches with genuine earnestness. Little Cecil was even more astonishing as a tiny Lady Teazle, quite the woman of fashion in her patches and powdered peruke, and always in character as the cruel coquette who treated a generous husband unkindly. Both children were recalled with enthusiasm more than once, and at last were led on by Mr. Campbell, who had admirably coached them in the business of the scene. Later, the little girl caused fresh amusement and applause by her now well-known impersonation of "Sairey Gamp."

Amongst the many senior students, the intensity of emotion shown by Miss Francie Anderson in reciting Ethel Turner's "Belgium—our Tears" stilled the house. The encore was "Lickin'." Mr. Norman Anschan's cockney dialect and feeling for the humour of Kipling's "Oonts" were vividly in place. Miss Edna Smith will ultimately declaim "The Cruiser" effectively, but at present her method is unvaryingly strained, so that she emphasised the word "and" with the same long-drawn hoarseness which gave appropriate point to the nautical hail "Ahoy." Miss Hazel Richard, Bessie Rogers (who showed a talent for character in "Gabriel Grubb"), Masten, Crackanthorpe, Downing, Molly Carmody, and Messrs. Gibb and Cowie also assisted with acceptance; and the evening closed effectively with a picturesque costume tableau, "Home of Empire," in which the Spirit of Peace presided over the various component parts of the British Empire—"a consummation devoutly to be wished."

BROKEN HILL, Tuesday.

The Bert Bailey Co., which finished its season last night, gave a final performance of "On Our Selection" in aid of the local relief funds. Fifty per cent. was given to the funds, and each of the two received £10 15s 9d.

FIRE AT AUBURN.

About 4.30 p.m. yesterday an unoccupied four-roomed wooden house in Arrow-street, Auburn, the property of Mr. Samuel King, caught fire. Before the fire brigade put out the flames the premises were badly damaged.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

A BAD EXPERIENCE MAY BE AVOIDED BY USING only for Walls, Ceiling, and Roof, HARDIE'S GENUINE FIBRO-CEMENT, British Made.

STRIKING TESTIMONIES OF THE QUALITY OF FIBRO-CEMENT:—

FIBRO-CEMENT is adaptable for most building purposes. At present, it is solving the problem of military accommodation at Aldershot, and our cables advise the Home Government has requisitioned large quantities. In Australia, the Federal Government used the sheets for building the Barracks at Duntroon; while the New South Wales Railways have been using Fibro-Cement Slates during the past 12 years under severe conditions on large sheds, etc. The slates can also be seen on the new Conservatorium of Music and tram waiting rooms on Circular Quay.

A VICTORY FOR "POILITE."

The WAR OFFICE use BRITISH-MADE "POILITE" Asbestos Cement Sheets and Tiles. THE BRITISH WAR OFFICE and other Government Departments of England and in the Commonwealth are using, and specify "POILITE" for their requirements in England. They have recently placed orders for about 2,000,000 SQUARE FEET (or 2500 TONS), under a three years' contract awarded to the makers.

"POILITE" Sheets for Walls, Ceilings, Partitions, etc., are fire-proof, ant-proof, climate-proof, non-absorbent, as cheap as weather-board, and as durable as stone.

THE MILL THAT WILL. DANKS' "BILLABONG" WINDMILL WILL— Save you money, Save you worry, Save you repairs, Save you lubricating expense.

DANKS' "BILLABONG" WINDMILL WILL please you by its simplicity of structure, its superior galvanising, its light running, its easily replaced bearings, its perfect governing device, its self-lubricating, its provision against every contingency.

Many years of experience behind it—experience of a firm that has progressed all the time. We say it is the Mill that will—you will say it's a gilt-edged investment.

Pull it to pieces—compare it with any—you'll then buy a "Billabong."

FURTHER PROOF OF DICK'S BELTS, MADE IN SCOTLAND.

Dear Sir,—In response to your question as to what I think of Dick's Belts, after years of experience with all kinds of belts, including other Balatas, I can safely say there is no other belt yet on the market to equal Dick's Belts for woodworking machines; the high speeds and small pulleys on this class of machinery require the utmost strength, combined with pliability. I find Dick's require so little attention they are practically trouble-proof, and last such a long time; they are the most economical belts I can use, both as regards cost and efficiency. I cannot too strongly recommend anyone giving them a trial on any drive where great grip or speed are desired. Yours faithfully, F. J. FRANKLIN, per A. and E. ELLIS.

Dick's Belts are the most economical where efficiency and durability are taken into consideration. For modern high speeds Dick's Belts remain unrivalled. Beware of the numerous cheap imitations. Any length delivered promptly. 'Phone, 6230 City. J. HARDIE and CO., Sole Importers, C. Quay West. Newcastle Stocks, PAUL and GRAY, Ltd.

FACE MASSAGE has been proved to be the best means to restore the contour of a withering face and drooping contour. It cleans the skin of a clogged or retained sebaceous matter, intermingled with dirt and infective germs, that cause inflammatory skin lesions, such as PIMPLES, BLACKHEADS, DISCOLORATIONS, Shrivelling, and Premature WRINKLING, and at the same time a new life is given to the sluggish circulation with a persistence that eventually builds up the sunken hollows, and produces a HEALTHY GLOW and TEXTURE. GRACE BROS., THE MODEL STORE,

BROADWAY.

THE CHILDREN'S CARNIVAL.

OFFICIAL OPENING by SANTA CLAUS TO-DAY, AT 12 NOON.
GRAND COMPETITIONS FOR CHILDREN 12 YEARS OF AGE AND UNDER.

The Opening of "THE CHILDREN'S CARNIVAL" will take place at 12 noon to-day, in our TOY DEPARTMENT, and all who have received invitations are requested to be present. Being essentially an attraction for Children, we have specially invited SANTA CLAUS, so that the little ones would have an opportunity of seeing him before he makes his rounds later on in the Season.

In addition to "SANTA CLAUS" at "THE CHILDREN'S CARNIVAL" we have engaged a "MARIONETTE" SHOW, who will present the following programme each afternoon:—

Eugene Sandow...... Roman Ring Performer.
Susanna Schaefer.... (Risley Wonder)
Arnold-de-Bierre.... Magician
Schenk Bros.......... Gladiators
Johnson and Dean. Coloured Aristocrats
Mary Wirth........... Famous Bareback Rider
Maude Allen.......... Salome Dancer, with Ballet.
COMICAL INTERMEZZO and BALLET.

After seeing THE MARIONETTES, SANTA CLAUS wants every little Boy and Girl to write a letter telling him how they enjoyed them, and for the best letters received, many handsome Prizes will be given. Every Child visiting "THE MODEL STORE" can enter this Competition, providing they are either 12 years of age or under.

Further particulars of the Competition will be found below.

OUR "LETTER-WRITING COMPETITION." AND HOW TO ENTER.

GRACE BROS.' LETTER-WRITING COMPETITION is free and open to every Child under 12 years of age. All you have to do is to come to "THE CHILDREN'S CARNIVAL" and see THE MARIONETTES and WONDER CAVES, and when you get home write a letter to SANTA CLAUS, c/o THE MODEL STORE, telling him how you enjoyed them.

For the best 52 letters received on this subject, many grand Prizes will be given. The Prizes will be divided equally between Girls and Boys.

For the purpose of judging the best letters, the following points will be considered:—1st, SPELLING AND COMPOSITION; 2nd, WRITING; 3rd, NEATNESS.

There will be two divisions—Boys and Girls 7 years and under, and Boys and Girls 8 to 12 years.

THE FOLLOWING ARE THE RULES GOVERNING OUR LETTER-WRITING COMPETITION:—
STUDY THESE CAREFULLY.

No. 1.—GRACE BROS.' decision must be considered as final.
No. 2.—Competitors must write on one side of the paper only, and should not exceed 100 words.
No. 3.—Full name, address, and age of Competitor must appear at the bottom left-hand corner of Letter.
No. 4.—Letters must be in Child's own handwriting, and signed by the Child writing the Letter.
No. 5.—We recommend the use of Writing Blocks, so that all paper used will be uniform in size.

SPECIAL—FOR TO-DAY ONLY

OUR 6/11 PRINTED COTTON BED-SPREADS

YOU CAN SECURE FOR 5/11.
(OUR DAILY SPECIAL LINE).

This means a decided saving if you purchase one to-day; to-morrow they will be marked at the usual price.

WHAT THE BEDSPREADS ARE LIKE.

They are of cotton, printed in a neat trellis design in several colourings. Altogether, they are splendid summer bed-coverings, as they are light and cool, and give a fresh and pleasant look to a bedroom. Then they will launder time after time, the colours being absolutely fast.

WHAT ARE THE COLOURS?

White Grounds, with nattier and buff.
White Grounds, with violet and old gold.
White Grounds, with cardinal and olive.
The size is 2 x 2½ yards, suitable for single beds.

We will send at the special price these spreads, carriage paid, to any part of Australasia if the order is mailed immediately on receipt of this paper.

HURRY IN TO SNOW'S "HURRY-OUT."

SUMMER FROCKS FOR MAIDS AND LITTLE WOMEN.

"The girl in her teens and the young woman who is too small to be fitted properly from the average Showroom stock are rather neglected," said someone in our hearing quite recently. We invited her to step into and see the well-assorted stocks devoted to the requirements of the very persons about whom she spoke.

SNOW'S

SPECIALTY MAIDS' DEPARTMENT

She saw Dolly Varden MAIDS' ROBES, measuring 42 to 50 inches from neck to hem, with smart Raglan yokes and folded silk belts, at 14/11. And similar styles with lace collars at 15/11.

She also saw White Voile MAIDS' ROBES in the new basque effects, with hemstitchings. The full Magyar yokes and the trimmings of imitation Maltese lace and insertion, with front of bodice simulating a vestette, were style touches nobody could fail to notice. Price, only 13/11.

In addition, there were heavily embroidered Voile MAIDS' ROBES, with yokes and sleeves defined by very fine beading. 19/11.

And White Voile MAIDS' ROBES, with Pompadour Collars, Cuffs, and Belts, at 10/9.
White Jap. Silk MAIDS' ROBES, with turned-over collars, set in sleeves, folded belts, and trimmings of fancy buttons, at 24/6.
And, lastly, some Striped Pique MAIDS' ROBES, with knee fold, Collar, Cuffs, and pipings of White Pique. 9/11.

This same lady turned from the Robes to the Skirts to find Snow's had provided equally well in this department for Maids and Little Women. These principal values are worth noting.

MAIDS' WHITE LINEN SKIRTS, with belted back, deep hem and tuck down front—finished crochet buttons. 5/11.
MAIDS' WHITE SPONGE CLOTH SKIRTS, double basque effect. Large crochet buttons. 14/6.
MAIDS' CREAM, NAVY AND BLACK SERGE SKIRTS, IN STRIPED EFFECTS, strapped at back, and frilled in front at waist. 14/11.

"ABE" LINCOLN ONCE SAID—
"I DON'T THINK MUCH OF THE MAN WHO ISN'T WISER TO-DAY THAN HE WAS YESTERDAY."

HE MIGHT HAVE SAID, IN TRUTH, THAT IF A STORE ISN'T BETTER TO-DAY THAN YESTERDAY IT'S NOT OF MUCH SERVICE TO THE PUBLIC.

IT WOULD BE VERY MUCH LIKE THE WOMAN WHO WORE HER LAST YEAR'S GOWN TO THIS YEAR'S FORMAL PARTY. SHE MAY HAVE BEEN THE "HIT OF THE SEASON" LAST YEAR, BUT SHE FINDS THE SPOT LIGHT HAS MOVED WHEN SHE FAILS TO KEEP UP WITH THE LEADERS.

THIS STORE WILL NEVER BE CONTENT TO "LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE."

SOME OF THE FINER ROBES ARE TO BE MOVED OUT TO-DAY.

Each one is really exclusive, dainty white creations, ready for present wear. Among them expect to find such wonderful things as:—

3½-GUINEA DRESSES of WHITE EMBROIDERED VOILES and FLOUNCINGS, fully 30 different styles, some with scalloped edges, some with flounces, whilst others have tunics tastefully trimmed with Val. lace and Irish rochet. Robes for which you would pay 4½ to 5 guineas.

AT 42/ there are quite 30 different styles of Cotton Voile Robes, some with tunic effects, others with scalloped edges; others, again, have panel fronts, and some quite plain.

All are very smartly made and trimmed, finished with Sash, Belts. Usual Price, 49/6. Now offered at 42/.

AT 14/11.—THE BEST VALUE IN SYDNEY TO-DAY.—White Cotton Voile Robes, in one style only. They are nicely finished Val. Lace and Insertion, Raglan sleeves, outlined with lace, and collar of imitation lace and insertion. Skirt has hemstitched fold, forming tunic effect. Trimmed with satin belt, in various shades. A Gift at 14/11.

HASTE TO TEST THE TASTE OF ARNOTT'S "GOOD LUCK" BISCUITS.

They stand absolutely unsurpassed in the realm of sweetened Biscuits. When they are compared with Biscuits of their kind, argument ceases. The test of taste and purity tells the difference.

Two things make Arnott's "Good Luck" Biscuits superior—the "Arnott" flavour and the "Arnott" freshness.

The pure butter flavour of "Good Luck" Biscuits is not the flavour of all sweetened Biscuits, and the reliable freshness of "Good Lucks" is the result of careful packing in airtight tins.

Buy a tin of these delectable Confections to-day—buying in this way ensures the Biscuits being absolutely oven-crisp and fresh.

To buy Arnott's "Good Luck" Biscuits by the pound is as fatal as to buy other Biscuits without insisting on

"ARNOTT'S!"

JOHN STRANGE WINTER'S
LAKSHMI CREAM AND CREME MARQUISE.

To keep the skin in perfect condition, these two preparations should always be in conjunction, as one is a perfect complement of the other.

Gentlemen will find Lakshmi invaluable for daily use after shaving. Creme Marquise freely applied to cuts will check bleeding almost instantly, and will restore the skin to its normal condition in a very short time. For sores, wounds, cuts, and abrasions, spread the cream on lint or old linen, and lay it on the affected parts. It can be applied safely and with benefit to the tenderest membrane.

PRICE.
LAKSHMI CREAM, 3/ Jar.
CREAM MARQUISE, 1/6 Tube.
